THE Democrats are in a bad way, both in the State and nation. They seem to be without leadership. Nobody wants Bryan; nobody wants Hill; nobody wants Parker. Where is the Moses who will lead the party out of the wilderness? If they could only agree upon Watterson, or Cantrell, or Allie Young, or Judge Hargiss, or Judge Redwine, or Walton, or Bro. Pearl, or just anybody, Lord, until they could get some kind of a start again and not be eternally left behind to murmur at the success of the Republican party there would be great rejoicing in the camp. But the curse seems to be upon them, and they will be compelled to wander in the wilderness until they all die there. Too bad!

Has the two distinguished Kentucky Senators been swallowed up by the "machine?" Two months ago they both stood shoulder to shoulder to smash the machine with Senator Joseph Clay Styles Blackburn as the mouthpiece, declared that the machine must be destroyed or there would be no Democratic party in Kentucky. (Of course the Democratic party means Senator Blackburn himself to that ardent patriot,) and Parker was thrust down the throats of free Kentuckians. Now it is claimed that both Blackburn and McCreary are in the syndicate with Beckham to rule the roost. Has the machine really taken them in, too?

THE committee meeting at the Court-house was largely attended last Saturday, and everybody was delighted with the action of the committee in fixing the time and manner of holding the next primary. Everybody was treated fairly and no grounds left for fault finding or complaint.

It now looks like Judge Allie W. Young proposes to do some stunts at Redwining the State convention himself. Last year he favored a certain young man who desired very much to keep the Governor's chair warm, and it was then all right, but now the shoe seems to be on the other foot, hence the howl.

The present indications point to the largest vote polled for the Republican ticket in Knox county this fall that was ever known, and the same conditions prevail throughout this district. We would not be in the least surprised to see the Republican majority in the old Eleventh reach 25,000 this fall.

If you desire to secure a pardon for some friend in this State you should have the papers ready to present to the Acting Governor, W. P. Thorne, during the Democratic National Convention in July; Governor Beckham will attend the convention, and Col. Thorne will sit in that big chair. He has promised many pardons, and the time to get 'em is when the old man is ripe.
