ELECTRIC POWER

is in a class by itself. The electric motor never lays down, refusing to do business just when you need it most. You'll never need to call in a machinist to get you out of trouble. There's no dirt, no smoke, no oil, no grease, no explosive—none of the dangerous gasoline, and only requires oiling once in several months.

Can You Afford

to waste valuable time with antiquated driving power? Throw it away, give it to some one out in the country where electric current is not available.

Use the Day Electric Current You've been asking for it a long time.
