WEST POINT TRIP WILL BE POPULAR

Indications Point to Crowd of Enthusiastic Merchants From Keokuk on That Day.

OWNERS PROMISE AUTOS

Committee Has Extended Invitation to the Members of the Keokuk Automobile Club to Go Too.

Indications point to an attendance of 150 or more Keokuk people at the Community picnic at West Point on June 21. The committee in charge of the picnic, yesterday, visited the automobile owners of the city and secured the promise of twenty-four cars. There are several car owners yet to be seen, and it is estimated by one of the committee that there will be thirty-five cars on the trip a week from this coming Wednesday.

The committee in charge of the picnic is extending an invitation to the members of the Keokuk Automobile club to make the trip to West Point, June 21. The auto club members are privileged to bring their wives and make up their own parties, the only request that the committee makes is that they be notified in time to order dinner at West Point. If the Auto club members can find room in their cars for any of the merchants who haven't cars, if they will notify the committee it will be considered a favor. They can call 1253 and leave their names and number in party.

"The merchant who stays at home and sucks his thumb will feel pretty blue long about noon of June 21," one of the committee members said today. "This is taken to mean that all of the live merchants of the town are going on the trip and that a good time and a warm welcome awaits the Keokuk pilgrims at West Point."

CHARLES E. HUGHES IS NOMINATED

ed to mark time for the most part, watchfully waiting to see what happened at the Coliseum. On the surface, they had just one candidate to nominate—Colonel Roosevelt—but there were not a few of the delegates who foresaw widespread defections to the republican ranks if the G. O. P. nominated a staunch progressive or a republican of progressive tendencies, as a running mate for Hughes. There were some, indeed, who privately speculated on the possibility of Roosevelt declining to lead another forlorn hope fight. The out and out progressives—those who have burned their bridges behind them—do not hesitate to say privately that "pussyfooting" by some of the harmonizers in the bull moose ranks was a grave error, leaving the republicans in the awkward position of being passively willing to bargain. The direct action forces think Roosevelt should have been played as the trump card on the first trick, taking their cue from the well known saying that the man who hits hard and hits first has the best chance of victory. The direct action folks admit their inability to understand why Roosevelt himself should acquiesce in a program which deals with the party he forsook four years ago. In view of this surface hostility to the colonel on the part of the extreme radicals of the bull moose, there was the possibility present today that aggressive cohorts might nominate some other man—of Governor Johnson's type for instance—leaving the colonel high and dry without any party.

Fairbanks stock in the republican vice presidential talk took on a premium today. The Indianian, it was conceded, is geographically best situated as a running mate for Hughes, whose nomination would practically guarantee reelection. Senator Borah's name was also mentioned. Naturally all of the favorite son's names were in the air, with Brumbaugh and Sherman leading in the gossip, these two being the first to step aside in the presidential race. Certain it was that the electricity of the air down in the Coliseum might find outlet down the lightning rods hoisted by almost every one of the allies.

Yesterday was a day of fervent, frenzied fighting—nine hours of talk and one hour of actual achievement. Today action was to be the program from the opening tap of Chairman Harding's gavel, the only business in order being continuation of the balloting. There is no doubt the delegates want to put their man over, pick his running mate and then get home. They are tired and the genial warmth of that rare visitor the sun, today did not entirely thaw out the chill dampness of the past three days, nor relieve the aches and pains of cramped limbs. The matter was therefore, that precious little oratory would be wasted in choosing a vice presidential candidate and the convention would be able to adjourn probably about 5 or 6 o'clock.

Second Ballot Last Night

Hughes, 328 1/2; Root, 283 1/2; Burton, 76 1/2; Weeks, 75; DuPont, 13; Sherman, 65; Fairbanks, 88 1/2; Cummins, 85; Roosevelt, 80; La Follette, 25; McCall, 1; Knox, 37; Willis, 1; Wood, 1; Harding, 1; Wanamaker, 5; not voting, 2. Total, 987.

First Ballot Today.
Hughes, 349 1/2; Roosevelt, 18 1/2; Weeks, 3; La Follette, 3; Dupont, 5; Lodge, 7; absent, 1; total, 387.

When Will He Resign?
WASHINGTON, June 10.—"What'll he do if he gets it?" was the question everyone was asking today considering the likelihood of the nomination of Justice Hughes by the republicans.

Predicted on the supposition that Hughes will accept, there were many conjectures as to whether Hughes will immediately resign and leave opinions he has cleaned up to be read next Monday, or whether he would merely announce his resignation to take effect some time after Monday. There was no one who believed Hughes would delay his resignation a second longer than he felt was necessary under the law.

The matter as to whether a justice could resign and his opinion be read afterwards would be entirely within the jurisdiction of the chief justice. For the first time since the republican convention began, there was plainly apparent an atmosphere of tenseness at the Hughes household. Telephone inquiries have been always politely but innocently answered. Suggestions that arrangements be made for newspaper men to keep a "dog watch" at the house, have, up to today met with polite, but firm refusal.

Today Lawrence Green, the jurist's secretary, volunteered arrangements whereby newspaper men are to gather at the Hughes home about the time the third ballot was to be taken at Chicago.

Justice Hughes himself, was as inaccessible as ever today. He took a short walk alone about eight o'clock and then retired to his study to "clean up his work."

He had planned for nothing out of the ordinary in his daily routine. Secretary Green announced.

A Few Side Lights.

CHICAGO, June 10.—Mrs. Alice Longworth is so used to hearing her father, Colonel Roosevelt, "roared," that she merely rises curiously, looks around a minute and then resumes her seat. In every convention since 1900 she has seen her father: one of the central figures—the storm center of the convention.

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., is tickled as the colonel could possibly be himself. But he—T. R., Jr.—spends more time at his dad's headquarters than in the galleries.

The best applauded seconding speech of the night was when a North Dakota speaker surprised the tired delegates with "North Dakota seconds the nomination of Robert LaFollette."

A real live goat, labelled "Teddy's," proved too unneutral for the Congress hotel management, which at once put down the lid on factional displays in Peacock Alley.

So modest is Chicago's mayor, Big Bill Thompson, that he don't want anybody booming him for president. Indeed, Police Chief Healy, acting apparently under direct orders, sent a circular command that all Thompson presidential parades should be dispersed and all banners confiscated. To date there has been no rioting between raiders and police.

FRANCE

PARIS, June 10.—German artillery attacks on the forts of Scuille and Lavennes, between Fort Vaux and Verdun are under way, according to the official statement of the French war office today.

Souville is on a line direct from Fort Vaux, now held by the Germans, and Verdun. Tavennes is about a mile southeast of Souville. Fort St. Mihiel stands between them and Verdun. There were no infantry attacks on either banks of the Meuse yesterday, says the statement. Artillery acts of greatest violence are in progress practically all along the Verdun front, with the greatest concentrations at Avoncourt, Fumin and Champetres.

RUSSIA

[By William Philip Simms, United Press Staff Correspondent.]

PETROGRAD, June 10.—The Russian Bear is now a tiger. That is the characterization of men who have been at the front and have seen the legions of General Russloff shoot their way through the Russian front from the Pripiet marshes to the Pruth at will, destroying in days the most complicated defenses—defenses which the Austrians have been building for months and which they deemed impregnable.

Petrograd today places the Austrian casualties in the drive conservatively at 150,000 and by actual count 75,548 men were taken when the Russians exploded shrapnel in such density behind the Austrian lines, that the men could not retreat through it.

Along the whole front Russloff is using the younger men of his forces. They are eager to the task, charging Cossack-like in the face of the fiercest Austrian fire. When the defenses are high, where the wire entanglements are thick and where the spiked pits into which charging men tumble are impaled, the aggressors are using planks and sapling ladders. In the entire aggressive, I am informed

Former Resident DIED IN CHICAGO

Mrs. Helen W. Sturges Answered Call at Home on Thursday—Was Married Here.

Yesterday's Chicago Tribune contains the following announcement of the death of a former Keokuk resident:

Mrs. Helen W. Sturges, widow of William M. Sturges, better known on the board of trade as "Jack" Sturges, the man who engineered the first corner in corn, died Thursday at the age of 75. Mrs. Sturges, who lived at 722 Addison street, was born in Hubbardston, Mass., and moved in her early days with her family to Keokuk, Ia., where she was married to Mr. Sturges, and came to Chicago fifty years ago. She was choir mother of St. Peter's Episcopal church. She lived at 722 Addison street, and her own W. N. Sturges, Jr., and Harold C. Sturges.

Mrs. Sturges was the eldest daughter of the late George Williams of Keokuk who lived on Franklin street in the home now occupied by W. N. Sage. Mr. Williams was general manager of the Des Moines Valley road at one time. The late husband of Mrs. Sturges was in the grain business here before going to Chicago, and owned and operated an elevator, which was burned.

W. J. REYNOLDS, Chairman.

Consider the Crappie.

Outing: The crappie is a fine, game, gentle fish, and will give you an empty creel on many a day when bass, trout, and even bluegills seem to have vanished from the waters of the earth. He is hardy and prolific, thriving and multiplying in mud-bottomed ponds or spring-fed lakes or streams, and equally at home north or south of Mason and Dixon's line.

Unlike the bass, trout, or pike he does not believe that the chief end of fish is to pursue and devour his neighbors, or destroy your tackle and your religion, but he is willing to live and let live within decent limitations. As he seems to possess an abundance of those attributes that enable a fish to withstand the vicissitudes of climate, environment, and the infractions of the law, and, withal, is entitled to high rank among our game and food fishes, I think his distribution and propagation should receive increasing consideration by the national and state commissions.
