Decatur County Good Roads.

For the first time in our lives, the editor of this paper is going to admit that there is another county in the state besides Ringgold county that can boast of good roads. We'll have to take off our hats to our sister county on the east as far as good roads goes; they have us beaten a mile. We had the pleasure of taking a trip with Artie Allen last Sunday in his big "Overland Six," going to Leon over the north road by the Alf Bigley farm. We believe a fellow could get in a car blindfolded and tell when he crossed the Decatur county line. Better bridges, better culverts, better graded and dragged roads. Why is it? Can any one tell? Someone is to blame for the condition of our roads in the last few years, now who is it? We will donate some space in this paper for the discussion of the road proposition. Who will start something?—Kellerton Globe.
