VILLA NEAR CAPTURE BY AMERICANS

Douglas. General Gomez, according to headquarters reports, was reported moving westward with a heavy column at a point northwest of Casas Grandes. It can be stated on highest authority that the unexplained Carranza movements, coupled with sudden activity on the part of influential Mexicans, is arousing keen anxiety at headquarters.

In order to save nearly 100 miles in the line of communications, Fun-ston's staff today had prepared detailed plans for moving the American terminus to a point near Olinaaga, opposite Presidio, Texas. According to the plan the line would extend in a southeasterly direction, passing below Chihuahua City. Funston does not intend to move the line immediately, but long delays in the transmission of official reports from the advanced columns was believed to have become an actual menace to the American forces, in view of other reports to headquarters.

Funston was anxiously awaiting reports of a clash with Villistas. Information to headquarters points to a contact of the advanced lines with those leading from Columbus, but despite this fact, news from the front is arriving only after long delays.

Sniping at Motor Trucks.
COLUMBUS, N. M., April 12.—Snip-ing was again reported by drivers of incoming army motor trucks today.
Bullet holes appeared in the body of one machine. Guards found a rifle behind a barricade below Casas Grandes. The snipers fled when the guards set out to give them battle. At headquarters here the firing is believed to have been done by small groups of bandits still roving behind the American expedition's advanced columns.

Care was taken today to prevent a lynching of the six Mexicans held here on charges of having participated in the Villista raid on Columbus. The military plans to turn them over to the civil authorities at Deming for trial on murder indictments.

Villa's Small Following.
WASHINGTON, April 12.—A cablegram from General Obregon to the Mexican embassy today said Villa, according to his reports, had gone into the mountains wounded, with less than 150 men.

The message from Queretaro said:
"I send the following from General Luis Gutierrez, chief of operations in Chihuahua:
"The bandit Villa has lost almost battles forced on him by our troops, and it is confirmed that he was wounded in the battle of Cienegueta.

General Luis Herrera informs me from Ciudad Guerrero that Villa has gone into the mountains, wounded and with less than 150 men. I have given orders for such necessary movements as will completely destroy the men who are taking care of him and which will cause his capture."

The Arrieta brothers, Carranzista leaders at Durango City, will not join Villa's raiders, according to a dispatch received today from Carranza's secretary by Ambassador Arredondo.
The dispatch said the Arrieta brothers have reassured Carranza of their fidelity. The first supply shipment, over the Mexican National railway with United States depot quartermaster at El Paso the consignor, left El Paso yesterday, destined for Parral. The shipment was four cars of oats and five of hay which General Funston reported he hoped would reach General Pershing via the Chihuahua consul.

This was the first time the Mexican National line has been used. If the consignment reaches Parral, other shipments will be forwarded in the same manner, as the line is more direct than the Northwestern.

PHYSICIANS' CLUB MET LAST NIGHT

Dentists of the City Were Entertained by Doctors at Their Regular Session.

Ten Physicians' club of Keokuk held its regular meeting last night in the Tiffany room of the Hotel Iowa.
There were about twenty-eight members of the club, with their guests, present at the event. The dentists of the city were the guests of the doctors at this meeting.

The program following the dinner was a very informal one. No set speeches were arranged for, the doctors replying informally as they were called upon. The meeting provided a most interesting time for the doctors and their guests.
