Herman Harlan, aged 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Harlan of Harris Grove, died of injuries received when struck and run over by a horse he was trying to catch. In addition to his right arm being broken, painful bruises on the head, the boy was injured internally.

Hiram Coffin, an old soldier, was at Second and Walnut streets in Des Moines throwing dollar bills to the wind. He had just received his pension an hour before. He was explaining to a crowd which collected that that was the way they used to sow wheat in the coon forks fifty years ago. Police picked up twenty-five dollars.

A committee of Eagle Grove ladies waited upon the city council exhibiting a larger beer sign and urging that an ordinance be passed prohibiting the posting of liquor signs in the city. The city bill poster has offered $25 reward for the apprehension of the one who tore the sign loose from its fastenings.

Robert Walker, the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Walker, of Tipton, was the victim of a painful, though not serious, Fourth of July accident. While playing with firecrackers at his home in the west part of the city, he stooped to blow a short fuse which had failed to discharge one of the crackers, and it suddenly exploded close to the boy's face. A physician was called and it was found necessary to scrape the eye-ball to remove the powder.

Twice injured in one day was the record of Henry Boyd, a farmer living near Hornick. While playing baseball with the Hornick team at the Onawa Fourth of July celebration, he was "spiked" by the catcher as he was sliding for home. His knee was cut to the bone. While being taken to a doctor for medical attention the automobile in which he was riding struck an obstruction in the road. Boyd was thrown against the seat and his nose was broken.

William Andrews of Oelwein was seriously injured when struck by an automobile while attempting to cross a street in the business district. An inexperienced driver lost control of his machine for a minute and ran down Mr. Andrews, who was wheeling a lawn mower. Andrews received three broken ribs, his head was badly bruised and crushed and the fingers of his right hand were dislocated in addition to other injuries. It is not believed he can live.

While lighting a fuseless firecracker to use it as "punk," Miss Winifred Malone, daughter of Mike Malone, an Iowa City tailor, had her face and eyes badly burned when the firecracker went off in her face. She had lighted one end of the firecracker, and was blowing on it to make it burn better, when the flame caught the powder inside. The mass of burning powder was shot directly into her face. Her eyes were badly burned, and the upper part of her face scarred. A doctor was quickly called, and the burns and wounds of the powder were dressed.

John McCluskey, Jr., the 5-year-old son of John H. McCluskey, of Glenwood, was severely injured. He and a playmate were playing in the north yard of Samuel Estes, and the boy, while hiding in an arway, grasped an electric wire from which the insulation had been torn, and received injuries which at first were thought fatal. His entire right side is discolored, the right big toe and third finger on the right hand were badly burned. Miss Maggie Estes, who separated him from the wire, was severely shocked. The current was turned off as soon as possible, but too late to save the boy from permanent injury.

While Charlie Jones, residing on East Water street in Webster City, was driving a stake into the ground to tie his horse to, a painful accident happened to Mrs. Jones. She was standing in front of the stake watching Mr. Jones drive it when the sledge he was using flew off the handle and struck her a terrible blow upon the cheek bone. She was rendered unconscious for a few minutes and for a time it was feared her skull was fractured. A physician was hastily summoned and it was found the injury, while very painful, was not as serious as at first thought. The sledge weighs six pounds and if it had struck an inch or two higher results might have been fatal.

Mistaken identity caused Charles L. Peifer, of Webster City, to be arrested on a bigamy charge thirty minutes after he was united in marriage to Grace Flinn, of Webster City. C. A. Bryant, justice of the peace, who married them, issued the warrant for Peifer's arrest. E. M. Flinn, the girl's father, swore out the information. It all came about by Peifer's having a cousin of the same name and initials in Davenport. The Webster City Peifer received a newspaper clipping from Davenport telling of the Davenport couple having domestic troubles. Mr. Flinn secured the newspaper clipping. After the tangle had been cleared up, Flinn went back to Webster City with the newly married couple, after having given them his blessing.

He some time ago sold his big land holdings, investing $30,000 in a magnificent, three story brick business block in the growing young town. He is also heavily interested in the cattle business.

While with her mother, Mrs. A. C. Johnston, of Dexter, visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Adams near Orient, Fernie May Johnston, 3 years old, seeing some medical tablets and thinking them candy ate of them, was poisoned and died. The mother, threatened with loss of her reason, was brought to the home of her sister in Creston. The girl was an only child.

The little city of Monticello in Jones county, probably will be the first to make a test of the new paving law which assesses property not abutting on street improvements to help pay for improvements. Monticello is preparing to award contracts for $30,000 worth of new paving and as the expense will fall on property owners who are not benefited by the improvements it is expected the matter will be taken into court and an injunction asked at once.

Hauser Christianson, a farmer residing six miles north of Toledo, was seriously injured when he was kicked in the face by a horse. Mr. Christianson was found in a semi-conscious condition in the barn. His nose was badly fractured and his face severely cut. After his wounds had been dressed he regained consciousness and while seriously hurt it is believed he will recover. Mr. Christianson is about 55 years of age and has a family.

Lester P. Barlow, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Barlow of Clear Lake, is serving under General Villa in Mexico. He is a lieutenant and participated in the twenty-one days' engagement, the brigade to which he is attached losing over 1,200. Before joining Villa Barlow was establishing a transportation line, but the war interfered with the work and it was abandoned. Barlow had served four years as gunner in the United States navy.

The state dairy and food department is determined to prosecute farmers as well as dealers for the sale of bad eggs, according to W. B. Barney, commissioner. Mr. Barney said that a report had been spread to the effect that farmers would not be prosecuted. He pointed to the fact that the department has just recently convicted 15 farmers of violation of the laws with respect to the handling of eggs. Farmers must candie their eggs or at least be sure they are fresh when sold if they wish to avoid prosecution, he said.

The big fill leading to the Milwaukee viaduct over the Des Moines river west of Madrid has suffered from the effects of rains of last week. A slide of considerable proportion occurred on the north side of the fill and the entire fill was thought for a time to be in danger. To guard against accident the old line between Madrid and Woodward was used for two or three days. The company is having leveling driven at the west end of the fill to prevent further slides.

Standard Bred Stallion.
Lydon's Standard bred chestnut stallion High Wilson will make the season of 1914 at White's barn. See state certificate and breeding later. If you are looking for rich breeding, a fast stepper, good bone, good color, good disposition, don't pass High Wilson. One of his colts was winner of first prize at the Mitchell county fair in 1913. No better stallion was ever hitched to a buggy.
High Wilson has two crops of colts all over Howard and Winneshiek counties, and I know of only one that died of weakness at birth. If he has sired any poor ones they don't report them to me. This horse stood for public service in Milwaukee, Wis., at the state fair grounds at $25.00 to only warrant mares in fowl. I have cut this fee to $15.00 and warrant all his colts one week old. Look him over and come down to the race track and see him trot and then turn him down if you wish.
