

AUDUBON

D. M. Deen of Harlan was a business visitor in Audubon the first of the week.

Did you ever hear of a liberal advertiser being sent to the poor house? No, never.

Thos. Gillis and wife (nee) Ida Rudnick of Atlantic came Saturday for a visit with friends.

J. B. Comer of Omaha came Sunday noon from Omaha to work on the County bridge work.

Wm. McGovern returned Saturday, following a few days' visit in Des Moines, Perry, and other points.

Mrs. Abel Stone and Mattie Anderson went to Langford, S. D., Saturday for an extended visit with relatives.

Mrs. E. F. Bilharz and children departed Monday for Colorado Springs, Colorado, to enjoy a vacation and outing.

Miss Goldie Ballard of Red Oak is the new dining room girl at the Park Hotel, starting her duties last Thursday.

Miss Doris Farrell of Carroll, who visited her brother, C. L. Farrell, and wife for a week, returned to her home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Nelson returned Monday from Carroll, where they visited over Sunday with his brother, Lawrence Nelson.

Dame Rumor is at it again. This time she has a double wedding on tapis, but only those most interested know the exact date.

C. H. Utter, wife and daughter, Mabel, following a week's visit here with his brother, C. E. Utter and wife, returned to their home in Grinnell Saturday.

Misses Ella M. Stearns and Mary Davis returned Sunday noon from a visit of several days duration at the C. H. Earhart home in Des Moines.

Mrs. Chas. Stocking went to Atlantic Saturday to visit with her sister, Mrs. S. W. Hemstreet and family. She returned home Sunday noon.

C. H. Stocking went to Omaha Sunday noon on business and to purchase new supplies for the Model Steam Laundry, which he has taken charge of.

A. E. Beason, B. Wiley, John Holtz and Frank Sunberg went to Omaha Monday, some of the gentlemen being prospective purchasers of automobiles. John Martinson of the Martinson garage; sons, Lake and Fred. Verne Cozine and Alvie Johnson went to Lincoln, Nebraska, Monday to secure five Ford automobiles.

J. W. Williams, who was called here on account of the illness of his mother, Mrs. Tom Williams in West Audubon, returned to his home in Dexter Sunday noon.

Mrs. H. P. Petersen and children, Clara and Milo, and Marie Freeman, all of Brayton, passed through Audubon Monday on their way to Lake Okoboji, to enjoy an outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Simms, who visited here at the home of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Layland, departed for their home in Kansas City, Mo., Saturday evening.

Miss Dora Clark, domestic Science instructor of the Audubon schools, came Monday from her home at Waukon to attend the wedding of her friend, Ruth Watson.

Paul Wickham and wife returned home Saturday noon from Goodland, Kans., where they went to attend the 50th wedding anniversary of his brother-in-law, Ed. Blodgett and wife.

H. J. Savage will take a layoff of several weeks from his duties at the Republican office, commencing next week, and his place will be filled by John Horning during that interval.

Dr. Fulton and family and Miss Helen Buck, who enjoyed a two days visit in Boone with W. J. Fullerton and a visit in Dayton, Ia., with Ray White, returned home Saturday noon.

Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Rogers went to Omaha Monday, where he will attend the annual convention of the Missouri Valley Veterinary Association, and also enjoy a short visit with friends.

John Pedersen, employed at the Culver Mills, has purchased the old homestead of Nels M. Nelson. As soon as Mr. Nelson disposes of his other new dwelling he intends to move to California.

P. A. Rasmussen departed Monday for Waterloo to attend the annual state shoe dealers convention. From there, he goes to Clinton to enjoy a short visit with relatives and friends, that being his former home.

Mrs. J. S. Small of Hudson, S. D., following a three week's visit here with her father, D. E. Soar and near Exira with Lou Jensen and family, departed for her home Friday night. Miss Beulah Conrardy will remain here for the summer.

No, daughter can't stand in front of the kitchen sink and help her mother wash the dishes because it might make her flat-footed. But she can go out to the "gowf" course and walk sixteen miles and think nothing of it.

Frank Davis, following a week's visit in Audubon with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Davis departed Monday morning for his home in East Moline, Ill. His mother accompanied him to Moline for a visit and will attend to business affairs at Colona while away.

Every city, town and hamlet in the state of Iowa has a baseball team but Audubon. Why Audubon is not represented in the national pastime, with all the available material, is hard to understand, unless it is that it is impossible to secure a local diamond.

Mrs. George Bailey, who visited here several days with former friends left Monday for her home in Argenta, Oklahoma. Mrs. Bailey is a former resident of Audubon, being one of the early pioneers. She had a very enjoyable visit with old acquaintances here.

Andy Hansen was slightly injured last Thursday afternoon while at work on the Thos. Campbell barn two miles south of Larland. A board fell from the roof and struck him on the arm. He was brought to town and had the wound dressed. He will be compelled to remain idle for several days.

Miss Frances Delaney sang two songs of her own composition last week at a picture show in Coon Rapids. She is spending the summer, going over the nearby country giving recitals of her songs.—Carroll Herald Miss Delaney is well known in Audubon, being the sister of Mrs. Jaq. Clark, and for a number of years she was a teacher in the Audubon county schools.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney and Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY and CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75cc. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

The Talipot Palm of Ceylon. The talipot palm of Ceylon has gigantic fanlike leaves, which when fully expanded form a nearly complete circle thirteen feet in diameter. Large fans made of them are carried before people of rank among the Cingalese. They are also commonly used as umbrellas, and tents are made by neatly joining them together. They are used as a substitute for paper, being written upon with a stylus. Some of the sacred books of the Cingalese are composed of strips of them.

Over the Desert

I found myself in Bombay in May of the year 1862, after a year and a half in other parts of India, and very soon thereafter it was announced in the local papers that "Professor Mazam, the celebrated French aeronaut, would soon make an ascension from the public gardens." Three or four days later I ran across the professor and was surprised and gratified to find him to be none other than an old friend whom I had traveled with in China.

Mazam was now going into ballooning just for the fun and adventure it might bring him, and when he invited me to accompany him on his first trip I was not five seconds in accepting the invitation. We packed the car with provisions enough to last a week, took rifles, revolvers and ammunition along and made all preparations for a long journey.

Without her burden of baggage the balloon could have carried five or six men. As it was, she shot up like a bird when all was ready to let go, and in a few seconds the city and its harbor were far below us. We at once started on our journey, making a pace of about fifteen miles an hour.

When night came we added 500 feet to our altitude as an offset to the dew, and as the weather was fine we both lay down to sleep. I awoke twice during the night, but to find all quiet, and when I turned out first at sunrise it was to find the Arabian coast almost under our feet, and soon we were sailing over land.

We had no sooner left the water than the breeze began to subside, and our pace was reduced to five or six miles per hour. We knew that a counter-current would soon be met with, and both of us were looking over the edge of the basket at the morning panorama below when we suddenly espied a native village. It was, rather, the camp of some wandering tribe, all the shelters being of canvas or skin. We saw camels, asses, goats and horses, with many people moving about, and we had only got sight of them when they saw us. Some fell down and others ran away, and we were laughing at their fright when we heard the report of a gun and the sing of a bullet.

"Over with the ballast!" shouted Mazam, and the next instant we were so far above them that their horses appeared to be mere specks.

Along in the afternoon, while sailing about a thousand feet above the earth at a slow rate, we came to an open country which seemed to be destitute of human life, and the professor announced that we would descend and replenish our stock of water and see what was to be seen. After the anchor had trailed along the ground for about a hundred yards it caught in the limbs of a fallen tree, and we soon hauled our craft down and secured her. We were within ten rods of a small water-course, and while I was filling our water keg Mazam shot a few birds, and we cooked and ate them on the spot and decided to make a night of it where we were. I judge it was about midnight when Mazam shook me and whispered:

"Come; here is a sight worth seeing. Be careful not to make any unnecessary noise."

As I looked over the basket I saw two immense lions, standing about twenty feet apart and facing each other. The animals approached each other slowly with growls of defiance, each carefully lifting his paws, but they did not diminish the distance over a rod before both stopped and stood as if cut from stone. Suddenly one of the beasts made a rush so swift that we could not follow him with our eyes, and they grappled and rolled over and over on the ground. Just as we thought that both would be killed in the fray one of them turned tail and ran, being hotly pursued by the victor. The remainder of the night passed without incident, and as daylight came a breeze from the north came with it. After a cold bite we lifted our anchor and were off, but we had scarcely begun to move before we found ourselves above a long, drawn out caravan, which had just taken up its line of march. Perhaps all knew our craft to be a balloon; perhaps they believed it to be some great bird. At any rate they began firing at us, and the very first bullet struck the basket. It was an open country, and such men as were mounted on horses could keep up with us.

"Now, then," said Mazam as the bullets continued to sing about us, "overboard with that keg of water, all extra clothing, everything to give us a lift out of range."

Inside of an hour the balloon began to approach the earth again, and as we were driving toward Murbat we threw over all the rest of the ballast, even including the spyglass and the box of bread. In a short time we began to descend again, however, finally landing in a field of maize just outside of Murbat.

It had been a most delightful and exciting balloon trip, and, although I was anxious to go again, it turned out that I was not to make another voyage among the clouds. Shortly after our ascension I married a Bombay girl who had a horror of balloons.

Poor Mazam! This intrepid adventurer had made six successful ascensions in India and was getting an international reputation as an aeronaut when he met his fate. On his seventh trip something went wrong with the balloon and he fell with it from a terrific height.
