

CO. COUNCIL THINKS OF VOTING MACHINES

Late Law Requiring Registration of Voters Will More Than Double Usual Election Expense--Can Save By Use of Voting Machines.

The County Council is earnestly considering the purchase of voting machines for Marshall county.

Mr. J. M. Greer resigned from the board and in his place Mr. O. A. Greiner has been appointed for Center township.

In their discussion of the matter at their special session this week the members ran up against a hard proposition in the form of the new Registration law.

This registration (see Acts 1911, page 371-384) is to be done before a Registration board consisting of three members, each of whom shall receive $4.00 per day for his services.

This additional expense Marshall county will have to meet if the old system of voting is continued. The only way the Council can see of heading it off is to buy voting machines for the county.

Registration $60 per prec. $ 840 Election, 14 boards of 5 members each, one day only..... 731

Nature of the Machine. The only difficulty in the way of the change from the present voting is to teach the voter to do his voting. That, however, is not so difficult a proposition as it seems at first thought.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT LOUIS E. STEINEBACH

Mr. Steinebach has served for four years and has made a good officer. His work has been thorough, conscientious and up-to-date, and the failure of the trustees to elect a successor on June 5th, leaves him to continue his good work for four years longer.

SUPT. STEINEBACH IN FOUR YEARS MORE

Failure of Democratic Trustees to Obey Law Allows Present Officer To Hold Over the Same as If Elected--No Action Now for Four Years.

County Superintendent Louis E. Steinebach will, according to the law and the decision of the Supreme court, hold his office four years more.

The failure of the four democratic trustees to obey the law and meet on Monday, June 5, to elect a successor has resulted in this condition, much to the chagrin of the democratic candidate for the place and those democratic managers who thought they had planned a brilliant "coup d'etat" in the violation of the law.

It was the democratic plan to prevent the election on June 5 by staying away. They did only under the strenuous insistence of Mr. Rizer and some of the democratic leaders. It is understood that the four democratic trustees wanted to meet, and auditor Walker wanted them to meet and a number of other democrats also thought it best to obey the law and meet regardless of consequences; but other counsel prevailed, so there was no election on the day which the law set for the election.

The republican trustees were ready to perform their duty according to law, but they were not enough to form a quorum, so they could do nothing but sit there all day and wait for the democratic trustees, who were in town all day long, but who came not to the meeting at any time during the day.

At an official board meeting Friday night the officials of the Methodist church passed a motion stating that when they build their church they will build new instead of remodeling the old house.

As to how much is to be spent in the building was not decided. A motion to adjourn carried with it the stipulation that the matter of cost of the new building be taken up at the Quarterly conference which is to be held next Friday.

SAYS FREEDOM HAS BEEN LOST

LINDBERGH OF MINNESOTA ATTACKS CAUCUS SYSTEM--SAYS IT IS TREASON--HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES IS NO LONGER FORUM OF PEOPLE.

Washington, June 14.—Representative John Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, one of the best known of the Republican old guard, expressed his opinion in the house on Woodrow Wilson.

Mr. Dalzell was discussing the Underwood wool revision bill, which was before the house. He was not surprised that Governor Wilson had endorsed the Underwood bill, in view of the governor's recent performances. He added that "New Jersey's peripatetic governor is engaged in writing backwards the same and respectable record of his life."

"Politicians are liars," announced Representative Lindbergh, of Minnesota, in beginning an attack on caucus-ridden members and caucus-framed legislation.

"This house," cried Mr. Lindbergh, "has ceased to be the forum of the people. In that capacity it has gone out of business. A few more than half of the representatives have renounced their rights, lent themselves to a caucus system and are willing that the caucus action should take the responsibility of the individual membership of an individual mind. No member has any influence after the caucus has once made its decision. No act or speech in the house now changes the result of the caucus action. The house has capitulated to an unofficial body known as the Democratic caucus."

"I am talking against treason. I unflinchingly say that any member who surrenders his action to the control of a caucus violates his oath, is a traitor to his constituency and commits treason against his country."

Representative Willis of Ohio, a new member, made a speech devoted to the interests of the Ohio sheep raiser and against the Underwood wool revision bill. Mr. Willis declared that the sheep raisers of Ohio were small farmers and that the reduction proposed by the Democratic wool measure would hit thousands of these farmers all over the state and result disastrously.

The employees and their families of the Pan Handle shops at Logansport held their annual picnic at Calver Tuesday. The excursion trains brought in about 3500 people.

Recent reports that the Pennsylvania railway company had bought out the owners of the new interurban railway from South Bend to Plymouth have been circulated, and many are beginning to think that the new road will not be built by the present company at all.

In recent conversation with a Republican reporter Mr. S. S. Perley, president of the interurban company, stated that there was no truth in the statement that his company had sold out to the Pennsylvania. "You know," said Mr. Perley, "that the Pennsylvania does not do that kind of business." Talking of the matter further, Mr. Perley said that the company had had trouble in financing the road. The disturbance of the bond market by court decisions, or expected court decisions, as well as other financial troubles in the country had made bond market bad--so had indeed that the company had not yet been able to float their securities. We have now connections with a firm who are dealing direct with Europe, said Mr. Perley, and we hope to be able to raise the necessary money before long.

"I am going to build that road if I never do another thing in this life," declared Mr. Perley. "I can't say how long it will take, but it is going to be built. All reports to the contrary are not to be believed. As you know, all such matters take time, and can not be done as soon as we would like them. We must wait on the action of others and in this case cannot go farther until we sell our bonds. I have put into this project already all the money I had or could borrow and now we have a good thing. Our red bed and right of way is a valuable one and will stay there until the road is completed."

A program of music was a pleasing feature of the evening.
