A GREAT ORGANIZATION COMING

Arrangements have been made for the appearance at The Cresco of the world's famous Klitties band, to give two concerts on Saturday, Oct. 2nd, when they will introduce all their special features that have made them famous. The band is recognized as one of the best musical organizations in the country, presenting music of every type, from classical to popular, but of course when it comes to the music of the heather they excel. At least one player of each kind is a competent soloist, and the ensemble of the band is so harmonious and so delightful that music lovers will be enthusiastic in their applause. Accompanying the band is Mr. J. Coates Lockhart, the eminent tenor, who will sing songs ranging from grand opera to popular ballads. Mr. Lockhart possesses a rich and full tenor or voice and his singing with the band accompanying is one of the treats in store for the Klitties' patrons.

Farmers' Day, Saturday, October 2nd.

The date fixed for the Annual Fall Festival this year is Saturday, October 2nd, and the various committees are busy making the necessary arrangements. They will try to make a better and bigger holiday than ever. We want the crowd with us on that day. Without a good crowd even the best of programs will seem tame. Just make this a day off and get your family into your car and make Calmar your home for the day anyhow.—Calmar Courier.

If you want a farm loan at a low rate of interest, see American Loan & Trust Company, Cresco, Iowa.

—THE—
CHALICE of COURAGE
By Cyrus Townsend Brady—A Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature, in Six Parts.
SYNOPSIS

Louise Newbold, fearing a former suitor, James Armstrong, begs leave to accompany her husband on a trip to the mountains. While on a lonely trail, Louise's horse slips and both rider and horse fall over a high cliff. Louise's injuries are so unbearable that she implores her husband to end her life, and through his love for her he fulfills her wish. Five years later Jas. Armstrong meets Enid Maitland, who comes out of the East, and falls in love with her. The two go camping in the mountains. One day while on a fishing trip Enid is caught in a tornado and while trying to make her way home, is blown over a cliff into a torrent. She is rescued by a recluse of the mountains, no other than the Newbold who figured in the early part of the story. He takes her to his camp in the mountains and the rain, which has been coming down in torrents, turned into snow and imprisoned the two in this lonely camp for the entire mountain winter. Enid is believed to be dead by her relatives, but Armstrong has a premonition that she still lives, and in the spring when the mountain trail began to open, organized a searching party. They find their old camp and discover a bottle in which Newbold has left a note of Enid's rescue and directions as to how to find the camp. Armstrong is the first there and Newbold, recognizing his former enemy, a fight ensues that is interrupted by the appearance of Armstrong's party. While others are interested in their own affairs, he quietly leaves the camp and goes out and shoots himself. Enid and the rest return to the city where she and Newbold are married but return to the mountains where, through many adventures, they found and learned to love each other.
