THURSDAY, JUNE 30, 1892.

NATIONAL REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT, BENJAMIN HARRISON, Of Indiana.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT, WHITELAW REID, Of New York.

EVEN Missouri looks doubtful.

HILL will enjoy himself in November.

GIVE us four more years of Republicity, Protection and Prosperity.

The Democratic party has undoubtedly the strongest ticket it could nominate.

STEVENSON was nominated to please the "to the victor belongs the spoils element."

W. J. CAMBELL, of Illinois, has been chosen chairman of the National Republican Committee.

If Cleveland could not carry Rhode Island, how can he expect to carry the United States?

HARRISON never was defeated for President. The same cannot be truthfully said about Cleveland.

He who can yell loudest: "Billion Dollar Congress," "Robber Tariff," and "Turn the Rascals Out," is the best Democrat.

The Democratic ticket is a peculiar one. Mugwump Cleveland heads the ticket, while Spoilsman Stevenson brings up the rear.

MR. DAVID B. HILL had better take his dose like a little man and come off the ice. Democratic atmosphere is somewhat frigid in the State of New York.

The judicial redistricting bill passed the Senate on Monday, and in all probability it will pass the House. Our district comprises Caldwell, Crittenden, Livingston and Hopkins counties.

An editorial paragraph in the Hustler, last week, informs an unsuspecting public that that paper was clothed in a new dress. It was timely information, as no one would have discovered that important fact, had they not been told.

It is conceded that THE BEE possesses the most complete and expensive outfit in the county, and offers superior facilities for executing artistic work. We have made a change in our paper and will endeavor to make it one of the best weeklies in Western Kentucky. Our circulation is daily increasing, thereby offering better inducements to advertisers.

The People's Party has developed in Tennessee, to an alarming extent. Governor Buchanan has affiliated himself with this organization, and is bidding for the Presidential nomination. It would create a revolution in politics if Tennessee should turn traitor to Democracy, and West Virginia give her electoral vote to the Republicans. However, this seems to be a bad year for the Democrats.

The State convention of the People's Party in Texas was a stupendous affair, some twelve hundred delegates being present. It was the largest convention ever held in the State, and its action was calculated to alarm the Democratic leaders. The administration of Mr. Cleveland and his pronounced views on the silver question will doubtless strengthen the new party in the Southern States.

The time will soon arrive for selecting a standard-bearer in the Congressional race in this district. Many prominent names have been mentioned, but no one has signified a desire to enter the field, or to accept a nomination. In the triangular contest, there is a fair prospect of success. When will the convention be called and who will be the candidate?" is a question often asked. Let a Republican be selected who represents all the elements of strength, and who can vindicate and uphold by fair argument, the cardinal principles of the party.

The tariff plank in the platform reported by the Committee on Resolutions at the late Democratic convention was a complete straddle on that important issue. Mr. Neal, of Ohio, representing a minority of the committee, reported a substitute which was warmly supported by Mr. Watterson and was adopted by the convention. The platform, as amended, places the Democratic party squarely against the doctrine of protection, as embodied in the Republican platform. There can be no double dealing on this question during the present campaign. The alignment is so complete that the most stupid cannot be deceived.

THE HENDERSON GLEANER thinks it has become great, but seems to dread having the pores of its editor's shin loosened. Last week it chanted: "The Gleaner is in luck. It has a libel suit on hand, and this coupled with the extreme hot weather now loafing around here is calculated to loosen the pores of a fellow's skin. Now that the initiatory degrees has been conferred the Gleaner will be admitted to rank with the great papers of the country, many of them having their hands full battling for the right and against wrong. A libel suit is not a pleasant thing to confront, but like the measles, we must all have them."

HON. A. E. STEVENSON, who was nominated by the Chicago convention for Vice-President, is a native of Christian county, in this State, and resides at present in Bloomington, Ill. He was educated at Danville and practiced law at Mitamora, Illinois, for several years. He has served several terms in Congress, and was First Assistant Postmaster General during the administration of President Cleveland. Mr. Stevenson is a practical politician, and established a national reputation by his ready way of "turning the rascals out" during his connection with the postoffice department. He has fine social qualities, and among his neighbors at home is very popular.

A BILL which has passed the House leaves drug stores free to sell liquor as medicine, or in other words, free to become saloons at their own sweet will, for who has ever known drug stores or, in fact, any place where intoxicants are sold carry out the intent of the law in the sale of the same. The temperance people of the State should act and act quickly, else the new local option law, as it now is, be passed. Every few days the whisky interests repeal the prohibition laws of the several counties, the desires of the majority of the people of those counties going for naught. The saloon element seems to have a firm hold upon the law-giving power and getting almost anything asked for. The temperance people should bestir themselves and make an effort to prevent such a disorder or rue the day they permitted this disturbing element to control the commonwealth.

THE nomination of Mr. Cleveland by the National Democratic Convention at Chicago will create no surprise among thoughtful people. THE BEE has all the while claimed him to be the logical candidate. His name was the only one upon whom the different elements of the party could concentrate, and he inspired more enthusiasm than all others combined. A strange feature of the convention was the selection of Mr. Cleveland against the protest of his own State. The united delegation of New York were earnest and unrelenting in their efforts to defeat him. We fail to see how Mr. Cleveland has any show of success. The opposition to him in his own State has become so strong and deep seated, that he must evidently fall far below his party vote. President Harrison has lost no strength since his election in 1888, and his administration is certainly growing in popular favor. He has the prestige of a splendid record, and the people are prosperous and satisfied.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. WHISTLE POSTS.

Engineer Hollis was up celebrating on the 24th. The shipment of new potatoes, north, is now very heavy. Roadmaster Maloney has returned to duty on the O. & N. It is rumored that the Western & Atlantic has passed into the hands of a receiver. Quite a number of the railroad boys attended the picnic at this point last Friday. Dispatcher E. L. Wise, after several weeks rest, will return to his post of duty this week.

Section Foreman Hammond and Armstrong were here last Friday at the Masonic celebration. A passenger train on the Cincinnati, Wabash & Michigan railway went through a culvert last week and everybody aboard was more or less injured, except one woman. President Mackey has succeeded in securing control of the M. & O. railroad, which will now become a strong competing line with the Illinois Central for Southern business.

The rush of the Republicans and Democrats to and from their conventions is about over, and now the railroads will next arrange to accommodate the People's Party delegates. The Louisville Terminal Railway company contemplates, or have commenced to build a belt line at Louisville. Eastern and northern capitalists are interested in the enterprise.

Western railroads are preparing for the greatest summer season they have had for years. Less than half of last year's crops have been harvested, and traffic in this line is expected to be very brisk. The L. & N. will come in for its share of Southern shipments.

The new road from Owensboro to West Louisville will soon be built, the right of way having been granted in most cases, and considerable money subscribed toward the purchase of that portion not granted. It is thought the L., St. L. & T. has an interest in this projection.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has inaugurated a new method of hauling grain from the West to the seaboard. Recently forty cars of grain arrived at Philadelphia from Chicago, without a change of engines or break in the schedule, saving many hours usually lost by ordinary through freight in the change of engines. This train was equipped with all the modern improvements, and was carefully inspected at each stop. The weight of the grain alone was 1,200 tons, or 50,000 bushel. The total weight of the train was 4,000,000 pounds, and was almost one-third of a mile long. This is the first attempt of the kind ever made, and the Pennsylvania Company, in originating this method, which is to be continued as a part of the regular freight service, will become a strong favorite with shippers where quick delivery is desirable. Toledo Blade

HE WAS A DISAPPOINTMENT. Our train was delayed by a smashup and as I came back from the scene of the wreck I stopped a moment to look at our locomotive on the siding. She was a magnificent piece of mechanism, and lay there, breathing in short and quick gasps as engines do, impatient of restraint, and throbbing to be flying along the glittering lines of steel. The engineer was hanging out of the cab.

"She's beautiful isn't she?" I remarked. "Which one?" he asked, looking after three or four lady passengers walking on the track. "That little one in front is a corker, only she's most too squat."

"I mean your engine," I explained hurriedly. "Oh!" he said, in a tone of disappointment. "I suppose you think a great deal of her, don't you?" I ventured, as I stepped nearer and laid my hand gently on a projecting bar.

"That's my business and I don't have time to think of anything else while she's on the road," he responded.

"But you don't love to watch her pulsating with life and to feel the thrill of her speed as she whirls you along?"

"Well, I can't say that I do, exactly," he said as he rubbed his head for thought. "Don't you carress her and humor her, and pride yourself upon her, as you would a woman you loved?"

"Not hardly," he said with a grin. "Do you call her 'sweetheart' and 'dear old girl,' and things like that?"

"Of course not," in a tone of disapproval. "Do you feel as if she were human?"

"Not that I know of."

All the poetry and tradition of the engineer and his engine were oozing out at every pore, but I kept on to the bitter end. "Don't you sing to her and whistle softly as you speed through the night?" I asked.

"I can't sing any more than a crow," he said.

"Don't you chirrup to her in her flight?"

"Never to my knowledge. Mebbe the fireman does. I'll ask him."

"No, no," I said, putting up my hands. "Don't you speak of her as a friend?"

"No."

"Don't cherish her as your own flesh and blood?"

"No."

"Don't talk and commane with her?"

"Now, of course I don't. The engineer was becoming uneasy.

"Don't coddle her as a child?" I said.

"Now."

"Don't care whether she runs through hell or twists off a piston rod or bursts a cylinder head, so long as your wages go on and you don't get bounced?" I said in desperation.

"For the first time he began to look natural.

"That's about the size of it, I guess," he said, with a laugh, and I went back to my car with the remnants of a broken idol clutched convulsively to my bosom. [Detroit Free] res.
