OBTUARY.

HOCHSTETLER.

Hilpah E. Pease daughter of Shoble M. and Mila Everett Pease was born at Elkhart, Indiana, Feb. 3, 1841. Her parents were active workers in the Methodist Episcopal church with which she united at an early age, remaining a member throughout life.

Ten years of her early womanhood were devoted to the school work of her day in which she was considered very successful. In her 27th year she was married to J. M. Hochstetler at Goshen, Ind., where they lived until the spring of 1868 when they moved to Dexter, Iowa, locating on a wild prairie farm, the site of the present homestead.

Their household goods were hauled overland from Des Moines, then the end of the Chicago, Rock Island which was extended through Dexter the following summer.

The principal part of the lumber for their first modest little home was also hauled overland from Des Moines. Into this home were born five children, all of whom are still living and were present at her bedside to minister to her comfort during her last illness: Chas. H., Mame and Everett E. of Dexter, Ia., Mrs. Callison of this city and Mrs. Theo. Davis, of Crosby, N. D.

Being very slight of stature and not accustomed to the privations of pioneer life, or even life on a farm, she was somewhat at a disadvantage at the beginning of her home building career but with the earnestness which characterized her girlhood, she began making the most of her surroundings. During her most active womanhood her home was one of generous hospitality to friends and new comers alike. The key to her entire life is locked up in the one word devotion;—devotion first to her husband, her home, and her family and then to her friends and acquaintances which she numbered by the score.

No more beautiful life ever passed the portals connecting Earth and Heaven than passed so quietly you could almost hear the flutter of the Angels' wings as they welcomed her to the other shore just before dawn on the morning of Feb. 27th.

For a number of years she has been in poor health and most of this time has been spent with her daughter Mrs. S. Callison, now of Cresco, but formerly of Dexter, Iowa. Her illness was of such nature as to require the most delicate care, especially at times, but during it all she seemed to have implicit confidence in her daughter's judgment and never failed to express her gratitude. One of her last remarks was: "I love everybody. You have all been so kind to me."

After a short service conducted by Rev. Kirwin at the home of Mrs. Callison her remains were accompanied by her husband, J. M. Hochstetler, Mr. and Mrs. S. Callison and daughter Ruth, Mame Hochstetler and Mrs. Davies to Dexter, Iowa, where prior to internment the funeral service was conducted by Rev. C. L. Baxter of Council Bluffs, a former pastor and friend of the family, and now president of the Iowa Public Welfare League, assisted by Rev. Moore, local pastor of the M. E. church.

The basis of Rev. Baxter's remarks was the scripture passage "She hath done what she could." No greater words of praise were ever spoken at the

Never Let a Catalog Sell You LUMBER

Or when you come to unload the stuff, and see the poor grades and substituted material, you'll be sorry.
 And you won't be able to do a blessed thing about it, either. The catalog house has your money—and you'll have the experience and a lot of bum lumber on your hands.

If there is any one thing on earth a man ought to see before letting go of his money for it, it is Lumber and Building Material. It's dead easy to give you a low price on No. 1 lumber by catalog, and then "SKIN THE GRADES" to meet that price by shoving a lot of No. 2 and No. 3 stuff into the car.

If you do not know the difference in lumber grades that is all the more reason why you should buy from a reliable firm at home where you can see what you are getting, and be able to kick if necessary BEFORE paying your money.

We don't claim the earth with a fence around it, but grade for grade, and price for price, we can meet or beat any catalog house price you can get. Now it's up to you.
