Medal Struck Off During Presidential Campaign of 1868, Found on Congregational Church Lawn.

GRANT AND COLFAX

Likenesses of Republican Candidates Stamped on Obverse and Reverse—In Fine Condition.

An old Grant-Colfax medal, struck off during the presidential campaign of 1868, was unearthed by the recent heavy rains. The medal had evidently been buried for years in the soil of the lawn in front of the First Congregational church.

Yesterday afternoon, a group of children were playing on the grass, when suddenly one exclaimed, "I've found a five dollar gold piece." But when the soil which had covered it for nearly fifty years had been scraped off the "money" was found to be an old campaign medal with a value that is only sentimental.

On the obverse side is a bust in relief of General Ulysses S. Grant, republican candidate for the presidency, and on the reverse side, in a similar manner is reproduced the likeness of Schuyler Colfax, candidate for vice president.

The medal is of heavy bronze. It is tarnished by its years of burial in the soil, but very little verdigris is on it, and the likenesses and inscriptions are as plain as when it was first stamped out from the die.

COINS WITH NEW DESIGNS DUE SOON

The quarter dollar on one side will bear the figure of an eagle in full flight. On the other side of the coin will be a figure symbolic of liberty. The dime has on one side a bundle of rods and a battle-axe while on the other side is engraved the head of liberty with the winged cap.

HAUL DOWN FLAG

"If we ever fall so low as to recognize it as unnecessary to protect citizens" he asserted, "we might as well haul down the flag."

"The administration," he declared at another juncture, "knocked Huerta out of the box. It amazes me when I am asked whether I favor intervention. Why the administration intervened when it sought to oust Huerta."

Mrs. Hughes joined the campaign party late last night, greatly refreshed after a water trip from Tacoma to Seattle. Mrs. Hughes so far hasn't missed sending a post card to each of the Hughes girls.—Helen, Catherine and Elizabeth,—back at Bridgehampton, at every city in which her husband has remained for more than a few minutes.

ly leveled by shell fire that I was unaware we were approaching them until I found myself treading their leveled bricks.

CRUCIFIX STILL STANDS

At the entrance of the former site of Bequincourt, there remains standing in the road corner, a slender wooden cross, bearing an eighteen inch miniature statue of Christ. A yard away a shell had mowed down a giant fifty year old tree, also carrying away one arm of the cross.

At the entrance of the former site of Bequincourt, there remains standing in the road corner, a slender wooden cross, bearing an eighteen inch miniature statue of Christ. A yard away a shell had mowed down a giant fifty year old tree, also carrying away one arm of the cross.

A few minutes after passing this spot, shells coming from the German batteries at Soyocourt, six miles away, began bursting near. The intensity of the German bombardment forced our retirement from the Dompiere plateau. By a circuitous tour, we arrived at a dominating position north of the Somme, facing the point where the French and German lines crossed the river before the beginning of the French offensive July 1.

DIZZY WITH HAIL OF SHELLS

At this point a desperate struggle, which followed the previous days capture of German third line positions, was still progressing. This new position, also, brought us in closer contact with the French artillery line. The artillery duel gradually grew in intensity towards the close of the day, until the hall of shells flying over from the batteries in the hills and valleys in the rear fairly made one's head swim with its intensity. It was only upon realization that the French were firing, not by guns nor by batteries, but by whole successive lines of artillery, many of them extending miles in length, that I was able to grasp the extent of French preparedness in heavy artillery for this advance on the Somme.

MACHINE GUNS SPAT FIRE

From time to time this unceasing artillery roar was intensified by angry spurts and sputters of machine gun fire, either as the French repulsed German counter attacks before Clerly, or as French gunners voluntarily gave vent to a few volleys as a warning to the Germans to stop their fire, or as leaving their trenches.

Towards sundown the German fire dwindled. The French fire likewise lessened, giving the impression that the day's struggles had ended with the French still holding their recently conquered positions between Heulcourt and Bequincourt. The evening official communique confirmed.

TO CUT DOWN USE OF PAPER

North Carolina Publishers Meet to Discuss Situation Which Exists Today.

GREENSBORO, N. C., Aug. 16.—Daily newspaper publishers met here today to discuss the news print paper situation, and it was agreed that morning papers should cut down the use of paper as much as possible. The informal conclusion of the morning paper publishers to meet the paper crisis by reducing their consumption of white paper as much as possible came after an unsuccessful effort to reach an agreement to eliminate Sunday comic sections. The afternoon publishers informally discussed the white paper situation, but took no action looking to a curtailment of consumption.

Not a single cannon was fired. There is a nightly truce. The Russians occasionally shoot light cartridges to illuminate the fields between the trenches and prevent a surprise attack.

Far off in the distance an Austrian battery was pounding the Russian railroads. The new armies on this front are composed of Polish, German and Austro-Hungarian troops, which officers said, illustrated the new spirit of comradeship and is a sure indication of the strength of the central powers.

HEAR NOTHING OF SUBMARINE

Berlin Source Discloses Fact That Deutschland Has Not Been Communicated With.

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—The German submarine Deutschland has not been heard from since she cleared the Virginia Capes on the night of August 10, the United Press learned from reliable marine sources today.

[Sixteen days were required for the Deutschland to cross the Atlantic on her trip to Baltimore. Part of that time she spent in dodging hostile warships. Actually she could have made the voyage in much shorter time. The fact that fourteen days have elapsed and she has not been heard from indicates that she has been compelled to take a round-about course on the return also to avoid British and French warships, if she has not met with a mishap. The Deutschland is equipped with a high power wireless apparatus, but probably would not communicate with a German station while in British waters, fearing detection and pursuit.]
