ABOUT CATARACTS

So much has been written and said about cataracts and still current general knowledge is very indefinite.

Cataracts develop INSIDE, not OUTSIDE of the eye ball. The eye ball is not taken out in removing the cataract. When the cataract has developed so sight is reduced to only distinguishing light then only the REMOVAL of the CATARACT by operation will offer any cure. An average of eighty out of one hundred of all cases operated obtain vision. Unless born with cataract or it follows injury or diabetes it rarely develops before sixty years of age. I operated for cataract for a lady who was eighty-eight years old with good results.

Cataract can be arrested by MEDICAL TREATMENT if treated in the early stages. I have cured hundreds with medicines in early stages. WHEN DIMNESS FIRST APPEARS IS THE TIME. Eighty-five out of a hundred are successful, about same percentage as operation, but when developed to practical blindness only removal by operation will cure.
