PILOT LIGHTING PLANTS
HOME MADE ACETYLENE
For LIGHTING and COOKING

Fine for Dairy Farms

We sell a great many Pilot Lighting Plants to dairy farmers. Because dairy farmers can get even more out of an Acetylene installation than anybody else. Our Dairy farmer patrons make these Acetylene plants do double work. They run an extra line of pipe to each barn—and sometimes to other outbuildings. In these buildings they fasten the great balls of Acetylene light to timbers or rafters. They also equip these lights with ignition devices—to make them light with the pull of a chain without matches. Two of these Acetylene barn lights will make a big dairy barn as light as day. They will give more light than a dozen lanterns—and unlike lanterns, they cannot be tipped over. The same is true of Acetylene house lights. They burn in handsome stationary bronze or brass fixtures securely fastened to ceilings or walls.

Acetylene is too, a double boon to the women folks. In addition to the beauty of the light, it brings even a greater convenience in the gas cooking stove. For Acetylene is used in gas cooking ranges in thousands of country homes, just as city gas, is used in millions of city homes. In all of these homes the gas range has shortened cooking hours and has done away with the drudgery of handling coal, wood and ashes. Pilot Acetylene Generators are now made to set out in the back yard—in an out of the way corner far from the buildings they supply with gas. Our advertising literature tells why they are safe, reliable and trouble proof. Write to
