Rheumatism.

Rheumatism is a long-winded disease which is usually worn out about the same time the patient is. It is caused by a series of shooting pains settling in the bones of the human body, where they can not be reached by the family doctor or any other power on earth.

Rheumatism frequently lights upon its victim without the slightest warning. It is a disagreeable surprise to a man who is feeling sound and whole in every respect to have a rheumatic pain come in through an open window and bore a hole under his left shoulder blade, where it is harder to get at than a hip pocket in a kimono. Some of our greatest statesmen have been subject to a sudden attack of rheumatism which prevented them from voting on a prohibition resolution or a motion in favor of woman suffrage. In this respect rheumatism is almost as convenient as the sick headache which occurs just in time to prevent the sufferer from attending the morning service.

There are two kinds of rheumatism—sciatic and inflammatory—and people who have tried both prefer the electric chair. Sciatic rheumatism can sometimes be shaken off before it gets its second wind, the favorite method being to bury the patient up to his chin in antiseptic mud, but when the inflammatory kind takes hold in dead earnest the patient might as well begin to lay in supplies for a siege.

Rheumatism is most frequently contracted by people who work in water, such as washerwomen and mining stock salesmen. Thousands of women are now carrying fingers twisted out of shape by the rheumatism, as the result of trying to support a husband who is too exhausted to turn the wringer or do anything but figure out Ty Cobb's base hit record for the past four years. When a good old mother's back is bent with rheumatism, it is a bonny sight to see her upon the arm of a son who finds her just as beautiful as ever.

Some people are never wholly free from rheumatism, which lurks around in some bone which lies close to the surface and tells the owner what the weather may be day after tomorrow. While the weather bureau scoffs at these predictions, we would about as soon turn the word of a rheumatic knee-cap which throws off darting pains just before a thunder storm as to take stock in government forecasts, which miss the bull's eye on an average of four times a week.

Queer Quirks of News.

Ravenna, Neb.—Michael Kneiss has just turned 100 years of age. He says he has never spent a dollar for medical attention in his life. He is keen and alert mentally, and has all his teeth except two. Sullivan, Ind.—Frant Betnet, digging below the old Terre Haute and Vincennes trail, found a number of copper coins and white metal plates over 500 years old. The coins are dated 1410. One is marked, "Six pence, Henry VIII." One of the plates is engraved "On this 7th day of February, 1498, of our Lord, I, E., demand all nu land: John Cabot."

Los Angeles, Cal.—A prosperous looking man walked into the barber shop kept by Jack O'Reilly. After he had been shaved, he took out a wad of bills, peeled off a $50 note and said: "Here's a bit of a tip. Things have been coming my way lately." The barber did not refuse, but he is still weak. Carlock, Ill.—The champion office holder of America is dead at his home here. Joseph Zook was justice of the peace for 27 years, postmaster 30 years, town clerk 36 years and tax collector 40 years. He was 78 years old at his death.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—Bootleggers here have a regular code for ordering their goods by long distance telephone. One recently got the wrong man on the wire. The bootlegger said: "I have plenty of big pipe, but am entirely out of little pipe, and you may send along some soup." "Big pipe" means quart bottles of whisky, "little pipe" means pints and "soup" means beer. Comas, Mont.—A woman here recently had the distinction of bearing three names in one day. In the morning Mrs. Sadie M. Vaught obtained a divorce and her maiden name of Sadie M. Swisher was restored. In the evening she married Charles Sharpe and became Mrs. Sadie Sharpe.

Monroe, Wis.—Willard T. Saucerman, known as the "marrying magistrate" refuses to marry a woman who cannot bake bread. He asks the bride, if she can bake and do house work, and the groom if he has eaten and is satisfied with the woman's cooking. If the answers are unsatisfactory, he refuses to marry them.

Kissimmee, Fla.—Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bellard, of Washington are walking around the world to win $100,000. Within a period of six years they must visit every state in the union, sixty-nine countries and nineteen islands. One of the requirements is that they should deposit 13 cents in 13 banks of every state in the union and in one bank in every country. They have traveled 19,438 miles.

Denver, Colo.—Excise officialdom has declared that the mince pie be tabooed owing to the alcohol it contains. Colorado newspapers are having fun over the prohibition, claiming that the mince pie is older than the constitution and to strike at it is to endanger the foundation of our liberties.

Christina Vail.

Miss Christina Vail was born in Richland county, Ohio, July 18, 1836, and died at her home in Garden Grove, Dec. 26, 1915.

When about ten years of age she moved with her parents to Crawford county and from there later to Pittsburg, Iowa, where the family remained until 1862, when they permanently settled in Garden Grove, Iowa. For many years Miss Vail has resided in the community. She was a woman of rare virtues, and perfect temperament, never displaying impatience, never allowing herself to be moved to anger, always generous to the faults of others, and kindly disposed towards everyone. She has devoted her life unselfishly to the care of her parents during their life time, and after their death to the maintaining of a home for her sisters and brother.

To those who knew her best she will be most missed, and to all who bore acquaintance, she has ever stood in the relationship of a true and dependable friend. She leaves two sisters, Mrs. James Crowley of Chariton and Mrs. B. S. Wilson of Keosauqua, and James Vail of Garden Grove. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at the M. E. church by Rev. J. G. Duling and interment was in the Garden Grove cemetery.

For Rheumatism.

As soon as an attack of rheumatism begins apply Sloan's Liniment. Don't waste time and suffer unnecessary agony. A few drops of Sloan's Liniment on the affected parts is all you need. The pain goes at once.

A grateful sufferer writes: "I was suffering for three weeks with chronic rheumatism and stiff neck, although I tried many medicines, they failed. Fortunately I heard of Sloan's Liniment and after using three or four days am up and well. I am employed at the biggest department store in S. F. where they employ from six to eight hundred hands, and they surely will hear all about Sloan's Liniment." H. B. Smith, San Francisco, Cal.—Jan. 1915. 25c at all drug-gists.

Two Dollars for One.

It would seem that in view of the devastation wrought by the floods along Weldon river during the year 1915, that every man who owns land along the stream would wake up to the necessity of doing something to stop them.

A flood is worse than a drouth. A drouth merely destroys the crops while the land is left in good shape for the next season. A flood destroys the crops, washes the land, tears out fences and distributes driftwood and foul weed seed, making necessary a great deal of hard and unprofitable labor to get the land ready for the next crop.

Experience in other localities has proved conclusively that floods along such streams as Weldon can be obviated by straightening the channel. These tortuous channels—winding around from two to four miles in one, obstructed by weeds, brush and driftwood—will not carry over one-tenth of the water that a straight open channel of the same size will carry. Straighten the channel and you do away with the floods.

It will cost something to do it—we cannot say how much—but this we can say, "It will pay back two dollars for every dollar it costs."

No good business man would turn down a proposition that would return two dollars for one. Will it do it? Travel along the stream and see thousands of acres of the best land in the world covered with weeds, driftwood and wrecked fences and you have the answer.

Do away with the floods and you double the value of every acre of this overflow land. Land is only valuable for what it will produce. Land that produces nothing is worth nothing.

Straighten the stream and the surplus raised, over what can be raised now, will in a very few years liquidate the debt. Then if you like, go on after the debt is paid putting the surplus in the bank and it won't be long until you can own as long an automobile as the banker has, and own it as long as you want to.

Or you could take a trip to Paris after Henry Ford has restored peace to the warring nations of Europe.

While straightening the channel and preventing overflows would greatly benefit the land owner who pays the bill, it would also, in an indirect way, benefit every other person in the county. The more a farmer makes, the more money he has to spend with the people in other lines of human endeavor. He prospers and so do they.

It requires no argument to prove that an increase of wealth in any community is of benefit to all the people in that community.

Where there is nothing to eat, all must go hungry.

All other land owners would be benefited because there would be a general advance in the price of land. The value of land in any particular locality is based, largely, on the aggregate production of all the farms in that locality.

One rich man does not make a prosperous farming community. A few rich farms in a country where a great portion of the land is worthless does not make high priced land. Even good farms are cheapened by being in a poor country. The benefit to the whole community, of making all the land as productive as possible is easily seen. Let Decatur county farms produce in the aggregate even 10 per cent more than they do now and the price of all land will advance.

We have heard considerable talk lately, about straightening the "crik" and we are wondering if it is going to end there. Talk is alright for Billy Sunday or Billy Bryan. They have a brand of language people are willing to pay for. But common farmers' talk. Pshaw! All it is good for is to say—"Pass the soup, please," or "Won't you give me a little more time on that note?" It is also useful to use around the barn; also the house when the woman is absent. In fact we have never known a farmer who was great on language, who did not have a lot of wrinkles in his bread basket.

So let us get busy, get up a petition and if possible get every man who owns overflow land to sign it. Present it to the board, have a drainage district declared, and let the county go ahead and do the work, charging the same up to the land in a just and equitable way.

A. M. CHRISMAN, Garden Grove, Iowa, Jan. 3, 1916.

Crouching, shivering, freezing, dying in the trenches on Christmas day! Fortunate is the land that has the physical strength to avert a war.

DRINK SIX GLASSES OF WATER DAILY

An Interesting Statement by One of the Big Men in the Drug Business of Houston, Texas, says: "If you have a muddy complexion and dull eyes, you are constipated. Six glasses of water daily and one or two Rexall Orderlies at night will correct this condition and make you 'fit as a fiddle.' Rexall Orderlies, in my opinion, are the best laxative to be had, and can be taken by men, women or children."

A. E. KIESLING

BLIND 50 YEARS.

SIGHT RESTORED BY DR. WEBER

Mr. John G. Redinbaugh of Logan, Iowa, an old soldier of the civil war, now 79 years old, had an experience showing the help he received in an apparently hopeless case. He says: "About four years ago my right eye went blind with cataract. I had lost the sight of my left eye during the war fifty years ago, so I was helpless. I went to Omaha to one of the best oculists and he operated on my right eye. I stayed in the hospital for five weeks; had severest pains, but the result was a failure. I returned home and was advised to go to Dr. Weber, who often comes to Logan. He examined my eyes and said the right eye could not be helped, but Dr. Weber said he could help the left one that had been blind for fifty years. This seemed almost too good to be true, but Dr. Weber treated the eye and operated on it at the hospital and my wife did the caring of the eye afterward at home. I had no pain and my sight is restored." (Signed) J. G. Radinbaugh.
