

THE DAILY BULLETIN.
FRIDAY EVE., APRIL 6, 1883.

AND still they gazed,
And still the wonder grew,
That such a little town should hold
The ashes that they threw.
And broader grew the great surprise
When people came to see,
That certain solid men were asked,
If this here ought to be.

BOY WANTED.

A smart, intelligent boy to learn the printing business. Apply at this office.

The peach trees are in bloom.

A quantity of tobacco has been sold recently in Bracken county for fifteen cents from the ground up.

Mrs. JACOB DILCH, colored, died suddenly of hemorrhage of the lungs yesterday afternoon.

The members of the Committee on Ashes can hereafter attach B. A. to their respective names, which means Big Ashman.

CHICKEN thieves took advantage of the dark and stormy weather last night and carried off about a dozen chickens from Col. J. B. Noyes' hennery.

DR. J. C. WILLS, who died a few days ago at Owingsville, was a member of the Masonic Mutual Benefit Association, of this city.

SOL. SMITH RUSSELL is sure to "capture the town" with the inimitable comicalities in "Edgewood Folks." His support is one of the best.

The tobacco warehouse, soon to be built by Dr. H. C. Morgan in the lower part of the city, will have seventy feet front and will extend back eighty feet.

CAPT. W. S. MORGAN, of the steamer W. P. Thompson, will soon begin building a new boat to take the place of the Thompson in her regular trade.

MR. STANLEY LEE has plowed up about seventy acres of wheat that was ruined by the late cold weather. Mr. George Wood has plowed up about one hundred and ten acres.

The following marriage licenses have been issued in Brown County, Ohio, since our last report:

T. C. Rapp and Lula Cochran.
John Paze and Jennie Burr.
Adam Nerker and Isabella Drago.

The Vanceburg Courier of this week contained a very good picture of Mr. J. D. Kehoe, the Democratic candidate for Representative in the Legislature from this district, and also a well written notice of his life and a handsome compliment to his ability.

An officer from Portsmouth was in Maysville, Wednesday, in search of John McGraw who is wanted at that place on several charges, as it is alleged. He was found at a house just below the city, and the same evening was taken back to Portsmouth by the officer.

Death of an old Citizen.

Mrs. Mary Parker, widow of the late W. B. Parker, and one of the oldest citizens of Maysville, died on Thursday morning at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. T. K. Ball, in the ninety-second year of her age. She was born in Kentucky near Lexington, and has lived in this city and vicinity for the past forty years. The funeral will take place from Mr. Ball's residence this afternoon, at two o'clock, after services by Rev. C. Keyes, of the Baptist Church.

PERSONALS.

Miss Irene Cassidy, of Paris, Ky., is visiting friends in this city.

Mr. E. K. Owens has removed from Germantown to Minerva.

Midshipman Dan. Morgan, who has for some time past been attached to the Atlantic and Pacific squadrons, is at home on leave of absence.

Mr. Tim Hierley, one of our industrious and reliable young men, has been employed by Messrs. Bierbower & Co., and will be found there by his old friends, who are invited to call.

The Clark County Democrat says: Our efficient foreman Mr. T. F. Donovan left Monday for Maysville to remain several days for the benefit of his health which we trust will soon be restored. (When he returns there will be two of 'em.) His place will be filled during his absence by Jim N. Kehoe.

HIS PA AN ORANGEMAN.

Peck's Sun.

"Say, will you do me a favor," asked the bad boy of the grocery man, as he sat down on the soap box and put his wet boots on the stove.

"Well, y-es," said the grocery man hesitatingly, with a feeling that he was liable to be sold. "If you will help, me to catch the villain who hangs up those disreputable signs in front of my store, I will. What is it?"

"I want you to lick this stamp and put it on this letter. It is t-o my girl, and I want to fool her," and the boy handed over the letter and stamp, and while the grocery man was licking it and putting it on, the boy filled his pockets with dried peaches out of a box.

"There, that's a small job," said the grocery man, as he pressed the stamp on the letter with his thumb and handed it back. "But how are you going to fool her?"

"That's jus business," said the boy, as he held the letter to his nose and smelled of the stamp. "That will make her tired. You see, every time she gets a letter from me she kisses the stamp, because she thinks I licked it. When she kisses this stamp and gets the fumes of plug, tobacco, and stale beer, and limburg cheese, and mouldy potatoes, it will knock her down, and then she will ask me what ailed the stamp, and I will tell her I got you to lick it, and then it will make her sick, and her parents will stop trading here. O, it will paralyze her. Do you know you, smell like a glue factory. Gosh, I can smell you all over the store. Don't you smell anything that smells spoiled?"

The grocery man thought he did smell something that was rancid, and he look around the stove and finally kicked the boy's boot off the stove and said, "It's your boots burning. Gracious, open the door. It smells like a hot box on a ca-boose. Whew? And there comes a couple of my best lady customers." The ladies came in and held their handkerchiefs to their noses, and while they were trading the boy said, as though continuing the conversation:

"Yes, pa says that last oleomargarine I got here is nothing but axle grease. Why don't you put your axle grease in a different kind of a package? The only way you can tell axle grease from oleomargarine is in spreading it on a pane-cke. Pa says axle grease will spread, but your alleged butter just rolls right up and sets like lip-salve, or ointment, and is only fit to use on a sore."

At this point the ladies went out of the store in disgust, without buying anything, and the grocery man took a dried codfish by the tail and went up to the boy and took him by the neck. "G-d-blast, you. I have a notion to kill you. You have driven away more custom from this store than your neck is worth. Now you git," and he struck the boy across the back with the codfish.

"That's just the way with you all," says the boy, as he put his sleeve up to his eyes and pretended to cry, "when a fellow is up in the word, there is nothing too good for him, but when he gets down, you maud him with a codfish. Since pa drove me out of the house, and told me to go shirk for my living, I haven't had a kind word from anybody. My chum's dog won't even follow me, and when a fellow gets so low down that a dog goes back on him there is nothing left for him to do but loaf around a grocery, or sit on a jury, and I am too young to sit on a jury, though I know more than some of the beats that lay around the court to get on a jury. I am going to drown myself, and my death will be laid to you. They will find evidences of codfish on my clothes, and you will be arrested for driving me to a suicide's grave. Good-bye, I forgive you," and the boy started for the door.

"Hold on here," says the grocery man, feeling that he had been too harsh. "Come back here and have some maple sugar. What did your pa drive you away from home for?"

"O, it was on account of St. Patrick's Day," said the bad boy as he bit off half a pound of maple sugar, and dried his tears. "You see, pa never sees ma buy a new silk handkerchief, but he wants it. Tother day ma got one of these orange-colored handkerchiefs, and pa immediately had a sore throat and he wanted to wear it, and ma let him put it on. I thought I would break him of taking everything nice that ma got, so when he went down town with the orange handkerchief on his neck, I told some of the St. Patrick boys in the Third Ward, who had green ribbons on, that the old duffer that was putting on style was an orange man, and he said he could whip any St. Patrick's Day man in town. The fellers laid for pa, and when he came along one of them threw a barrel at pa, and another pulled the yellow handkerchief off his neck, and they all yelled 'hang him,' and one grabbed a rope that was on the side-walk where they were moving a building, and pa got up and dusted. You'd a dide to see pa run. He met a policeman and said more'n a hundred men had tried to murder him, and they had mauled him and stolen his yellow handkerchief. The policeman told pa his life was not safe, and he better go home and lock himself in, and lie dild, and I was telling ma about how I got the boys to scare pa, and he heard it, and he told me that settled it. He said I had caused him to run more foot races than any champion pedestrian, and had made his life unbearable, and now I must go it alone. Now I want you to send a couple of pounds of crackers over to the house, and have your boy tell the hired girl that I have gone down to the river to drown myself, and she will tell ma, and ma will tell pa, and pretty soon you will see a bald headed pussy man whooping it upon towards the river with a rope.

They may think at times, that I am a little tough, but when it comes to parting forever, they weaken."

"Well, the teacher at school says you are a hardened infidel," said the grocery man, as he charged the crackers to the boy's pa. "He says he had to turn you out to keep you from ruining the morals of the other scholars. How was that?"

"It was about speaking a piece. When I asked him what I should speak, he told me to learn some speech of some great man, some lawyer or statesman, so I learned one of Bob Ingersoll's speeches. Well, you'd a dide to see the teacher and the school committee, when I started in on Bob Ingersoll's lecture, the one that was in the papers when Bob was here. You see I thought if a newspaper that all the pious folks takes in their families, could publish Ingersoll's speech, it wouldn't do any hurt for a poor little boy, who ain't knee high to a giraffe, to speak it in school, but they made me dry up. The teacher is a republikin, and when Ingersoll was speaking around here on politics, the time of the election, the teacher said Bob was the smartest man this country ever produced. I heard him say that in a circus, when he went bunning around the ward settin' 'em up nights, sportin' to be superintendent of schools. He said Bob Ingersoll just took the cake, and I think it was darn mean in him to go back on Bob and me too, just cause there was no 'lection. The school committee made the teacher stop me, and they asked me if I didn't know any other piece to speak, and I told them I knew one of Beecher's, and they let me go ahead, but it was one of Beecher's new ones where he said he didn't believe in any hell, and afore I got warmed up they said that was enough of that, and I had to wind up on "Mary had a Little Lam." None of them didn't kick on Mary's Lam, and I went through it, and they let me go home. That's about the safest thing a boy can speak in school, now days, either "Mary had a Little Lam," or "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star." That's about up to the average intellect of the committee. But if a boy tries to branch out as a statesman, they choke him off. Well, I am going down to the river, and I will leave my coat and hat by the wood yard, and get behind the wood, and you steer pa down there and you will see some tall weeping over them clothes, and maybe pa will jump in after me, and then I will come out from behind the wood and throw in a board for him to swim ashore on. Good bye. Give my pocket comb to my chum," and the boy went out and hung up a sign in front of the grocery, as follows: "Pop corn that the cat has slept in, cheap for pop corn balls for scables."

"How are we ever going to get through our spring and summer's work? We are all run down, tired out before it begins," so say many a farmer's family. We answer go to your druggist and pay five dollars for six bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This is just the medicine you need, and will pay compound interest on the investment.
