Our Washington Letter.

"The present campaign in New Jersey is of nation-wide significance from the fact that the outcome of the election on Tuesday will indicate to the country whether the people of this, President Wilson's state, accept or reject a program which he has put into effect."

This quotation from a speech made by Senator Cummins of Iowa before the New Jersey election appeared in the Congressional Record Monday of last week. The next day the people answered and showed that they accepted President Wilson's policy by giving the Democratic candidate for governor a plurality of over 22,000. At the same time the people elected a Democratic governor in Massachusetts by more than 33,000 plurality after Senator Cummins had stumped the state for the Republican nominee, who by the way ran third, the Bull Moose candidate polling the second highest vote.

Senator Cummins' speeches in Massachusetts and New Jersey were criticized on the floor of the Senate, and a notable criticism appears in the Sioux City Tribune, formerly one of the Senator's chief supporters. In the senate, Senator Martin read what he said was a stenographic copy of a speech made by Senator Cummins at Plainfield, N. J., in which the Iowan was quoted as saying he regarded President Wilson as "an enemy to the constitution," and saying further:

"There is no moral difference between the act of Huerata, president of the Mexican republic, who caused the imprisonment of members of Congress who failed to repeal a resolution which he wanted repealed, and the acts of President Wilson respecting the passage of the present tariff law."

Senators Martin, Owen and Williams held this language indefensible. Senator Martin challenged the Iowan to show "an instance where there has been undue, ungenerous and unpatriotic pressure brought by the President on any Senator. Senator John Sharp Williams said that if the Iowan used the language quoted above it was uncalled for and unjustified. He added that "the man we have now in the White House is the best informed, the best equipped, the most highly educated, and the most cultured President we have had in the White House since Thomas Jefferson went out of it, and he resembles him somewhat. He has exercised no influence upon any man save by an appeal to his reason or to his party loyalty, to that sentiment which makes a man true to the school of political thought to which he belongs."

In one of his Massachusetts speeches Senator Cummins was quoted as saying that President Wilson played the part of a "traitor" by influencing tariff legislation. This drew a heated reply from Speaker Champ Clark, who hotly resented the use of such language. Senator Cummins in reply said: "I did refer to the President of Mexico. I did not say it in comparison, of course, with any man, but I said that I would just as soon have my will as a member of congress overcome by a soldier as by any other influence from the executive department."

The Sioux City Tribune took issue with Senator Cummins for taking the stump in Massachusetts to make protective tariff speeches. The Tribune expressed the conviction that "there is nothing in the theory of 'general prosperity' depending upon protective tariff taxes." The Senator did not say to the people of Massachusetts, the Tribune editorial continues, that he voted against the tariff bill because

"it discriminated against the west", or that he wanted to revise it so as to increase the price to them of flour, eggs, meat and potatoes. Had he attempted to tell them this they would not have listened to him with kindly feelings. And he may not tell western audiences that he would revise the tariff so as to reduce the cost to them of their shoes, stockings, underclothes, of all their wearing apparel, the salt they feed their cattle, the wire they fence them in with, or the hearse that take them to their long rest." The Tribune adds that the senator's position is a difficult one in logic and economics. In politics it is not so hard, for whoever would supplant him as the Republican leader is bound by the same chains that manacle him."

The criticism of Senator Cummins in the Tribune and the fact that the Sioux City News is now supporting the Wilson administration, led the Sioux City Journal, "Uncle George" Perkin's paper, to remark that "it is an odd thing that the whirligig of time has placed the Journal in the lead among Sioux City papers as a follower of Senator Cummins who is on the eve of a fiery campaign for re-election to the Senate."

Congressman Pepper by virtue of his position as secretary of the Democratic congressional committee issued a statement expressing pleasure at the result of the election which gave the Democrats three governors, a United States Senator in Maryland, three out of four Congressmen elected and the great bulk of the city election victories. Mr. Pepper said:

"The result of the elections certainly contain abundant assurance to the Democrats."

"The significant thing in the state elections held in Maryland, New Jersey and Massachusetts, was that national issues entered into the contest to a large extent, and the result indicates a decisive and whole-hearted indorsement of President Wilson and the Democratic administration."

"We have been getting reports for months to the effect that President Wilson was immensely popular and that the people were with him. The results confirm these reports in a most emphatic way."

OBITUARY

ROBISON

"The blessing of her quiet life fell on us like the dew."

When the message flashed over the wires, telling of the passing away of Mrs. Robison, many there were in Elma and vicinity especially the earlier settlers who felt they had lost a friend.

Mrs. Susan Rebecca Kenyon Robison was born in Johnsbury, N. Y., Nov. 13th, 1834, and departed this life at the home of her son in Plains, Mont., on the 26th day of October, 1913, aged 78 years, 11 months and 13 days.

She was united in marriage to Truman Robison of Lake George, N. Y., Jan. 2nd, 1853 who died at Elma March 20th, 1906.

Imbued with the spirit of the pioneers they left their New York home and in June 1859 settled at Busti long before the town of Elma was established.

At this time there was no railroad east of the Mississippi river and they kept a hotel at Busti, this being on the direct stage road from McGregor to Albert Lea, Minn.

Many a weary and homesick traveler found lodging at her place and none ever left but went away with a message of good cheer.

Very few people of today realize what it meant for women in those days to brave the rigors of a pioneer's life.

Mrs. Robison during her life saw the great changes take place in this community, from the tallow candle to the electric light, from the ox team to the automobile, and from the government stage coach to the present day railroad. But great credit is due to women like Mrs. Robison who have made such things possible for the people of today to enjoy. For it was by their hard work and unselfish lives that the way was paved for those coming after.

To her were born two sons and one daughter, John G. who died in Elms, April 1909, and now sleeps beside his father and mother, Mrs. Susan J. Fallgatter, of Parker, S. Dak., and Charles S. of Plains, Montana.

Also to mourn her loss are eleven grandchildren and five great grandchildren, grandchildren of the late A. W. Fallgatter. And while they mourn her loss to them, they will cherish her memory as a loving mother and grandmother who was willing and ready to help each one.

Mrs. Robison joined the Christian church 40 years ago and ever continued in the same faith. Her entire life was true to high ideals of service willing at all times to spend and be spent in the interests of those to whom she could minister to.

Possessing some skill in medicine and nursing she was ever ready to respond to the call of help. Her tasks were never too numerous, the way too far, the chilling winds too cold or the night too dark, but what she was glad to go if she could alleviate suffering. And in those days no doctor nearer than 25 miles, we are sure that many, many times she went out on her mission of mercy.

In her visits to the sick she scattered rays of sunshine and hope that brightened the sick room where previously all seemed dark and doubtful and her cheerful manner and smile made her seem a mother to all. The aid of her kindly hand will be missed but her work among the early settlers of the community will forever live in their memories. Others will come and go and love and labor and other tasks will be performed but her place must remain forever void.

Truly her friends could say of her, "the Great God gave her to us."

Mrs. Robison's character is one of humanity's assets which for all time will serve to make the sum total of the world's goodness greater than it ever could have been had she not lived.

Pure, tender, gentle, lovable, unselfish, charitable and sympathetic her very presence was a benediction to all who knew her. "None knew her but to love her, none named her but to praise."

The last few years of her life has been spent with her children, the past summer going to Montana.

During the last days, as the shadows of the coming night which has no tomorrow began to gather round her, with intellect undimmed and with a Christian faith and fortitude she answered the summons which called her to a higher field of labor. Loving hands brought back the precious dust from the far west to be placed beside her husband and son.

The services were held at the M. E. church where Rev. Young paid her a most fitting tribute. At the conclusion of the services the remains were gently borne to that city of the dead and there was left on earth of Mrs. Robison only a treasured, honored and loved remembrance.

Those from out of town who attended the funeral were Mrs. S. Fallgatter, Mrs. A. E. Morgan and Miss Eva Fallgatter, of Parker, South Dakota; Chas. Robison, of Plains, Mont., Mrs. Frank Humphrey, of St. Paul and Truman Fallgatter, of Wilmot, Minn.

TRUTH TRIUMPHS.

Cresco Citizens Testify for the Public Benefit.

A truthful statement of a Cresco citizen given in her own words, should convince the most skeptical about the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills. If you suffer from backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, urinary disorders or any form of kidney ills, use a tested kidney medicine.

A Cresco citizen tells of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Could you demand more convincing proof of merit?
Mrs. John Light, of Cresco, Iowa, says: "For years I suffered from kidney complaint and rheumatic pains in my loins and limbs. The kidney secretions were unnatural, at one time my limbs became so badly swollen that I was unable to put on my shoes. I tried various remedies, but became discouraged, as nothing helped me. After taking Doan's Kidney Pills, I felt better in a short time. I can now rest well and my kidneys are normal. I do not believe I would be alive today had it not been for Doan's Kidney Pills."

"Your Back is Lame—Remember the Name." Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same as Mrs. Light had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. Foster Millburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.
