Our Washington Letter.

The tariff debate is progressing in the Senate with a certainty of an early vote, in spite of the obstructive tactics employed by the Republican "old guard" leaders. As an evidence of this there was the action of Senator Gallinger, the standpat leader, in refusing to agree that a date be set for a vote on the tariff bill unless the Democrats would promise to postpone currency legislation. This was illuminating as showing the tactics by which legislation has been defeated in the past, even when it has been backed by such strong public opinion as now is demanding tariff revision.

The prospects continue bright for both tariff and currency legislation at the special session. The old stock arguments have been trotted out again, but somehow they have fallen flat. References to the "pauper" labor of Europe by standpat Senators brought forth a reminder that the Lawrence strike investigation showed that there was pauper labor, or labor employed at pauperizing wages in our own manufacturing plants—and that, too, in some of the highly protected industries, showing that the tariff benefits rarely got beyond the cash drawer and into the pay envelopes. When Senator Penrose attempted to get specific and state that already a Pennsylvania manufacturer had closed his plant and moved all his machinery to Europe, letters were read from the owners of the manufacturing plant in question denying such a move, and newspaper interviews with members of the firm were read showing that the firm Penrose had closed up never had enjoyed a better business.

The visit of the western and southern bankers went far toward popularizing the administration's currency bill. It was almost the unanimous opinion of the visiting bankers that the currency legislation planned will go far toward removing the money stringency. As a companion to the currency bill, President Wilson also issued a statement declaring that the administration planned to introduce a bill providing a system of rural credits at the regular session of Congress. "There has been too little federal legislation framed to serve the farmer directly and with a deliberate adjustment to his real needs," the President said. "One of the chief and most serious of these disadvantages has been that he has been unable to secure the extended bank accommodations he every year stands in need of without paying most burdensome rates of interest." The President said that rural credit systems had been worked out abroad and that "our farmers must have a similar means afforded them of handling their financial needs easily and inexpensively." "And there will be," the President added. "This is our next great task and duty. The Congress and the Executive, working together, will certainly afford the needed machinery of relief and prosperity to the people of the country-sides and that very soon."

One-Cent Postage Again.

That old wolf in sheep's clothing—One-Cent-Letter-Postage—is out again. Certain Senators, certain newspaper and certain invisible influences are busy once more with active propaganda for reduction in first-class mail rates. The average citizen would not profit 50 cents a year by one-cent letter postage. Big city corporations and banks would profit thousands of dollars. One New York bank is reported to spend $1,400 a day on first-class postage. This bank would profit $700 a day by the proposed reduction. Two cents for collecting, forwarding and delivering a letter is plenty cheap enough. A letter that isn't worth a two-cent stamp isn't worth writing. The real purposes behind the one-cent letter postage movement are two: First, to benefit big business, and second, to so curtail the receipts of the postoffice department that further extensions and reductions in parcel post will be made impossible. The workingman, the clerk, the small business man and the farmer will gain only a few pennies by one-cent letter postage and lose ten times that much on parcel postage. There is nothing in one-cent letter postage for common, everyday folks.—Des Moines News.

Good Reason for His Enthusiasm.
When a man has suffered for several days with colic, diarrhoea or other form of bowel complaint and is then cured and well by one or two doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, as is often the case, it is but natural that he should be enthusiastic in his praise of the remedy, and especially in this case of a severe attack when life is threatened. Try it when in need of such a remedy. It never fails. Sold by Fred Lowry.

E. A. HOOPMAN,
County Auditor.

To My Friends, the Young Men and Women of the Northwest and Their Parents.

Just a few simple, homely words to you. If you are going away to school, or are thinking of it, or have a friend who is, please give this heed. What school are you going to? WHY? If you are attending a business school, unless you KNOW it to be the best, you are making a mistake. I know, my friends, because I and my family have educated and sent to positions eight thousand men and women who are to-day our friends. We know the meaning of work, we know the thousands of dollars it takes to make a GOOD SCHOOL, and, we know the other kind. We know what it means to a young man or woman. Do you? It is my honest conviction that the Wisconsin Business University, of La Crosse, Wisconsin, is the greatest school of business training in the world. I believe that we do more for each and every student in and out of school and after graduating than any other school. I believe we think more of our students as friends and less of the money than any school there is of any kind. My father said to me once, "If the only thing I got out of my business was money, I would feel like a failure. My son, the big thing I have is the love of those 'kids' who have made good." We have tried to make this the spirit of the school. We have the very best of everything, teachers, equipment, methods, etc., and 8,500 successful graduates prove the statement. We offer to PROVE every statement if you give us the opportunity. We offer a month's trial free; sworn statements of successful graduates, the greatest list ever published and I say to the public over my own signature that I will refund every cent of tuition to anyone who finds this school not exactly as represented. Further, I will give a free course if my catalogue and list of employed graduates do not contain more than is published by the COMBINED business schools of Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Iowa. Can we offer anything more?

Fall term begins Tuesday, September 2nd. All you have to do is to pack your trunk; bring little, tell us when you will be here and we attend to everything else as though you were going to make a visit. We know what young people need who are going away from home.

Send for catalogue. Your letter receives my personal attention. No ad. writers, no solicitors, no fake correspondents, no graft. A square toed business institution that tells the truth and stands on its own merits unafraid. Address:

LEIGH TOLAND,
Pres. Wisconsin Business University,
La Crosse, Wisconsin. 52

George Brokken Killed by Lightning

During the severe electrical storm Friday Aug. 8th George Brokken, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Brokken, was instantly killed by lightning. The sad affair happened about 1:30 in the afternoon while the young man was engaged pitching bundles from a wagon near a stack of grain in the field and came with such tremendous force that part of his clothing and one shoe was entirely torn from from his body. The day was unusually crowded with electrical storms, threatening clouds following each other and every one of them full of thunder and lightning. Stacking had been suspended and together with some of his brothers he had gone to throw off a few remaining bundles on the wagon when from a comparatively small cloud came suddenly the fatal bolt to instantly claim his life.

George was born on his father's farm west of here on June 17, 1896, hence he was only a little over 17 years old. After finishing the district school he entered the Harmony High School, and was at the time of his death a member of the junior class.—Harmony News.

Honey By Gasoline.

H. B. Morrison is now extracting honey by gasoline power. Last week he started his new power extractor, using it first at his country bee yard on the John Killierlain place and this week in town. Mr. Morreison stays in the yard, takes off the supers, smokes out the bees, and then sets the super on a little car which runs on a track into the extracting house where E. E. Day takes out the frames, cuts off the caps and Miss Inez or Miss Gladys Day places them in the extractor and turns on the power. The honey is extracted and forced up through a pipe which delivers it into barrels.

About 5,500 pounds were extracted in the country beside what was taken off in the comb. The first day in town 1,300 pounds were taken out and it will require six days in all to complete the work.—Fayette Reporter.

Because it is evidence of a Cresco citizen. Testimony easily investigated. The strongest endorsement of merit. The best proof. Read it.

R. Wentworth, Market St., Cresco, Iowa, says: "I was troubled by kidney complaint and rheumatic pains through my shoulders. At night I suffered more intensely and was unable to rest well. I found no relief from the remedies I used and was feeling miserable when I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from the Milz Pharmacy. I was greatly pleased in few days to see that they were helping me. Before long I was free from trouble. I am still well and have had no return attack of kidney trouble."

Smaller Coal Pile will heat your home!

If You burn it in the 5-Year Guaranteed Green Colonial Furnace

Blizzards and coal men will have no terror for you if you install the COLONIAL.

Every room in your house will be kept at an even temperature from floor to ceiling, because your coal money doesn't go up the flues in smoke.

A constant current of fresh, warm air goes direct to every nook and cranny of your home, insuring perfect ventilation and comfort, no matter what the weather.

The Green COLONIAL is built different from any other furnace. It is distinctive in design and construction—the result of over a quarter of a century of progressive furnace building.

Its smoke consuming fire pot and its extra large combustion chamber, turn all your coal money into heat, instead of sending a big part of it up the flue in smoke and gases. This saves you from one-third to one-half your fuel bill.

Be careful about the heating when you build, buy or rent a house—The Green COLONIAL is repair and trouble proof, simple in design and operation, easily and quickly regulated.

With the COLONIAL the saving in your fuel bill will go a long way toward paying the rent or the price of the house.

The COLONIAL is guaranteed stronger than any other furnace made. Every part of it, except the grates, is guaranteed not to break or burn out within five years, and every piece of it is guaranteed never to break from a defect.

If you want full value for your furnace and coal money install a Green COLONIAL. We would be pleased to give you an estimate any time.
