

Indigestion

Many persons, otherwise vigorous and healthy, are bothered occasionally with indigestion. The effects of a disordered stomach on the system are dangerous, and prompt treatment of indigestion is important. "The only medicine I have needed has been something to aid digestion and clean the liver," writes Mr. Fred Ashby, a McKinney, Texas, farmer. "My medicine is for indigestion and stomach trouble of any kind. I have never found anything that touches the spot, like Black-Draught. I take it in broken doses after meals. For a long time I tried pills, which griped and didn't give the good results. Black-Draught liver medicine is easy to take, easy to keep, inexpensive."

AMATEURS SHOULD PLAY FAIR

Radio Inspector Schmidt Urges That They Learn the Laws and Regulations.

Nine out of every ten radio fans are good sports, but the tenth is either a fan with poor judgment or a "rotter." It is up to the amateurs to see that restrictions are not imposed upon them by playing fair, says Radio Inspector L. R. Schmidt of the Ninth district.

This can be done by observing certain cautions and by becoming posted on the radio laws and regulations. A copy of these regulations may be obtained from the superintendent of documents, government printing office, Washington, D. C., for 15 cents. It is worth while to spend 15 cents in order to be a "square shooter" in the radio game.

The great trouble with amateurs is that when they want to send a message around a corner they put on all the power they have with the hope that some one in Texas might pick up their message. The object should be to use the minimum amount of power to get the message to its destination.

Amateurs should keep their wave length to 200 meters. They should use a "pure wave" as the regulations state, "if the sending apparatus is of such a character that the energy is radiated in two or more wave lengths, more or less sharply defined, as indicated by a sensitive wave meter, the energy in no one of the lesser waves shall exceed 10 per centum of that in the greater."

The wave must be "sharp." As to this the regulations state: "At all stations the logarithmic decrement per complete oscillation in the wave trains emitted by the transmitter shall not exceed two-tenths when sending distress signals or signals and messages relating thereto."

Amateurs frequently are at fault in calling stations too often. The law states that they can call three times, send "d e" once and sign their station call three times; but often the amateurs will send the call a score or more times.

MARRY IN HASTE

"SAM OWLEY brought his bride home last evening," announced the horse doctor, "and they're going to begin housekeeping right away. Sam says he married the girl three days after first seeing her, and seems to think he did something pretty clever, but there's an old saying about marrying in haste and repenting at leisure."

It's worth just about as much as the rest of the old sayings," said the village patriarch. "They're all cheap goods, and you don't get a chromo with any of them. Most married women repent at leisure, whether they married in haste or took their time about it."

"I sometimes think that the longer an unmarried woman contemplates the man she is going to marry, the less she knows about him. If there is a protracted courtship, the man has every opportunity to work up a reputation that doesn't belong to him."

"Just this morning my present wife was telling me that if she had known what sort of a man I really was she'd never have married me. Yet she had six months to study me before the wedding bells rang out their glad chimes, and she thought I was an exemplary man. I'm naturally of a slovenly disposition. I never did take much pride in my appearance, even when I was a young man, and as I waxed older I became downright careless. I considered it a waste of money and effort to have my clothes pressed, and having my shoes blacked seemed merely vanity and vexation of spirit."

"Yet when I began courting the excellent woman who is my wife, I braced up in the most surprising way. I always did that when I went courting. And the surprising thing is that it never seemed a dishonest proceeding. It never struck me, until my wife called my attention to the matter, long afterwards, that I was obtaining money under false pretenses, so to speak, when I created the impression that I was the glass of fashion and the mold of form."

"I'd go to see that woman all togged out like a young man who is billed to sing a tenor solo. I'd have my whiskers and hair trimmed, and my shoes shined, and my teeth manicured, and I'd be wearing a collar as white as the driven snow, and a handkerchief in keeping. It seemed the natural and proper thing to do, yet I was working a flimflam game with the best intentions in the world."

"The more Arabella considered me, the more she was convinced that I was a marvelously neat and tidy man, and she was so impressed that she married me without the slightest hesitation. No sooner were the last sad rites performed, however, than I lost all interest in the task of dolling myself up, and I've been a sort of scarecrow ever since."

"My wife has to remind me when it's time to change shirts or have my hair cut, and she's completely disheartened. I don't blame her in the least, for I realize now, since she has explained the matter ten thousand times, that she married a counterfeit."

"It would have been far better had she caught me when I was running wild, and married me without taking time to think the matter over. But she studied me for several months, and you see what sort of a prize package she drew."

"I believe a woman, or a man, either, will do well to trust to luck in matrimonial matters."

"Millions for Defense."

Charles C. Pinckney was one of three envoys sent by the United States to France in 1797 to settle disputes which had arisen between France and the United States. The American grievance was caused by the seizure of American vessels by France. The French grievance was that commercial privileges had been granted to England, Talleyrand, the French foreign minister, refused to receive the envoys, but it had been conveyed to them by secret agents that before any settlement could be reached it would be necessary for the United States to pay a large sum of money, which was, in fact, little more than a bribe. It was then that Pinckney made his famous declaration that the United States had "millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute."

Much Affected.

"Come, now! Don't look so miserable!" said a Tumlinville photographer. "Just pretend in your own mind that you are going to get married to-morrow."

"Dad-burn the dad-burned luck!" returned the Arkansas sister. "That's precisely what I am going to do!"

A Real Sport.

"But, man, you would make thousands in the deal. It's a sure thing." "Thanks! But I prefer to take a reasonable chance."

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

NATIONAL SCOUT COUNCIL

The national council of the Boy Scouts of America held its twelfth annual meeting at Chicago, March 29 and 30. At this gathering were assembled the national leaders of scouting from all over the country to hear the reports of the past year's work and formulate plans and policies for the year to come. Every state in the Union was represented at this assemblage which is the big event of the year for the organization. The report of the chief scout executive was particularly interesting in that it summed up the outstanding events of the biggest year in the history of the movement, biggest not only in numbers but in remarkable progress and achievement. National Scout Commissioner Daniel Carter Beard reported for the National Court of Honor, of which he is chairman, telling something of the heroic work done by scouts in life-saving. Other strikingly interesting reports were those of L. L. McDonald, director of the department of camping, and Lorne W. Barclay, director of the department of education, which is specifically charged with the development of helpful relationships between scouting and churches and schools, a work which has made great strides during the past year.

Resolutions were adopted during the sessions conveying greetings to scouts of other nations and expressing appreciation of the generous co-operation of the American Legion, Rotary, Kiwanis and other national organizations in promoting scouting.

Resolutions of appreciation were also passed in recognition of the splendid gratuitous service of scoutmasters and other volunteer leaders and of the faithful work done by the heads of departments and others at the national council headquarters in New York City.

Letters and telegrams of congratulation and greeting were received from President Harding, from cabinet members and from governors of a large number of states as well as from Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, the National Catholic Welfare Council, the Federal Council of Churches and other organizations. These messages were read at the "Twelfth Birthday Dinner" at which Walter W. Head of Omaha was toastmaster and music was furnished by a Boy Scout orchestra of Chicago.

NEED NO GRUB OR TENTS

Scouts of New York City will be able soon to go on a week's hike without the trouble of carrying grub or shelter tents. This is the plan of Chief Gordon, and it is now being actively carried out by two members of Troop 208, Bronx, who are building and marking White Bar Trail. This is a trail being laid out at the Kamehahkaha camps, encircling the country about them. Its total length will be more than forty level miles, that is, miles as measured on a map. The hills and valleys will probably make this distance 25 to 50 per cent more. To cover the whole trail will require a hike of five and a half days. In providing for accommodations at night, it is Chief Gordon's plan to establish a series of five camps at one-day intervals on the way.

SCOUTS GET RED CROSS MEDALS

Scouts William Johnson of Spokane, Wash., and Wray Farmin of Sandpoint, Idaho, who recently received gold medals from the National Court of Honor for their heroic service in saving the lives of three women from drowning last summer, have also been honored with the first prize offered by the life saving department of the American Red Cross "for exceptional meritorious action in saving lives and rendering first aid to the injured during the year 1921." Both boys have been scouts since they were twelve years old. Both are Eagles and have qualified as American Red Cross life savers.

BUILD BRIDGE WITHOUT NAILS

During the scouting carnival given in the city auditorium at Omaha, Neb., boy scouts roused the interest of spectators by building a 54-foot bridge without nails, which was strong enough to bear the weight of an automobile. Six different groups of boys, each demonstrating a different scouting activity, were in action at the same time.

DOINGS OF SCOUTS

Burke, Mont., troops have been receiving a course of instruction in first aid from the United States bureau of mines, safety rescue car No. 11, in charge of H. E. Gallison, United States safety official.

Logan, Utah, troops were proud hosts during anniversary week to Governor Charles R. Mabey, who took the oath which made him a regular Tenderfoot.
