CONVICT NEGRO ON TWO COUNTS

Sam Barry Sentenced to Languish in County Jail for Sixty Days by Judge McNamara This Morning.

SUSPENDS SENTENCE

Court Lenient and Releases Man on Promise of Good Behavior and Payment of Small Fine—
Annoyed Woman.

Sam Barry, a young negro, was sentenced to sixty days imprisonment in the city jail this morning by Judge McNamara. Thirty days were assessed on a charge of disturbing the peace and thirty days on a charge of trespassing. The double sentence was suspended by the court, on one count upon payment of a $5 fine and the costs of the case, and on the other count, upon good behavior.

Barry is enamored of Emma Reynolds, a fair young colored woman. However, Emma is not desirous of the attentions of Sam, and Saturday she swore out an information in the superior court alleging that Sam was annoying her with his unwelcome and unrequited attentions. She alleged that he was disturbing the peace.

Before a warrant could be issued and Sam be dragged before the bar of justice, he was again in trouble. About 1:30 yesterday morning he was discovered in the second story of the Lutz & Stahl printing company building. This floor overlooks the house, where Miss Reynolds lives.

The police were notified. A detail of officers was sent to the scene, and Sam was placed under arrest. He was confined in the city jail until this morning, when he was arraigned before Judge McNamara. After hearing the evidence against him, the court brought in a verdict of guilty on two counts, and sentenced him as stated above.

MILLIGAN PINCHED ON WEDDING DAY

Keokuk Friends Play Good Joke on Local Railroad Agent—Was Wedded on Saturday.

Mr. Clifford R. Milligan's first hours of married life were strenuous ones indeed. The marriage of the local agent of the Keokuk & Des Moines railroad had not been performed twelve hours until he was under arrest, handcuffed and apparently on his way to jail.

However, there need be no alarm for it was all a wedding joke played on him by his Keokuk friends, but for some minutes Mr. Milligan and his bride of a few hours were in the throes of mental anguish. You can probably guess by this time that Charlie Abell had something to do with it.

In the first place, Mr. Milligan and Miss Mead were married in Waterloo, the home of the bride, on Saturday morning. The groom thought that he had guarded his secret well, but alas he thought in vain.

In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Milligan started on a wedding journey to Lincoln, Neb., the former home of Mr. Milligan. They arrived about 8:00 o'clock Saturday night and there awaiting the groom was a sheriff (he turned out later to be a phony one), a warrant, a star and a pair of handcuffs—and Mr. Abell.

The warrant was supposed to have been issued by Sheriff Scott and Milligan was accused of being short in his accounts here. They bundled him in a waiting automobile to take him to the jail, but instead, took him to Davenport, Iowa, where a party was given to him and his bride, for the joke was soon discovered.

Mr. and Mrs. Milligan and Mr. and Mrs. Abell and their son drove to Davenport a fifty mile journey, in Mr. Abell's automobile. The newlyweds were then the guests at a late but merry party, at which were present besides Mr. and Mrs. Abell, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lindsey of Keokuk, and Mr. and Mrs. Napsted and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Kelley of Davenport. The bride couple left Sunday morning for Lincoln, where they will visit a few days with Mr. Milligan's father and sister. They are expected in Keokuk the latter part of this week.

Mentioned in Tribune. The following item regarding Miss Mary C. Collins appeared in yesterday's Chicago Tribune under "Varied Activities of Women": "Miss Mary Collins, a missionary to the Dakota Indians, has obtained so great an influence over her people that no important Indian council is ever held without her presence and no lease or similar document is signed until she has read it."

The 1915 issue of Women's Who's Who of America contains a very interesting sketch of Miss Collins and her work.

Seasonable Receipts.

Mrs. Eugene Baker who is famed for the good things which appear on her table, has corn cooked after a recipe which makes the most delicious dish imaginable. The corn should be cut from the cob and cooked in an iron or aluminum skillet, so it will not scorch. Put the skillet on the fire until it is hot, and put into it two generous tablespoons full of butter, and when this is melted add to it the corn cut from a dozen ears. Cover the skillet and turn the fire rather low and let the corn cook slowly for a half hour. Stir it occasionally so it doesn't stick to the pan. Add salt and pepper to taste before serving. (The secret of the recipe is that no water or milk is added to take away the delicious taste of the corn.) Mrs. Gering, who is visiting here from Pittsburgh, told over at Miss Solomon's party the other morning how to cook corn in a new way. Cut the corn from a dozen ears and add to it a medium sized green pepper sliced very thin. Cook the corn and green pepper together for half an hour with as little water as possible and season with salt, pepper and butter.

The demonstration will be given by Prof. Wooters, who will show how fruit and vegetables may be canned by a new method, other than the hot stove method. It is earnestly hoped that the Keokuk women will use their influence to get out a crowd for Wednesday afternoon. There are no fees of any sort attached to the demonstration. It is purely educational and in line with practical work of this nature being done all over the country through the agricultural department.

Moonlight Cabaret.

Burlington Hawkeye: The moonlight cabaret given at the beautiful home of Colonel and Mrs. H. B. Scott on West avenue last evening under the auspices of the Equal Suffrage league of Burlington was an unequalled success, both from the standpoint of the excellence of the program and attendance, there having been in the neighborhood of 250 paid admissions. The spacious grounds looked very inviting indeed and were attractively decorated with yellow lanterns and flowers. The program was given on the lawn in front of the house, the audience being seated at little tables, where they were served with ice cream and cake by charming young suffragists. Between the numbers of the program there was social dancing on the lawn, Fischer's five-piece orchestra furnishing the music. This novelty was greatly enjoyed and made a very pretty picture to the onlookers.

The program was very good and each number was heartily and enthusiastically applauded. The hit of the evening was the appearance of the Apple Tree Guards, under the command of Captain Vollmer, whose striking resemblance to von Hindenburg was much commented upon by the audience. The boys drilled like veterans and there wasn't a slacker among them. A cake walk by Miss Shepard and her brother was keenly enjoyed, the Spanish dance of Miss Mabel Jones was most artistically done, the La Paloma dance by Misses Harriet and Catherine Gilbert was charming and found instant favor, while the solos by Melbourne Beech Milton Blaul and Wilson Campbell pleased everybody.

Much credit is due the committee on arrangements for the entire success of the venture. The following young ladies, members of the Junior league, assisted by Mrs. H. B. Scott, comprised the committee: Mrs. Raymond Schenck, Miss Marion Gilbert, Mrs. Eldade and Misses Harriet and Catherine Gilbert.

West avenue was literally jammed with people and automobiles during the evening and those on the outside seemed to be having almost as good a time as those on the inside.

Daily Stock Letter.

NEW YORK, July 17.—The New York Evening Sun financial review today said barely more than a nominal market prevailed in Wall street for the greater part of today's session and prices moved irregularly within a narrow range. There was nothing in the way of news to explain the apathetic conditions and in fact the developments over Sunday were of a generally favorable character including as they did Saturday's highly satisfactory bank statement and the receipt of additional $20,000,000 gold from Halifax, making total imports on movement to date of $188,946,000.

First prices were generally better, but there was nothing in the early trading to indicate other than a professional market. U. S. Steel started higher, but showed no vigor and, speedily relapsed. There was no evidence whatever of an enlarged public participation and as stocks showed an advance after initial transactions the trading element worked for reactions and influenced declines of 1 and 2 points or more.

Although public buying was not in evidence there were no signs of disquieting liquidation and prices hardened as the session progressed. There was no change in conditions in the late trading and although call money loaned as low as 2 per cent, it failed to stimulate the market. Pressure was again directed against the motor stocks and Willy's Overland extended its loss to four points or more, while others of the group were depressed.
