

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Ingredients printed on wrapper.

Rampant Patriotism.

Frederick F. Freylinghausen, of Tuxedo Park, was discussing at a luncheon at Narragansett Pier the subject of patriotism.

"Modern thinkers tell us," he said, "that patriotism is disappearing, that man's mind is so developing that he can now love not only his own country and his own people but other countries and other people as well. These modern thinkers claim that there remains little of that old, narrow feeling which prompted the villager to say, 'There goes a stranger; heave a brick at him.'"

"But, be this as it may," continued Mr. Freylinghausen, "I find patriotism most ardent among the world's most highly civilized nations. Yes, there are no patriots anywhere like those of France."

"The Frenchman loves his country so well that he never—or practically never—emigrates. I once knew in Paris a poor man who to better his fortune, emigrated to New York. But he returned to Paris again after a few years."

"How did you do in America? I asked him one day."

"Oh, very well," he answered, gazing forth at the crowded and gay boulevard.

"But Ed rather be a gas lamp in Paris, than president of the United States."—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

REV. CURNICK SUCCEEDED BY REV. TILLOTSON

NEW SUPERINTENDENT FOR THE SOUTH BEND DISTRICT CHOSEN BY METHODIST CONFERENCE.

HANLY MAKES SPEECH

Former Governor Says Some Sharp Things To Lay Meeting On Temperance Question In State.

The Rev. Paul Curnick, superintendent of the South Bend district, made his report, which showed that since 1905 the church stall rentals had increased from $140,000 to $525,500 and there was an increase of $25,000 in parsonages. The collections for benevolence increased largely and the superintendent's announcement that salaries also had been increased and his recommendation that the minimum salary should be $800 and a parsonage, were applauded. Mr. Curnick's term as superintendent has expired and he will be succeeded by the Rev. Demetrius Tillotson of Lafayette.

Speech by Hanly. One thousand five hundred persons crowded the First church, the meeting being designated as "Layman's night" with ex-Governor J. Frank Hanly as the attraction.

The former governor discussed the temperance laws exclusively. He told his story of the enactment and repeal of the county option law which he said, was winning its way to popular approval and its repeal was not asked by any interests except the liquor traffic. He said the Republican platform last year was dictated by one man and adopted by less than a majority of the convention. He said it was done in alliance with the liquor traffic "and yet men have the effrontery to say the election was lost because the party stood for the county option law. The party organization did not favor the law and acquiesced in its murder. The organization would allow no speaker to say a word in its favor."

Mr. Hanly quoted his letter to Chairman Lee asking if the party organization would resist its repeal, and said the chairman did not reply, leaving the inference that Hanly had said in his letter would be justified if there were no reply, that the committee was opposed to the law. He quoted Governor Marshall as advocating its repeal because it could not be enforced, and discussed the question of the duty of officers of the law to enforce law.

"Enforcement and not repeal is the remedy for broken laws," he said. He pledged his efforts either for the reenactment of state-wide prohibition.

Mr. Hanly devoted, perhaps, half his time to the Procter regulation law to show that the traffic will obey no law. He told of the promises made in its behalf and quoted from the Indianapolis newspaper at the time of its passage, and Governor Marshall, when they said the law would elevate the traffic and that the brewery interests and the traffic generally would comply with it, because it was a law they wished.

Then he described how it is being disobeyed in the cities of the state, citing conditions in Indianapolis, particularly, and with special reference to open saloons on holidays in the seven months since it had been in existence. He quoted from the same newspapers following Labor day last month to show that these newspapers furnished testimony that their own arguments of last March were not well founded.

Saved His Mother's Life.

"Four doctors had given me up," writes Mrs. Laura Gaines of Avoca, Ia., "and my children and all my friends were looking for me to die, when my son insisted that I use Electric Bitters. I did so, and they have done me a world of good. I will always praise them." Electric Bitters is a priceless blessing to women troubled with fainting and dizzy spells, backache, headache, weakness, debility, constipation or kidney disorders. Use them and gain new health, strength and vigor. They're guaranteed to satisfy or money refunded. Only 50c at Fred Wenzler's.
