ONE DOLLAR AND FIFTY CENTS A YEAR IN ADVANCE

OX COUNTY MARINE WITH ATLANTIC FLEET

Washington, D. C.—Starting on a period of sea duty with the prospect of visiting strange ports in distant lands, James Henry Campbell, of Gray, Knox County, Kentucky, is a member of the U. S. Marine guard on the U. S. S. North Dakota, one of the largest battleships of the Atlantic Fleet. The official records at Marine Corps headquarters here show that he was recently assigned to duty on that vessel.

James, who is a son of Mrs. Mamie Campbell, of Gray, joined the Marines at Cincinnati, O., last June, and in recent months he has been stationed at Parris Island, S. C. Later he took a course at the Sea-Going School, Norfolk, Va., where selected Marines are especially trained for sea duty. At this school he learned the duties, deportment and general routine required of Marines on battleships. His transfer to the dreadnaught followed.

The North Dakota was recently reported at the Southern Drill Grounds, a few miles away from the Virginia Capes, but it is expected the vessel will soon leave for the West Indies, where it is customary for most of the Atlantic Fleet to go each winter for target practice. Upon his return to Knox County young Campbell will doubtless have many interesting experiences to recount of his life at sea.

STARTLING RAILROAD FIGURES

In an article from the Railway Age we give some startling figures in regard to railroad rolling stock. Read it and then use your influence to bring about conditions which, in turn, will mean greater prosperity. Red tape and politics are a bane to big business. No one objects to the protection of the public but railroads should not be shackled by unnecessary expense for useless clerical work or by the interference of governmental officials whose lack of railroad knowledge would make a large library. Let the railroads grow. They are the biggest asset we have.

ARMISTICE DAY OBSERVED

Armistice Day was observed by members of the American Legion by a parade, an army slum feed and by attendance at the Christian Church where Judge Sullivan, of Williamsburg, delivered an address on rehabilitation, Americanization and compensation, the program of the Legion for the coming year. The boys looked fine in their army and navy dress, carrying the flag of their country, which has never been dipped to a foreign foe.

MIDDLESBORO HOTEL OPENS

The Cumberland Hotel at Middlesboro was opened Thursday of last week with about seven hundred guests present. The speech of the evening was made by Dr. J. A. Gray formerly well-known Chautauqua speaker and now pastor of the Middlesboro Presbyterian Church.

CONGRESSMAN ROBSON Fresh Honors To 11th District

Not even the most optimistic Republican will claim that the party has much cause for jubilation over the result of the election. The gentle voters displayed a disposition to hammer the elephant into the jungles of minority and, while they did not succeed entirely, they have left him somewhat dazed and shaken. He is a tough old critter, however, and really has millions of friends who would prefer to feed him popcorn rather than beat him around. They have made a goat of the elephant for the sins of others, as well as for his own sins, which, while not quite fair, is awfully human, on the same principle that some people will kick at an unoffending object when they cannot reach the thing they wish to kick.

However, it's an ill wind that blows nowhere, and out of his corner the elephant has lifted his some what sore trunk and has presented to Congressman J. M. Robson the chairmanship of at least two important committees: Roads and Post-offices, and also of Pensions, this being the first time the 11th District has ever enjoyed this distinction. We offer our congratulations to both Mr. Robson and his district. There has been much bosh and buncombe repeated about him, but the fact remains that he has worked hard for us in this district and none could have done more, while few could have done as well. He has brains, character and decency as assets and he works for his constituents.

Let us remember this to his credit. One good turn deserves another and he has done many for us. While he doubtless has his faults, J. M. Robson is not two-faced, nor will he stab one in the back. What he says is for the whole world to hear.

In other words, the 11th District has a real man for Congressman.

TUESDAY CLUB

The Tuesday Club was entertained November 7th by Mrs. B. P. Jones. The members were delighted to hear words of greeting from out of town members, Mrs. W. C. Black and Mrs. Sawyer A. Smith.

A very interesting discussion on Books and Modern Literature was presented by Mrs. J. R. Tuggle, assisted by Mrs. J. G. Tye and Miss Gertrude Black. Refreshing refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed by all—thanks to the hostess. The next meeting, November 21st, will be at the home of Mrs. R. B. Minton. Mrs. John Owen Gross leader.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH Sunday, November 19th, 1922

The pastor will preach at both morning and evening services.

"If God Is Good, Why Does He Allow Suffering and Sorrow?" will be the subject at 7:15 p.m.

ARTHUR FORD, Pastor. Mae Carter, Organist.

Now, What's the Delay?

MRS. J. M. TINSLEY MEETS . . . . DEATH IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. Ada Tinsley was instantly killed in an automobile accident on Sunday afternoon, while en-route to Four Mile, accompanied by Representative J. M. Tinsley, who was driving the car, and Mrs. William Tomlinson and Judge W. W. Tinsley, who occupied the rear seat of the car. Others of the outing party were Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Herndon, Mrs. W. W. Tinsley and Mr. William Tomlinson. They were all going to the farm near Four Mile where Representative and Judge Tinsley and their sister, Mrs. A. N. Herndon, lived in their earlier years. The first auto passed the railroad crossing in safety. On the arrival of the car driven by Representative Tinsley, a man motioned for the party to stop, but Mr. Tinsley, being unused to railroad signals, read into the motions a clear track ahead. On reaching the track, however, a freight train was already bearing down on them, some sixty to seventy feet away. Evidently the engine of the auto went dead at this juncture and while Judge W. W. Tinsley and Mrs. Tomlinson jumped clear from the back seat, Mrs. J. M. Tinsley had apparently got no further than the running board, while Mr. Tinsley still remained at the wheel when the railroad engine struck the front of the car hurling it some fifty feet. The automobile apparently struck Mrs. Tinsley with terrific force while her husband was thrown out of the car. The force of the impact with the automobile caused concussion of the brain and a broken arm in the case of Mrs. Tinsley, death being practically instantaneous, whereas Mr. Tinsley escaped with severe bruises about the body and cuts on the face, no ribs being broken as at first thought.

The caboose of the freight train was uncoupled and within ten minutes the body of Mrs. Tinsley was being brought to town, accompanied by the rest of the party. Mr. Tinsley was taken to the Logan Hospital for medical attention.

In his scramble to escape the oncoming train Judge W. W. Tinsley received slight scalp abrasions. Mrs. Tomlinson escaped without injury apart from the nervous shock.

Representative Tinsley was able to leave the hospital Monday for his home but was forbidden by his physicians to attend the funeral.

The car containing Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Herndon, Mrs. W. W. Tinsley, and Mr. Wm. Tomlinson, on reaching the farm waited for some time for the ill fated car to appear and finally, leaving Mr. Herndon at the farm, they started back to investigate, only to learn the sad fate which had overtaken Mrs. Tinsley. They thereupon drove back for Mr. Herndon and returned to the city with all speed.

The testimony of the trainmen is that Mrs. Tinsley was on the running board and her husband in the car when they struck it. It would appear that the front wheels of the auto were on the track and that the auto was whirled around as it was thrown clear of the track.

The funeral was held at the Christian church Tuesday at 1:30 o'clock, Rev. A. A. Ford, pastor, having charge of the obsequies, being assisted therein by Rev. John Owen Gross, of the Methodist Episcopal church. Members of the choir were joined by choristers from other churches and by the Union College Quartette. Masses of flowers were in evidence, silent testimony of the love and affection in which Mrs. Tinsley was held.

At the grave there was but a short committal prayer as the remains were lowered to their last resting place.

Honorary pallbearers were Dr. G. H. Albright, Dr. John G. Tye, Dr. F. R. Harton, Dan H. Herndon, G. W. Tye, Alex. C. Vaughn.

Active pallbearers were C. H. Gibson, G. L. Dickinson, Geo. F. Tinsley, Chas. D. Cole, C. F. Rathfon and Thos. D. Tinsley.

Among those from out of town who attended the funeral were Mrs. Arthur Hurst, Mrs. Ed Hurst, and Mrs. Otto Brown, from Middlesboro; Mrs. Ben Matthews, Knoxville; Mrs. Betty Archer, Baughman; Mrs. C. E. Ball, Mrs. B. M. Baker, and Mrs. Kenes Bowling, of Harlan; Mrs. Maud Tinsley Dysard, Ashland; Mrs. James A. Stephens, Indianapolis; Mrs. C. D. Salvers, Louisville; Miss Lyda Helton, Berea; Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Cole, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. D. Cole, of Harlan; Mrs. W. T. Chappelle, and Mrs. Grover Latham, Corbin; Hon. Charles Finley and E. E. Nelson, of Williamsburg.

A pile of telegrams poured in on Mr. Tinsley following the publication of the accident, all expressing sympathy, which is also felt by each of her many friends.

Ada J. Tinsley was born June 20, 1866, and died November 12, 1922, being 56 years, 4 months and 22 days old. She was united in matrimony with John M. Tinsley on September 13, 1882. She was born in Barbourville and lived here all her life.

Mrs. Tinsley was a woman of deep religious conviction and those who loved her best have that abiding peace which comes with the knowledge that all is well with their beloved dead.

EDITORIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

In keeping with its policy of serving the machinery industry to the fullest extent, the American Machinist takes pleasure in announcing the appointment of Ethan Viall, former editor and for ten years on the editorial staff, as Ohio Editor with headquarters at Cincinnati.

Mr. Viall's long connection with the industry and his wide acquaintance in the field insure the maximum of American Machinist editorial service to our friends in the Ohio district. Mr. Viall's appointment is effective November first and his address is 7474 Lower River Road, Fernbank, Cincinnati.

The addition of an Ohio editor to the American Machinist staff rounds out a field force that is giving unequalled service to the machinery industry. With the home office in New York and high grade technical editors in New England, Ohio and Chicago, the centers of the industry can be reached early and often and the subscribers are thus assured of authoritative, up-to-the-minute information on everything of interest to machinery men.

THE EDITORS, American Machinist.

WALLACE, THE MAGICIAN Is Coming To Barbourville

Next Tuesday, at the High School Auditorium under the auspices of the M. E. Ladies Aid, Barbourville is indeed fortunate in securing this wonderful opportunity of witnessing the mysterious magic of the noted magician. Mr. Wallace has had more than twelve years of Lyceum experience and was a well-known entertainer in our soldiers' camps during the war.

Don't miss seeing him! Bring all the kiddies and enjoy a magical evening at the High School Auditorium, Tuesday, Nov. 21. Admission 25c and 35c.

TOO MANY CHURCHES?

We are often told by those who attend churches and by those who do not that there are too many churches. They are said to cost too much and people do not attend as they should.

The function of a church, as we understand it, is to not only prepare humanity for the next world, but to inculcate the principles of decency and right living into our lives. We have in Barbourville three full time ministers who work for the public good and several other ministers throughout the county whose work is either unpaid, or whose pay is so small as to be negligible. These men teach the ethics embraced in the Ten Commandments, which really mean one's duty toward God and to one's neighbor. They hold up also the life of Christ for men to see and follow. In other words, they teach the beauty of human law and the gospel. No small job, we must admit.

Against them are set the criminal courts which do their duty, honestly in the sight of God and man.

Against them are set the criminal element, the men who protect the criminals by lies, sophistry or double dealing, some of whom cover themselves with the mantle of respectability which the church affords, and also, the indifferent or those who get their thrill from acts of crime—men facing both ways.

When one considers the forces of evil abroad in the land, the wickedness of criminals and so called christian men who, for filthy lucre, betray the Christ whom they profess to follow and the indifference of those who make of crime a mental movie picture show, and the enormous cost of fighting or protecting evil as against the trifling sum expended for church work, one is compelled to decide that it is not a question of there being too many, but too few churches.

The fact, too, that men remain as inherently decent as they do, is a proof that the upheld Cross is a greater force than the combined forces of evil even tho it is so numerically and financially weak in comparison.

God is still in his world with His Church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.

Good roads mean better schools.

MRS JOHN M. TINSLEY

Funeral services for Mrs. John M. Tinsley, who passed away last Sunday afternoon, were held at the Christian Church Tuesday afternoon at 1:30.

Before an assembly of friends that filled the church and overflowed into the street, the pastor, Rev. A. A. Ford, and Rev. John Owen Gross, of the Methodist Church, paid beautiful tribute to the memory of one of the most beloved women of the city. During the service, which consisted of her favorite songs, beautifully rendered by the choir in which she had sung for many years, and passages of scripture and poems which she had selected for the occasion, the casket rested before the altar which was banked with ferns. The front of the church was filled with the floral offerings—beautiful tokens of the love and esteem in which she was held by her friends and the organizations of which she was a valued member.

Mrs. Tinsley was a member of the Christian Church for forty-three years and was for thirty-five years a teacher in the Sunday School. Referring to her love for the church, Rev. Ford said that, "Endowed with rare natural charm and graciousness of manner, there was about her another indefinable radiance that shone from a resplendent faith, and that bespoke a soul constantly bathed in the light of God's presence. Thus she moved in the work to which she so gladly gave herself. In joy and in sorrow, in the festive hour and in the hour when burdens were heavy, ever the renewer of spirits and dispenser of cheer, or the giver of consolation and comfort and healing, a veritable modern Dorcas, indeed. To her service was a gladsome opportunity, a golden outlet of the soul. And so she lived in the spirit of her Master, serving to the full. Ever drawing beauty and fragrance from the sunshine of the heavenly grace, her soul had blossomed into a loveliness and charm that were an unfailing source of blessing to all who knew her."

For forty years she was the devoted wife and helpmate of her husband who survives her. She leaves besides her husband and niece, Mrs. Charles D. Cole, of Harlan, a host of relatives and friends who have the sympathy of the entire community in this bereavement.

JARVIS-BLACK

Miss Sara Jarvis, of Bailey Switch, and Charles Black, son of J. H. Black, of Allison Avenue, were united in matrimony Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, by Rev. J. H. Blackburn at the home of Mr. J. E. Dozier on Allison Avenue.

Many good wishes of their friends are extended to the happy young people.

EPISCOPAL SERVICES

There will be Episcopal service at the Presbyterian church on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, November 19. Rev. J. J. Clopton will be in charge.
