

Silence!

The instinct of modesty natural to every woman is often a great hindrance to the cure of womanly diseases. Women shrink from the personal questions of the local physician which seem indecous. The thought of examination is abhorrent to them, and so they endure in silence a condition of disease which surely progresses from bad to worse.

It has been Dr. Pierce's privilege to cure a great many women who have found a refuge for modesty in his offer of FREE consultation by letter. All correspondence is held as sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores and regulates the womanly functions, abolishes pain and builds up and gives the finishing touch of health on every weak woman who gives it a fair trial.

It Makes Weak Women Strong, Sick Women Well.

JUDGE R. S. LOVETT

Who Influences Changes of Policy on Harriman Lines.

GEN. MANDERSON DEAD

Nebraska Man Passes Away on Atlantic Liner.

His Health Had Been Falling for Some Time and European Trip Was for Possible Benefit.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 29.—General Charles M. Manderon of Omaha died on board the White Star liner Cedric shortly after leaving Liverpool, en route to this country from Europe where he has been spending the summer.

The news of his death was received here by cable. General Manderon has been in poor health for more than a year, and several months ago was taken to Vienna and other European cities for medical treatment. No relief was found and he started for home accompanied by his party.

General Charles Manderon was United States senator from Nebraska from 1883 to 1895 and was president pro tem of the senate in the Fifty-first and Fifty-second congresses. Since 1865 he had been general solicitor of the Burlington railroad system west from the Missouri river.

He was born in Philadelphia, Feb. 9, 1837. He was educated in the Philadelphia public schools. Removing to Canton, O., in 1856, he studied law, was admitted to the bar in 1859 and in 1860 was elected city solicitor. He raised a company of three months' volunteers in 1861, was commissioned as captain in the Nineteenth Ohio infantry and when mustered out he enlisted to the army of the Cumberland and was colonel of his regiment in the battle of Shiloh. At the battle of Lovejoy's Station, in Georgia, in 1865, he was so severely wounded that he had to resign his commission with the brevet of brigadier general.

General Manderon was the author of "Twin Seven Shooters," published in 1902. He was president of the American Bar association in 1901 and 1902.

FINDS BODIES OF DROWNED

Crawfordsville Man Identifies Corpses of Wabash Alumni.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Sept. 28.—The bodies of Albert C. Jennison of this city and Donald Adams of Columbia City, graduates of Wabash college, who were drowned in a stream in Canada more than two months ago, have been recovered.

J. Newton Fullenwider of this city went to Canada upon receiving the news of the drownings and has identified both bodies. Mr. Fullenwider telegraphed friends here from Edmonton, Alberta, stating that the bodies had been found. Jennison's body will be brought here and Adams' body will be taken to Columbia City.

TAFT AGAINST UNJUST ENMITY

Says that Much Business Success Is Deserved.

TRUSTS MUST OBEY THE LAW

President Advocates Prevention of Abuse of Monopoly and Undue Advantage, but No Opposition to Prosperity Per Se.

Waterloo, Ia., Sept. 29.—To check unjust prejudice against the business enterprise of the country was the appeal with which President Taft faced the middle west.

In an address on the relation of the government to business of the country, which he delivered here before an outdoor audience of several thousand people the president said that the people of every section and class of the country were all in the same boat and that to persist in sectional vindictiveness against the prosperity of another section of the country would enforce business prostration throughout the land as surely as night follows day.

"We are all tossed by the same waves," he cautioned them.

The comment upon the speech, as to how it would be received in the insurgent district and particularly in this agricultural state was too varied to allow of any conclusion. Mr. Taft was not applauded very much, but the crowd gave him the closest attention.

His address was a clear effort to point the way "down the middle of the road."

The president advocated progress in the movement to prevent the abuses of monopoly and undue advantage, but declared that the time had come to call a halt in hostility to business and mere prosperity or success. He asserted that generally the laws now enacted were sufficient to assure the correction of those evils and counseled only helpful legislation for the future. At the same time he emphasized his determination to enforce those laws.

The attorney general, he said, was acting under his orders in the prosecution of the trusts and had no discretion whatever to stay the hand of the government and so long as such combinations existed they would be prosecuted under the law.

Mr. Taft spoke to audiences in eight Iowa towns. In most of his speeches he discussed his tariff veto and he dwelt several times upon the promise that he would recommend such tariff revision to congress within three months as would conform to the demands of the Iowa Republican state platform for a scientific revised tariff. He said that when he did this he wanted the people of Iowa to support him and that if he did not do it they could punish him as they saw fit.

Senator Cummins, the insurgent Iowa senator, was conspicuously absent from the delegation of state officials who welcomed the president to Iowa.
