Serial Star Must be Crack Athlete

Can you ride wild horses, shoot straight, run, jump, swim, dive, drive an auto or an aeroplane, play baseball, tennis, football? If you can, you are partially fitted to be a star in a motion picture serial. William Duncan, the star of Vitagraph's latest serial thriller, "Smashing Barriers," the first episode of which will be shown at the Cresco Opera House on October 14th, is one of those rare types who can fill the bill for any situation the authors of these serials may contrive. Nothing stumps him, and the beauty of it is that he not only can do all he is called upon to do but he never fails to look the part while doing so.

The first episode shows him as Dick Daring, a college football star, winning the big game for his school with a spectacular play. Big and husky in every inch of him, he looks the part in football togs, and having been a crack football player and all around athlete in the days before he came to the screen, there was no time lost in directing him how to carry a football, circle the end or dodge a tackler.

Two shows—7:45 and 9:15. 10c and 20c

FARM AT AUCTION!

Friday, October 17th, at 2:30 p. m.

I will offer for sale on above date my 232.61 acre farm described as follows: The Fractional NW 1/4 of Section 30-99-13 and the E 1/2 of the NE 1/4 of Section 25-99-14 all in Howard County, Iowa.

This farm is well improved, a good eight room house, two large barns, good double corn crib, large hog house, machine shed, hen house, wind mill and tank, farm scales, etc. These buildings are all as good as new. This farm is well fenced and cross fenced and in a high state of cultivation.

It is located one mile West of Saratoga, six miles East of Riceville, and nine miles Northeast of Elma. It is in a good neighborhood of prosperous farmers on the Cresco and Riceville State road.

Any one who has not yet a farm for next year will do well to look this farm over, and decide for himself whether it will not be cheaper to buy this farm and pay interest and take the increase in value every year, than to pay the high rent you are asked to pay at the present time.

TERMS: $2000.00 down on day of sale. $8000.00 on March 1st, 1920, and good terms on balance, running from five to ten years.
