But This Does Not Bother Mrs. Burton, Under the Circumstances.

Houston, Texas.—In an interesting letter from this city, Mrs. S. C. Burton writes as follows: "I think it is my duty to tell you what your medicine, Cardui, the woman's tonic, has done for me.

I was down sick with womanly trouble, and my mother advised several different treatments, but they didn't seem to do me any good. I lingered along for three or four months, and for three weeks, I was in bed, so sick I couldn't bear for any one to walk across the floor.

My husband advised me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic. I have taken two bottles of Cardui, am feeling fine, gained 15 pounds and do all of my housework. Friends hardly know me, I am so well."

If you suffer from any of the ailments so common to women, don't allow the trouble to become chronic. Begin taking Cardui to-day. It is purely vegetable, its ingredients acting in a gentle, natural way on the weakened womanly constitution. You run no risk in trying Cardui. It has been helping weak women back to health and strength for more than 50 years. It will help you. At all dealers.

Enthusiasm.
Enthusiasm is faith in action. "Faith believeth in all things." Enthusiasm puts that belief to the test. The enthusiast believes that the thing can be done; he has faith to believe that it ought to be done; he has enthusiasm to do it. To the unthinking, enthusiasm is but the foam on the deeply stirred waters. In truth, it is the striving of the waters themselves. It is the very life of effort.—From "The Power of Mental Demand," by Herbert Edward Law.

Health a Factor in Success

The largest factor contributing to a man's success is undoubtedly health. It has been observed that a man is seldom sick when his bowels are regular—he is never well when they are constipated. For constipation you will find nothing quite so good as Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. Sold by All Dealers.

Chief Sufferer in the Dust.

The cost of dust is dwelt upon by Aurelian Scholl in his "Reminiscences." He tells of the elaborate preparations made for a hostile encounter between two journalists whom he knew. One of them borrowed $20 from Scholl to meet his share of the expenses. This sum was never returned. "After ten minutes perfunctory fencing," he adds, "the principals embraced each other, and both left the ground without a scratch. I was the only man hit."

One of the Floats for Big Evansville Parade

The above is one of the numerous floats that will be seen in the gorgeous Turnfest-German Day parade, Monday, June 29th, in Evansville. This particular float represents the "Watch on the Rhine." The soldiers shown in the design will all be dressed in the magnificent uniforms of the regular German Army. The management has succeeded in securing the services of a number of stalwart old veterans who saw actual service at the front during the Franco-Prussian war of 1870. Arrangements are being perfected to have this float, preceded by men on horseback representing the different classes of German cavalrymen in handsome uniforms. The parade will be one of the most spectacular ever seen in this part of the country.

GERMAN DAY

WHAT IT IS AND WHY IT IS CELEBRATED.

Bigger Than Ever This Year—Evansville's Annual Event.

Evansville, Ind.
What is German Day and why is it celebrated? Thus are thousands of German citizens of this vicinity interrogated each succeeding year about this festival occasion. In order that the thousands who make inquiry yearly as to the significance of German Day may know its true meaning the following history of it in tabloid form has been prepared.

Francis Daniel Pastorius emigrated to America with a German colony of Pietists, or Quakers, on the 20th of June, 1683, and commenced the building of Germantown, Pa., now a part of Philadelphia, on the 24th of October, following.

On this nucleus, founded by Pastorius and 33 Germans who came with him, the German immigration to this country commenced. The tide soon set strongly in, and it was not long until the population of Pennsylvania numbered its thousands of Germans.

Pastorius was an author, a man of considerable ability and was appointed a magistrate by Penn. who was his devoted friend. In 1688 he was one of the signers of a protest against buying, holding or selling slaves, which was declared to be "an act irreconcilable with the precepts of the Christian religion." He died at Germantown, Penn., Sept. 27, 1719.

The immigrants who followed Pastorius came from almost every condition of life. The laborer, the artisan, the merchant, trader, lawyers, doctors and educators poured into the colony and were to be found on farms and in every town and hamlet. Industrious, economical and thrifty they soon passed from comparative poverty to wealth and stand today as the second star in the grand galaxy of states.

The cause which led to the great emigration from Germany can be traced to several sources. Pastorius, with his followers, fed to the new world on account of religious persecutions. Holding to the cardinal doctrine of the Quakers they were non-combatants and opposed to all military service, and non-conformists with the existing church authorities in the homes of their nativity.

Since the landing of Pastorius 331 years ago, on June 20th, the emigration from Germany to America has been so steady that today German blood and personality form a very part of the warp and woof of our national character. No component part of the mass of humanity that goes to make up the total ingredients of the renewed "melting-pot of America" has done more than the German to produce strong men and good citizens—liberty-loving and law abiding.

Wherever the German emigrant or his descendants have settled the community has invariably proven the beneficiary. He is by nature constructive—never destructive—he builds up rather than tears down. On the field of battle in defense of his adopted country he gained immortal fame for his valor as witnessed by the glorious records of Generals Schurz, Sigel, Osterhaus, Ashoth and Willich. Meritorious achievement has marked their efforts along commercial and industrial lines, while in every branch of science and literature they have gained high honors and distinction.

The German loves his adopted country—not that he loves the Fatherland less, but America more. Being demonstrative by nature his annual German Day celebration is but an expression of the pride he feels and the love he holds for his very own country and that of his children—America. The fact makes him happy and he tries to share his joy with everyone in a public celebration, hence the German Day festes year after year all over the country.

This year the German Day festivities for this part of the country have been combined with the Turnfest of the German Gymnastic Association of America. It will last three days in this city June 27th, 28th and 29th, and will be a gala affair from beginning to end. The executive committee announce that it will easily eclipse anything of the kind ever before attempted. Many thousands of visitors are expected in from a radius of 150 miles.

"DEVELOP NORMAL MEN"

GERMAN GYMNASTIC ASSOCIATION.

To Hold Big Turnfest.

Evansville, Ind.
One of the most notable athletic meets ever held in the Central West will be the Turnfest-German Day celebration in this city, June 27th, 28th and 29th. Mayor Benjamin Bosse of the executive committee predicts it will eclipse anything of the kind ever before attempted along the same line in this vicinity.

The German Gymnastic Association is a national organization divided into different circuits. These circuits have field days, or Turnfests, the different turners belonging to the circuit taking part. Prizes are awarded to those gymnasts making the largest number of points. Competition for these prizes is keen and induces the contenders to strive with their best efforts to win them.

"To develop normal men," says Bernard De Vry, president Evansville Turnverein, "is what we endeavor to do. In this respect we differ from the average idea of athletic attainment. Turners demand an all round or thorough development of the whole body, thus the gymnast making the greatest number of points in apparatus work, as well as in field sports will naturally be awarded first prize.

"We turners," continued Mr. De Vry, "contend that a normal mind is better calculated to exist and fulfill its best functions in a normally developed body. Each should be in harmony with the other. Our gymnastic exercises are planned so as to produce this very desirable result."

The combination of Turnfest-German Day festivities this year, and which will last three days, will doubtless prove the biggest drawing card ever put out by this city. The authorities are arranging to handle crowds ranging from 50,000 to 100,000 daily. Visitors are coming from every point within a radius of 150 miles.

NEWSPAPERS COME FIRST

Turnfest, German Day Advertising Committee Make Important Selection.

Evansville, Ind.
At a recent meeting here of the executive committee of the forthcoming Turnfest-German Day celebration to be held in this city June 27th, 28th and 29th, considerable discussion was indulged in as to the best publicity mediums to select for the purpose of acquainting the public with the affair.

It was agreed to have Mr. J. S. Oliver, a practical advertising man and chairman of the publicity committee, conduct a thorough investigation and make a formal report. Mr. Oliver wrote twenty of the largest advertisers in this country and asked their opinion as to the most profitable advertising medium to use. Each of the twenty, basing their conclusion on many years of actual experience, wrote that newspapers were by far the most valuable and profitable of all mediums.
