Patronize home industry, take your watch and clock repairing to W. D. Lillybridge. Work not as good as by Chicago workmen, but better and more conscientious and prices right.
When two men of reputed intelligence drive twelve miles in the darkest, most rainy and dreary night of the season to see the Sun, they may mildly be termed somewhat enthusiastic.
John Losey is suffering from sunach poisoning. At present this ailment seems quite fashionable, but like tight shoes and high collars it has its drawbacks when it comes to personal comfort.
The cold weather signs the old settlers believe in, that the coons and possums have extra thick fur and the geese are growing lots of feathers are signs of cold weather, may be all superstitions and bosh, yet nevertheless, the coons and possums show great wisdom by being on the safe side.

Michael Speichhofer was struck over the left eye one morning this week with a heavy cane in the hands of a man to whom he had refused to give a drink. A bad and painful cut was the result.
The INDEPENDENT after this week will be mailed regularly every Friday. Any subscriber failing to receive their paper within a reasonable time, will confer a favor by notifying this office.
During those frequent changes in the weather you are liable to contract a severe cold and lead to a long spell of sickness, call on J. W. Hess the Druggist and get a remedy in time to prevent it.
Services were held at the German church last Sunday evening, conducted by the Rev. C. Bollinger. The evening service was held in commemoration of the 377 anniversary of the Reformation.
In our first issue we stated that V. P. Church had been nominated as prohibition candidate for justice of the peace of Center township. This was an error; it should have been V. P. Kirk.
Burner D. Becknel, infant daughter of Milo and Lula Becknel, living six miles south of Bremen, died Oct. 24th, 1894. Funeral at the Dunkard church near Inwood by U. B. Pastor from this place.
A peoples party meeting at Burr Oak on Monday evening was largely attended, and many comments in favor of the issues were made by those present. Jas. Reeve of Plymouth made a rousing speech.

Blanche Highshew, 10 year-old daughter of Leonard Highshew, who resides seven miles northeast of Plymouth, died of typhoid fever Oct. 27. The remains were interred in the Bourbon township cemetery.
Both the local bands went to Argos, on Saturday. The Baylor Band is a little crude from a harmony standpoint but shows rapid signs of improvement and with continued practice bids fair to rival the Harris band.
If you have friends or relatives living away from Plymouth, and desire to send them a copy of the INDEPENDENT, we will be glad to assist you. Leave their names at this office and a copy will be sent free of charge.
Reports are in circulation regarding the existence of Diphtheria in the southern part of Marshall county. Active measures should be taken to prevent the spreading of this dreadful disease. Prompt action is necessary.
The Marshall County Independent is anew paper published at Plymouth. It is a bright and newsy paper chucked full of local news and well filled with home ads. Success to the new proprietor.—The Bremen Standard
There is a new outbreak of smallpox at Walkerton. Three new cases are reported and it is rumored that there has been one death this week, but up to the time of going to press we have received no confirmation of the rumor.
Charles Larue and Dan. Kemp had an altercation Saturday evening, which ended in Larue knocking Kemp down. Larue was taken before Justice Lauer, plead guilty to assault and battery, and was fined ten dollars and costs.
A large electric crane of sixty thousand capacity built by the Shaw Electric Crane Company of Muskegon, Michigan, went through on the Pennsylvania road Wednesday. The main truss of the crane reached the length of two flat cars.
One of the several things we have found Plymouth badly in need of, is more rental property, both for residence and business. If the town is expected to grow there must be some place provided in which men with families may move.
The horse and buggy hired by two men from S. E. Jacox some three weeks ago, was discovered in a livery barn at South Bend, where they had left the rig to be called for by the owner. The horse was in good condition and had evidently been well cared for.
Mr. John J. Guipe and daughter, and Mrs. Harry Humrichouser of Pierceton, Indiana, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Humrichouser of Plymouth, this week. Mr. Guipe is a prominent citizen of Elkhart, Indiana, and was for many years a member of the board of education of that city.
The true hero in agricultural circles, says the Tazewell county (Ill.) Tribune, is the feller who can husk and crib one hundred bushels of corn per day. These are the boys who can take the prettiest girls to dances and spelling schools this winter, and who will take the cake at all the kissing bees.
In the face of the alarming reports received from Walkerton, of the spread of small pox in that district, it is only right that every known precaution be taken to avoid if possible any chance of infection in other cities. A petition was forwarded to Dr. Wilson of this city, signed by fourteen citizens of Teegarden asking that the board of health take means to isolate Andrew J. Keck and wife, who came to that place after being exposed to infection at Walkerton. Dr. Wilson at once took vigorous and efficient measure with a view to public protection. From advice from the president of the board of health at Walkerton, it is learned that Keck and wife escaped from quarantine in that city, Oct. 25th.

W. L. Moyer, cashier of Trust Saving Bank, of Chicago, Ill., was in the city this week and visited the city schools. Mr. Moyer was formerly a prominent teacher of Wabash and North Manchester, but for several years has been engaged in the banking business wherein he has been remarkably successful.
John Bunnell's son Ray while playing with a target gun on Monday morning last, accidentally shot himself through the center of the right foot. The ball entered near the toes and passed through the foot. Doctor Wilson dressed the wound which is painful but not dangerous. Here is another case of "didn't know it was loaded."
O. B. Holman of Rochester, Indiana, was in Plymouth on Tuesday on his return from South Bend, where he had his left eye removed by Dr. Shaffer of that city. His eye was injured by being struck by a rock some weeks since. The operation was every way satisfactory and there are hopes of saving the sight of the other eye.
It is possible that an amateur opera company will be organized in the near future amongst the musical talent of Plymouth. This is a step in the right direction, it is such organizations as this that serve to develop the latent talent of many a local Patti, or bring to the fore the histrionic ability of an embryonic Digby Bell or a De Wolf Hopper.
Are you aware that the INDEPENDENT has a first-class job department in connection with its office. We are prepared to do all kinds of printing on short notice, such as: Letter heads, note heads, statements, bill heads, envelopes, circulars, legal blanks, business cards, visiting cards, and in fact everything needed that can be produced at a printing office. We solicit a trial.
Warner and Kyser the liverymen of Argos are anxiously looking for the return of a smooth tongued stranger claiming to hail from Mentone, who hired a horse and buggy from them last Thursday ostensibly to drive to Donaldson. Up to the time of going to press no trace of the man or rig has been discovered. The horse was a dapple gray 15½ hands high weighing about 1150 and was hitched to a side bar buggy.
Wednesday was Halloween and gave the small boy an opportunity which he was not slow to improve. Many gates were missing on Thursday morning and the top of the flag staff upon which the weather signals are displayed was found decorated with a large wheelbarrow Halloween like taxes and the date for paying your subscription for a paper comes once a year and time honored clemency compels us "to grin and bear it."
About two and a half miles west of Tyner City where a wagon road is being built, the road bed for five hundred feet has suddenly sunk out of sight. Some thirty loads of gravel were placed on this spot last week, and on Friday that portion of the road was to all appearances as solid as any. Saturday morning it was found sunk and in its place was a slough ten feet deep. No cause has been discovered that could account for the phenomenon.
C. M. Welch left his safety bicycle in the rear of the store on Tuesday evening, and when he looked for it Wednesday morning it had disappeared. He mourned the loss of his "bike" and came to the conclusion that the same route as Louis Sults' wheel which was stolen last week, but by the exercise of a great amount of detective ability, he finally located it where some of his friends had left it for safe keeping. It cost half a dollar to square the storage bill.
Shrewd advertisers do not stop in dull times, but spread printer's ink thicker than ever. In rushing times money is plentiful and people are more likely to hunt you out, regardless of special bargains, but in duller times they scan a dollar closely. They as closely scan the paper to see where that dollar will go the farthest in goods purchased. This is so manifest that great advertisers and prosperous merchants do not relax their advertising pressure in dull times.
Nathaniel Andrews, an account of whose injuries by a Pennsylvania freight train appeared in last week's issue of the INDEPENDENT, died at 8 p. m. Saturday. Dr. Wilson after amputating his arm gave every attention possible to the case, but the shock to the system was so great that the patient could not rally and gradually sank till death released him from his suffering. The man's brother who lives in South Bend, when telegraphed to refused to do anything and did not even attend the funeral. The remains were interred Sunday in a pauper's grave. Such treatment as this injured man received at the hands of his relatives while slowly dying among strangers, is hard, to say the least, and a brother who is capable of such action must be wholly without a heart. No matter what the dead man's past may have been, it would seem that christianity and common humanity would have prompted any relative possessed of one spark of kindred feeling to have at least come to the bedside of his own brother. Such inhuman action will receive its own reward.
