

THE DAILY STAR.

TUESDAY APRIL 6

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN THE CITY.

WEATHER PREDICTIONS.

CINCINNATI, Tuesday, April 6.—Moon. Probably fair with occasional cloudiness and somewhat cooler the next 24 hours.

LOCAL BRIEVITIES.

THE Board of Education failed to obtain a quorum last evening. The watering carts are out to-day for the first time this season.

THE Society of Natural History will hold its annual meeting to-night at College Building.

In the Probate Court yesterday, one hundred foreigners received their final citizen papers.

THE Ludlow Baseball Club and the Boston Red Stockings are to play here on the 5th and 6th of May.

MR. WM. MATHERS' horse ran away on Vine street yesterday wrecking the buggy to which he was attached.

A BABY, about two weeks old, was found on the doorsteps, in the basement of premises, 111 Broadway, about 3 o'clock last evening. It was this morning sent to Sister Anthony's Home.

THE Cincinnati Pioneer Association meets to-morrow morning, at 10 o'clock, at the City Council Chamber, to observe the celebration of the anniversary of the settlement of Ohio, April 7, 1788.

THE First Congregational Society (Unitarian) held their annual meeting last night, and elected Trustees, viz: Alphonso Taft, Wm. Wiswell, John F. Dair, Thomas Vickers, and John D. Caldwell.

THE Temperance Fair last evening and to-day appears to be proving itself even more successful than could have been expected at the outset. The attendance is large, the order and arrangement excellent, the lunch fine and at reasonable rates, and the ladies agreeable and attractive. What more could be asked?

At the regular annual meeting of the Cincinnati Cleaning House Association held yesterday the following named gentlemen were elected officers for the ensuing year: President, D. J. Fallis; Vice President, Jas. Espy; Committee of Management, L. B. Harrison, H. B. Bissell, Hugh Colville; Manager, Geo. P. Bassett. The business for the year ending March 31, 1875, aggregated about six hundred and eighty million dollars.

The official libretto of the May Musical Festival has appeared. It is a very neat pamphlet of over fifty pages, containing the programme, names of the soloists, societies and orchestral performers who will participate, a list of the hall, and many pages of well written matter descriptive of the music to be performed. It has also the text of the various compositions. It is very handsomely gotten up and well arranged, and will be indispensable to the attendants upon the Festival and very useful to every body.

THE sale of seats for the May Musical Festival began this morning, and the rush for seats was unprecedented. Before midnight last night persons began taking their places at the doors of Colgate Hall, in order to procure seats, and remained there all night. By 10 o'clock this morning the crowd was immense, and when the doors were thrown open the rush for the ticket-seller was something wonderful, and at this time the sales are still going on as rapidly as the sellers can attend upon the waiting throng. This opening sale seems of itself to place the success of the May Festival beyond a doubt. The sale of seats will be continued to-morrow at Mr. John Church's music store.

THE Methodist ministers of the city yesterday adopted the following: "Rev. Jas. E. Gilbert, late pastor of Asbury, an active and efficient member of this Preachers' Meeting, and an eminently successful worker, having been transferred to the Kentucky Conference, and stationed at Lexington, we desire to assure him that he bears to his new field of labor our warm, fraternal regard and earnest prayers for his personal and ministerial well-being. We would also extend to his successor in Asbury, Rev. D. Steverson, late of Trinity, Louisville, and to Rev. D. H. Muller, D. D., the new pastor at Union, Covington, a hearty welcome to our Preachers' Meeting, and assurances of our cordial co-operation with them in whatever advances the cause of Christ."

Fare on the East End Route.

It will be seen by the following letter that two fares will be collected on the East End Route after to-morrow: OFFICE OF THE CINCINNATI CONSOLIDATED STREET RAILROAD COMPANY, CINCINNATI, April 6, 1875. Lewis Glenn, John S. Higginbotham and others: Gentlemen—When your communication of March 18, 1875, regarding a second fare at Washington street on Routes 6 and 7 was received the Company was disposed to accede to your request to await the action of the next Common Council, but further consideration and investigation of the effect of the decision of the Superior Court fixing low rates of fare on Route No. 9, together with the expense of operating so long a line as that over Routes 6 and 7, have led to the conclusion that a return to the former prices on the old Pendleton Line is a matter of immediate necessity, as the present rates on these three routes are destructive of the revenue of the Company.

In order to settle any and all questions at issue between this company and the city under the ordinance of March, 1873, I addressed a communication under date of January 5th last to the Common Council, calling their attention to the subject, and looking to the establishment of harmonious relations between this corporation and the municipal authorities.

We have thought that the subject thus brought to the attention of Council was of sufficient importance to warrant its consideration, but up to this date our effort has not met with such response as would justify expectation of action on the part of that body, inasmuch as the terms of the present organization is about to expire.

We believe that we have organized and perfected a system of roads that is of great utility to the people; that has greatly facilitated the growth of the city by the convenient means of transit it affords between all points near and remote, at a moderate rate of compensation, cheaper, indeed, than in any other city.

We feel also that there is no just ground for hostility toward this Company; that our rights, whatever they are, should be respected, as we are willing to observe and respect the rights of the city and the public. As a result we have decided that the Company can not have the benefits of the ordinance of March, 1873, we can not longer submit to its disadvantages.

By order of the Board of Directors, there will be a return to a second fare above Washington street on and after the 5th inst. Very respectfully, A. D. BARNES, President.

"EDUCATIONAL PROBLEMS."

Hon. Carl Schurz Will Solve Them at Pike's To-Night.

Hon. Carl Schurz is to lecture at Pike's this evening on "Educational Problems." The following is a full synopsis of the remarks which the learned gentleman will present to his audience:

He will begin by the statement that the question of how to educate is no better understood than in this country of free institutions. Popular education should furnish a remedy for all or nearly all of our social evils. But very few, he will say, know how or have formed opinions of their own as to the manner in which this should be done. The amount of learning acquired by our grandparents at school was confined to reading, writing, arithmetic, and occasionally a foreign language.

This amount of education for those who move in the same circles of society as did our grandparents, at the present day will not be sufficient; we must be taught more in order to keep our standing. It is better to teach children how to learn after their school days are over, he will say, than to cram them with specific knowledge that is generally forgotten. He will give instances of inventors who were generally considered, but which he does not believe were extraordinary. John Stuart Mill at three years of age acquired from his father a knowledge of Greek, that he will say—was no more difficult than for a German child to learn English from his playmates.

To show the great facility with which the infant mind acquires language and that too without great effort, he will cite the case of his own little girl. In the family at home she learned German, from her playmates English, and from her nurse French; she spoke them all correctly, did not get them mixed up, and that too before she was three years of age. He will say that he has no doubt she could also have acquired the Greek language in addition as well without doing her mind the least harm or "straining it."

Children should be taught to see and hear correctly, and then to describe in a proper manner the things seen. The kindergarten is designed to do this, and its principle is "object teaching," and children from one and a half to four years are here taught. As an instance of self-culture which illustrates correct sight in woman, he will state that a lady promenading the street in meeting another lady would, at a single glance, not only determine the material, color, making and style, but the probable cost of her entire wardrobe, and she would get it nearly correct every time. The education of females should be so conducted that they will be enabled to work their way through life without being obliged to depend upon a husband for a subsistence. No man or woman could know too much. No system of education, however, should be such as to stimulate women to work their way through the world alone. He wants woman to be married, and yet he wants her to be able to be above the necessity of depending entirely upon marriage for subsistence. He does not want to educate a woman only for household drudgery.

The wife or mother is the being, before all others, who holds the leading strings of society in her hands. She has her highest duties to perform, and therefore our girls should learn how to establish and organize a family home. He will refer to the boarding-house life. This life is resorted to in a majority of cases because the young woman can't keep house. To keep a family home requires culture of temper, the training of mind and heart, which inspires children with mental and moral training, and which makes husbands happy. This is the mother or the natural queen of the household. This position requires thought and judgment. Education should implant in the minds of girls notions of economy and order. Our girls should also be taught the art of pleasing.

This is not produced by a girl making her husband for hair, and gawgaws, and furbelows, and the increase of these scaffolds is more and more occasioning young men to visit clubs and remain in single bachelors. This, he will say, is a thing of melancholy significance, for when in a nation marriages are growing less in proportion to education, and the number of children is growing less in proportion to marriages, the very roots of society will begin to rot, the nation will crumble into nothingness; and nothing should a girl be taught more earnestly than this. Woman has been and will be the center of luxury, but she will also be the center of homely virtue. As she understands and performs her duty, she will be the good and evil genius of society; and she should be instructed in household economy. They should know what food and exercise is the best. They should know how to bring up their children with health and propriety. Our national disease is dyspepsia. It was said that during the late war doughnuts and pies—sent by friends at home—killed more of our soldiers than rebel bullets. He will say that he is not prepared to vouch for the perfect accuracy of the statement, though he believes there was some truth in it. Our girls should be taught sanitary cookery as well as acquire a knowledge of the best and most healthy articles of food. The number of deaths of children under five years of age in our cities is positively appalling; it is the result of ignorance of the proper manner of feeding children.

He will say that there is also a great ignorance regarding proper ventilation. All these things girls should know. They should acquire that mental activity which will make them capable of duty and know also how to perform it well. What we want are properly educated mothers. A lady once asked a teacher "When she should begin to teach her child?" "How old is the child?" was the question. "Four years." "You have lost four years already," the mother replied. And most responsible educator of the child and she should learn her work at the earliest possible moment. What then should a girl learn? What rather should she not learn? It is a serious view of life—a knowledge of duty—that our girls need most. Education should cultivate in woman a natural and aesthetic knowledge that will enable them, as mothers, to perform their duty. She is the good or evil genius of society, and if we fit her properly for her proper duty, she will be far greater than men can be. Mme. Pomplon replied to the late Napoleon when asked what is the best system of education: "Educate our mothers and you will educate the nation."

That far-seeing student of events acknowledged the truth of her statement. A proper regard for children, for becoming mothers, should be taught our girls. Too much regard is paid to mere ornaments. Cornelia, the Roman mother, when asked where were her jewels, pointed with pride to her nursing babe. The mother who gave the famous reply "these are my jewels." Too little regard is paid to the management of the household by our mothers. It is not considered fashionable to do anything that is considered labor.

Prince Bismarck's wife, he will say, is proud to carry the keys to her entire household at her belt. She performs all of the details of the work herself, and thinks more of the keys at her belt—which indicate the housewife—than she does of her diamonds.

Education should also teach us how to enjoy life. We complain that there are classes who are fond of drink. They seek relief from the repelling strains and dullness of work, and in drink they receive temporary forgetfulness. The bar-rooms are closed, but still, somehow, they will get drunk. The reason of the failure of the crusade movement is that nothing has been given to take the place of the recreation and amusements which are supposed to afford. Introduce, keep up healthy, elevating and attractive recreations, and there will be less drinking. One of the best sources of recreation is the cultivation of the beautiful in nature and art, city parks with out-of-door concerts in them in the evenings during the summer, and frequent musical entertainments in halls in the winter.

If our wealthy men wish to have their names gratefully remembered, they will contribute to such purposes and future generations will enjoy their munificence. One of the most potent elements of happiness is satisfied ambition. "History is the labor of the day are over, can turn his mind to pursuits which give him happiness and pleasure, and lifts from the mind the cares of toil and business.

He will conclude his lecture by asserting that political forms alone are not sufficient to permanently secure to a people liberty, strength and virtue. In their moral and intellectual life are the essential elements of all their greatness, strength and happiness. Without these they must crumble to the earth.

A PRAYER MEETING, union in its character, will be held this evening in the Y. M. C. A. Rooms. Young converts, and those who are awakened to the subject of religion, are requested to attend.

Mr. John K. Markill, of Norfolk, St. Lawrence county, N. Y., returned home late, having been detained by a storm, and going out some time after to care for his team, was just in the act of opening his stable door when he was seized from behind by a panther, which attempted to grapple his throat, and he was carried to the ground, falling on his back. So sudden was the attack that for a moment Mr. Markill was partly stunned, but quickly realizing his danger he attempted to draw his jack knife, at the same time calling loudly for help. In the mean time the animal had fastened his jaws on his throat, and he was carried from a tip of nose to tip of tail seven feet and a half, and a fur collar around his neck, the animal's teeth did not penetrate the flesh, although the pressure, as described by Mr. Markill, was such as to almost entirely prevent his breathing. His alarm brought to his assistance very soon a large and ferocious dog which at once fastened on the throat of the formidable foe. The animal then turned on his new antagonist, and for a moment a terrific battle ensued. After a prolonged struggle Mr. Markill succeeded in ousting the animal with a pitchfork and the dog's help. The panther measured from a tip of nose to tip of tail seven feet five and a half inches, was a brownish color, with legs rather short but thick and muscular.

The Post-office Department is in receipt of information from Germany to the effect that the supreme ratification of the Postal Convention concluded at Berne, Switzerland, in October of last year, for the establishment of a postal union, was accepted by His Majesty the Emperor of Germany, on the 27th of February last. This convention was ratified by the President and Postmaster-General, and the official documents were to-day forwarded through the Department of State to the American Minister in Switzerland, with power to exchange the ratification thereof at Berne.

DISCOVERED.

Dr. Price has, after a long series of experiments, discovered a new process of extracting the subtle flavor from every delicious fruit and aromatic. It has a Flavoring Extracts the characteristic taste and freshness of the real fruit is preserved and by his process so highly concentrated that but a small quantity is required to impart their peculiar flavor to any article in which they may be used. Ladies that wish something superior in the way of flavoring extracts or baking powder should purchase Dr. Price's or we can assure them that they are no equals. Dr. Price's Powder is not sold in bulk; loose powder sold as his is a fraud upon the public.

W e take pleasure in bringing before your notice the preparation of B. & T. Tonic Elixir, and Liquid Extract of Beef, made after the formula of SIR FRANCIS RANDOLPH, M. D., F. R. S., member of the Royal College of Doctors, London, England, which is recognized by the leading Physicians and Hospitals throughout Europe and the Continent, as the only efficacious and reliable Fluid Extract of Beef before the profession.

The Extract of Beef of which BARON VON LIEBIG, the great Chemist was the originator, and which has proven to be such a valuable preparation of food for sick persons and convalescents, has been improved upon by SIR FRANCIS RANDOLPH in a Liquid preparation direct from raw, lean Beef, combining Iron, Stimulants and Tonics, and having many advantages over the old form of Liebig Extract of Beef.

This is a standard pharmaceutical preparation and recommended in Constipation, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, and all disorders of the Stomach and Bowels; and in all cases where a tonic, stimulant and nutrient are needed, such as General Debility, Female Diseases, Dropsy, Liver Complaints with complications of the Kidneys and Bladder, and in all cases of Piles, whether brought on by natural causes or by the use of injurious medicines. In Consumption this medicine is invaluable as food, in cases where the ordinary articles of diet can not be digested on account of the extreme weakness of the stomach. In certain stages of Consumption, this medicine is not recommended to effect a cure (as some forms of the disease is incurable), but it may be taken with great benefit in such cases, and in others a cure may be hoped for. This is not a Patent Medicine, but a reliable Standard Pharmaceutical Preparation, put up in convenient form for family use and physicians' prescriptions. For sale by Physicians, Druggists and Grocers. Send one inclosing us $1.00 we will send one bottle and recipe of this favorite preparation, or we will send the recipe alone on the receipt of three cent stamp.
