LIFE.
BY ANNA LAETTITA BARBAULD.

(Mrs. Barbauld (Leicester-shire, England, June 23, 1731-March 6, 1805) was the daughter of the Rev. John Allen, a friend of Philip Doddridge. She was a writer of a number of poems which were popular in her day.)

*Life! I know not what thou art,
But know that thou and I must part,
And when, or how, or where we meet,
I own to me a secret yet.
But this I know, when thou art fled,
Where'er they lay these limbs, this bed,
No clod so valueless shall be,
As all that then remains of me.*

*O whether, whither dost thou fly,
Where bend'st upon thy trackless course,
And in this strange divorce,
Ah! tell where I must seek this compound I:
To the vast ocean of empyreal flame,
From whence they essence came,
Dost thou thy flight pursue, when freed
From matter's base encumbering weight?
Or dost thou, hid from sight,
Wait, like some spellbound knight,
Through blank, oblivious years the appointed hour,
To break thy trance and resume thy power?
Yet canst thou without thought or feeling be,
O say what art thou, when no more thou'rt I?*

*Life! I know not what thou art,
But know that thou and I must part,
And when, or how, or where we meet,
I own to me a secret yet.
But this I know, when thou art fled,
Where'er they lay these limbs, this bed,
No clod so valueless shall be,
As all that then remains of me.*

Mr. W. A. Wickliffe was in Nashville the latter part of the week.

Call on Roark for one of his 1909 calendars.

Mr. W. D. Blackwell was in Louisville on business last week.

See R. C. McCracken if you want concrete work of any kind.

We have plenty of other diseases, but the grip is not with us this winter, as is usually the case.

For hauling of all kinds, call Rufus Dennis. Telephone No. 189.

Tobacco wagons are plentiful here, two houses handling much of the weed from all sections.

If it's books, magazines, etc., get them from this office.

Miss Lucy Chandler, of Earles, is visiting her sister, Mrs. G. H. McDonald, at Gordon, Texas.

Protect your property by insuring it in the companies represented by C. W. Roark.

Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Bray have moved in their recently-purchased home opposite the Methodist church.

The Bard property in Greenville for sale. For terms write Mrs. M. Bard, Portageville, Mo.

Mr. John Ed. Smith, who is one of the guards at the Hopkinsville asylum, was here with old friends several days last week.

Roark still has 1909 calendars for all, and will be glad to have you call if you have not been supplied.

The volunteer fire department has just received ladders and other equipment that will help greatly in responding effectively to fire alarms. The town is now well protected.

Get typewriter supplies of all kinds at this office.

There have been very few days of sunshine since the first of the year, and Old Sol looks very good to our people.

Drummers with spring and summer goods are beginning to make their rounds, and travel is picking up at a lively rate.

Fresh oysters, fish and celery in stock at all times at J. E. Coombs & Co. oc 8

Look out for obstructions left on the streets and alleys of the town. The marshal has strict orders to arrest all offenders, who are subject to fine.

Roark is specially prepared to do disinfecting, and is subject to call anywhere.

The fiscal court will construct pavements around the public square this spring and from the drawings the design will certainly add much to the beauty of the court house.

Miners are fearing that they will soon play the idle class. It is not because they desire to do so, but on account of a lack of orders they only are able to get about half time.

Rufus Dennis solicits hauling of all kinds, and gives prompt and careful service, at reasonable rates.

Mr. Bert Hudspeth returned from Elkton the latter part of the week, and is now in charge of the office as bookkeeper of the Dark Tobacco association at its Main street warehouse.

Mrs. C. W. Roark and Miss Mamie Lam are in Murphysboro, Ill., on a visit of some weeks to Mrs. W. L. Phillips and Mrs. Wm. Ledbetter. Miss Lam will make a visit to friends in Kansas before her return.

Take advantage of the special offer on the Louisville Daily Herald and The Record, both one year for $2.75.

Joe, the three-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Mansfield, died of pneumonia at their home at Luzerne last Monday. The interment was at Pleasant Hill at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and many friends attended.

Barkley Bros. were awarded damages in the amount of $111 jointly against Green-Marks Concrete Co. and the city for the obstruction of Main street which caused their horse to run away, damaging him and wrecking a buggy.

Mrs. Fields will do all kinds of shoe repair work at her home on College street.

Mr. C. W. Roark was in Evansville several days this week, attending the annual meeting of the Tri-State Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, of which he is president. The organization is composed of dealers in Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky, and is strong in membership and general interest.

Get a set of pneumatic rubber tops for your typewriter keys. Greatest aid to operation of any machine. Roark has them, and you are asked to call for a look.

The health of the colored population in town and precincts is remarkably good now, and is the cause of much comment. The race is to be congratulated on its almost total absence of scarlet fever or diphtheria, both of which have been prevalent among white children.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar D. Martin left the latter part of the week for Louisville, after a stay of some weeks here. Mr. Martin will leave for Oklahoma this week, where he will engage in the concrete machinery business. It is hoped that he will have the greatest success in his new undertaking.

Mr. Chas. W. Roark is local representative of some of the best fire insurance companies, and will appreciate your business, which will be cared for promptly and in the very best manner.

Mr. C. K. Leach, the new night agent at the Depot, is greeted with as much pleasure as any man in town. For many months there has been no night man, the depot being closed, and during the winter there has been great discomfort sustained by people who took the early train. Now the waiting rooms are open and warm, tickets can be purchased, baggage checked, etc.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Circuit court is grinding along at a good gait, and the docket is being cleared according to schedule. Attendance has increased somewhat this week, with better weather conditions. The grand jury is still in session, and has been giving very close attention to all forms of lawlessness. It is thought the jury will complete its work today, and be dismissed. The equity, civil and criminal cases have drawn several attorneys here from other points, and every member of the local bar has been engaged busily.

Madisonville suffered from a fire that destroyed the three-story Williams building early Tuesday morning. There were several tenants in the building, and they all suffered considerable loss, with insurance covering about half. Mr. H. R. Cox, jeweler, was the heaviest loser, with a loss of $12,000, insurance of $4,000. Singer Sewing Machine Co., Mrs. W. J. Barnhill, milliner, Fox & Teague, lawyers, Woodman of the World, Morrow and Young, lawyers, were other losers. Adjoining property was also damaged to some extent, and it required hard work to prevent the destruction of the block.

Mr. J. L. Morgan and family and Mr. James Ingram, wife and child are in Princeton, visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Ingram, Sr. Tuesday night they celebrated the golden anniversary of their wedding, and entertained about 150 of their relatives and friends, the occasion being an extremely enjoyable one. Congratulations and best wishes were received from many widely scattered friends who could not be present.

More About the Creamery.

We notice an article written by one Mr. L., appearing in THE RECORD of Jan. 14th, which seems to have been copied from The Inland Farmer of Louisville, in regard to a Muhlenberg County Creamery deal. Mr. L. intimates and claims in a roundabout way that he, together with others, were hypnotized and tricked in the Creamery game. Now if Mr. L. had written a protest and remonstrance prior to the deal it would no doubt have been more effective in this particular case, but he followed "Wolff" too late. Now as Mr. L. is an old school Presbyterian, and believes what is to be will be, and not wishing to throw any chunks in the path of Fate, concluded to let it have its way, so he held up any protest and concluded together with others to take a lesson of experience and to gain some practical knowledge of the science of creamery. Now experience is a good schoolmaster, altho' often severe, but it makes lasting and permanent impressions, for a lesson of experience is seldom repeated.

Now Mr. B. party of the first part, mentioned by Mr. L. as being both a milk and water man. Mr. B. also believes in a game of chance, in repentance, faith and works, and falling from Grace, and he was very careful in making his lectures to Mr. L. and company to use the conjunction "If" in connecting his words, phrases and propositions, and would say, "Now my friends, if you and your cows can do so and so, then so and so will be the result." Which no doubt was the truth. Now this conjunction "If" which connects words, phrases and propositions belongs to the subjunctive mode and means doubt and contingency and upon such a proposition hinged the destiny of the Muhlenberg County Creamery. Now this conjunction "If" cuts a considerable figure sometimes in business propositions, and is not altogether to be relied upon, and we are of the opinion that L. and Co. failed to give the word "If" the proper consideration and emphasis.

Now Mr. B., party of the first part, agreed to furnish the advice, the way and equipment for a creamery, and L. and Co. furnished means and the demands to accomplish the desired ends of the project. So the game was made up on such a proposition, and L. and Co. allowed B. to both cut and deal, and when hands were examined, L. and Co. were minus trumps and they threw up and lost, for they found themselves standing up against something that they were unable to conveniently chin.

It was predicted from the first, by the more considerate persons, that the creamery enterprise would be a failure on account of the inadequate supply of the milk resources. We believe that L. and Co. in their haste did not properly consider and compare the difference of the resources between bluegrass fields and that of ditty ridges, between productive plains and barren clay hills, between thoroughbred and registered milk cows and the old time long horned scrub, something that was very important. Now these kind of occurrences and adventures are daily taking place all over the world and have been ever since Adam and Eve got up a racket in the Garden of Eden.

A waggoner that knows the strength of his team is never puzzled about the load and has no balks. If we understand the demands and requirements of our business, we are better prepared to meet the exigencies. The Scriptures tell us that a wise man before he builds a house, sits down and counts up the cost; we suppose the foolish man counts up the cost after he builds, and is always surprised.

Now the houses and the equipment for the creamery game were all right, up-to-date, of modern style, ample and sufficient, for quite a lucrative business; but the demands and resources of milk were lacking, hence the failure came. The party of the first part was not the cause, altogether, of the failure, for he performed his part well and complete, up to the letter. The failure rested greatly upon the party of the second part, being minus the milk supply and he cried—"Its enough, brother, we are robbed."

Now before there is another game of this character played in Muhlenberg County, we think it would be advisable for those that wish to participate in it. First, to study well a creamery demands and needs; they might escape a calamity; but so many people like humbuggery, it seems that the world cannot get along without it; it seems to give tone and hum to business, and life without it might be a little dull. The world is a great checker-board, upon which we all play the games of life, often make wrong moves and lose. The road of life is full of stumbling blocks and sink holes; we should be careful how we run.

RONDO.

Tobacco Markets of Kentucky and Tennessee.

HOPKINSVILLE, KY., Jan. 18.—The first sale of the 1908 tobacco by the Planters' Protective Association to the Imperial Tobacco Company under the agreement made some days ago is reported on this market, being about 15,000 pounds, which brought from $7 to $10 per hundred.

The second week with the newly opened loose floor was a busy one, sales being held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, large amounts being offered each day which found ready takers. So heavy were the receipts Saturday that another sale will be held today and daily through the week if offerings are sufficient. The manager of the loose floor report that they sold a total of 150,000 pounds during the week on which prices ranged as follows: Trash $3 @ $4, common lugs $4.25 @ 5.25, medium lugs $5.50 @ 6.25, low leaf $6.50 @ $7, common leaf $7.25 @ $8, medium leaf $8.25 @ $9.25, good leaf $10 @ $12.25. No fine grades were offered.

Sales on the ten markets of the dark tobacco district by the Planters' Protective Association for the week ending January 14 were not so heavy as the two preceding weeks.

CLARKSVILLE, TENN., Jan. 18.—Our receipts last week were forty-four hogheads, partly new crop. The salesmen of the Planters' Association sold last week about 300 hogheads, mainly lugs, at the recently reduced schedule scale of prices. The first sale of tobacco by the Dark Tobacco Growers' Association to the Imperial Tobacco Company under the recent agreement, which it is believed, will result in 15,000,000 pounds of tobacco being disposed of, was made in Clarksville Friday at the local salesroom.

How Mr. Perry Learns his Music.

Edward Baxter Perry, Boston's blind pianist, who is to give a Lecture-Recital at the LaMoore Opera House on February 19, does not play by ear, as is the case with most sightless performers, and which is the reason of their errors and inaccuracies. From the first technical exercises and studies, all music has been read aloud to him note by note, and committed to memory. When wishing to learn a new composition, Mr. Perry sits at the piano and his reader takes the music, beginning with the right hand, and reading the names and time of the notes, just as they stand upon the paper; as for instance: D eighth, C sharp eighth, D half, chord of Bb quarter, chord of Bc natural (i dotted half, etc. This is continued for two or three staves. Mr. Perry playing the notes in their proper time as they are read, and retaining them by a prodigious effort of memory. The reader then returns to the beginning and reads the left hand in the same way, which Mr. Perry plays as read, putting in the right hand from memory. This passage is then conquered and becomes a permanent possession, and the entire piece proceeds in the same manner. Such is Mr. Perry's facility at memorizing music in this way, acquired by continual practice since childhood, that he takes everything, even the most difficult and intricate of his concert solos, at a first hearing, and has never yet been criticised for the false rendering of a single passage. Blind students should never be allowed to form the habit of playing by ear, as, however gifted in this line, their performances, like those of blind Tom, will be full of errors and omissions, and cannot compare with those of other pianists, or even of ordinary pupils, in accuracy and fidelity to the text.

Mr. George McElwain, chairman of the dark tobacco association of Todd county, and Mr. Camp, president of the Trenton Bank, were here this week in the interest of the association work in this county.

Bargain Subscription Offer. One Day Only—January 30, 1909.

Hundreds of our readers take a city daily paper as well as ours in order to keep fully abreast of the news of the world.

There is no better daily paper, at any price, to be had in the State of Kentucky, than The Louisville Daily Herald.

It is a clean-family sheet, allowing no objectionable advertising of any kind to be published.

It has the finest local news service of any daily paper in the State. It has the Associated Press telegraphic news of the world; it has amusing pictures from its own cartoonist every day, splendid halftone pictures showing local and world events, and a fearless editorial page, always fair and interesting even those who differ politically with the editorial opinion.

The regular price of the Daily Herald is $3 a year by mail. By a special arrangement we are able to make the wonderful offer of The Daily Herald and The Record both one year for $2.75. If subscription is received at our office not later than January 30, 1909. Positively no subscription will be accepted at less than the regular price if received in envelope post marked later than January 30. Send U. S. or express money order, bank draft or currency in registered letter.

Subscriptions to either paper may be new or renewal, and will date one year from January 30, 1909, or one year from the date at which present subscriptions expire. All subscriptions must be sent to The Record office.

Monday was the biggest day the Equity Society warehouses have had, more than 125,000 pounds of tobacco being received at the warehouses here, at Earles and South Carrollton. At this point about half the amount was handled. The society is handling vast quantities of the weed, and several hands are kept constantly employed.

Messrs. Fred Head and John Brizendine are having a first class hardwood floor put in the old skating rink, on Church alley, and will open it next week with high grade equipment, new and up-to-date. An electric piano will furnish music, and the place will be made attractive for skaters and visitors.

Print By Request.

Mix the following by shaking well in a bottle, and take in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime:
Fluid Extract Dandelion, one half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. A local druggist is the authority that these simple, harmless ingredients can be obtained at nominal cost from our home druggist.

The mixture is said to cleanse and strengthen the clogged and inactive kidneys, overcoming Backache, Bladder weakness and Urinary trouble of all kinds, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease.

Those who have tried this say it positively overcomes pain in the back, clears the urine of sediment and regulates urination, especially at night, curing even the worst forms of Bladder weakness.

Every man or woman here who feels that the kidneys are not strong or acting in a healthy manner should mix this prescription at home and give it a trial, as it is said to do wonders for many persons.
