Food—the Problem of the Hour

THE need for food has the world in its grip. To produce more food we must depend upon gasoline power on the farm to multiply the efficiency of the man-power available.

The following interesting comparison of man-power vs. machine-power, required per acre is illuminating:

Crop (1 acre)	Man-Hours By Hand	Man-Hours By Machine
Barley	64	4.25
Corn	39	7.70
Cotton	16879
Hay	21	8.45
Oats	66	4.25
Potatoes	10938
Rice	6217
Rye	63	4.25
Wheat	61	4.25

The United States has changed from an agricultural into a semi-industrial nation. Never again will it see the day when 97 percent of its population dwells on farms. Yet the fact remains that the United States must feed itself, and the only way this can be done is through intensive soil cultivation, made possible by automotive machinery.

On the farms of the Middle West the gasoline tractor, truck, and automobile are multiplying the productiveness of man-power, and are doing their part in furnishing an adequate supply of food-stuffs.

Throughout this great section the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has developed a system of distribution which insures the farmer an adequate supply of gasoline and lubricating oils. This system is based upon huge storage depots, fed from three large modern refineries.

Anticipation of possible difficulties is but one of the many burdens the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) assumes in order that consumers of the Middle West may have their wants supplied.
