According to the Adjutant General's report, the total cost of the trials in the Ellis, Neal and Craft cases was $44,965.84.

The tax question concerning the Agricultural and Mechanical College at Lexington will be argued before the Court of Appeals May 7th.

The advance statement issued by the Treasury Department of domestic breadstuffs exported for the nine months ending March 31, last, shows an increase over the corresponding nine months of the preceding year of nearly $20,000,000, the valuation for the nine months of the current fiscal year being $167,000,000. Most of the increase was in wheat and wheat flour. The excess over last year was over 15,000,000 bushels, and in value nearly $10,000,000, while in wheat flour the excess was nearly $13,000,000. In Indian corn there was a falling off of nearly 17,000,000 bushels, and in value a decline of nearly $10,000,000.

The act to provide for the establishment of wills during the lifetime of testators has passed the Michigan Legislature and been signed by the Governor. Its purpose is to have all troubles with regard to wills arranged while the testator is alive, so that he can appear in his own behalf as well as in behalf of his own heirs. All persons in the will under this enactment appear before the Probate Judge at a specified time to show cause, if any exist, why the will should not be probated. The purpose of the law is certainly good, and its enactment in other States would do away to a large extent with the almost endless litigation with respect to wills that now prevails.

The effort making in Massachusetts to induce the Legislature of that State to move for a vindication of the late Oakes Ames of Credit Mobilier bribery fame, does not meet with much encouragement from the New York Sun. The last issue of that paper contained the following on the subject: Mr. Ames's intention when he placed the Credit Mobilier shares where they would "do the most good" is clearly established by his own statement: "You cannot get these men," he wrote, "to look into a thing, to give attention to it, to understand it, unless they have an interest to do so, and therefore I must contrive some means or other by which I can make the interest of these leading men in Congress identical with my own, that they shall be as watchful in relation to all this matter as I myself would be." The plan which he contrived was to give Congressmen stock, the market value of which was to depend on their official action.

This is bribery, and there is as little doubt that Oakes Ames was a briber as that he never regarded himself as such. With his business habits and blunt moral perceptions, the transaction probably appeared to him as a sharp stroke of business, something not to be talked about too loudly in public, but containing in itself no elements of shame. It was humiliation and not remorse, that broke Oakes Ames's heart.

New Bring on Your Iron-Clads. FORTRESS MONROE, April 27.—The operations of the Coast and Harbor Defense Company, of New York, which have been conducted for some time past by Lieutenant J. W. Graydon, U. S. N., to lay a cable from Fortress Monroe to the Riprap, pass it around a sheave and work it with a steam engine, by which torpedoes can be placed at any desired point in the channel, have at last been crowned with success. Yesterday twelve dummie torpedoes were sent across a distance of a mile and a quarter, and returned to the base of operations. All the torpedoes were completely concealed from view, being below the surface of the water, and their exact position only being known by the operator, who, at will, was enabled to place them at any position in the channel desired to obstruct an enemy, or to withdraw them to allow the passage of friendly vessels. Lieutenant Graydon is highly pleased with the results attained, and predicts that it will cause a revolution in harbor defense.

O. N. G. General Encampment. COLUMBUS, O., April 27.—Adjutant General Smith has written an invitation to all the commanding officers of the Ohio National Guard and to the members of the Governor's staff, asking them to be present in Columbus on May 4, for the purpose of discussing the question of a general encampment of the O. N. G. at one point. Several points will clamor for the encampment, should it be decided upon. The state grounds, Columbus; fairgrounds, Marysville; Greenwood Lake, Delaware; Lake Side, Sandusky county, and points near Cincinnati have been already named.

A Colored Preacher Hanged. WALHALLA, S. C., April 27.—Fraser Copeland, a colored Methodist local preacher, was hanged here to-day for the murder of William J. Hunnicut, a farmer of this (Oconee) county. Although Copeland formerly, as a minister in his church, had quite a reputation for piety, the feeling after the murder was so strong that the officers had to take him to the jail of Greenville county, adjoining, to save him from lynching, and there he remained to the day of execution. The execution took place at 11:45 a. m., and in accordance with law was private.

A Proposed New Industry. Frankfort Yeoman. The Commissioner of Agriculture has arranged for the distribution of 40,000 silk-worm eggs to parties in Kentucky who desire to make experiments in sericulture. Of late the industry has received a new impetus from success attending the efforts of persons in several Southern States. It has been frequently tried in Kentucky upon a small scale, and found unprofitable, but the conditions are now very different, and Col. Bowman thinks it may prove a valuable pursuit. There is no lack of proper food for the worms, and they are easily produced and cared for, but the difficulty has been in finding a market for the silk after it has been taken from the cocoons. It is now understood that all the silk can be readily disposed of to American manufacturers and at satisfactory prices. The following general directions for prosecuting the business are furnished by Mr. P. W. McKittrick, President of the Silk-growers' Association of America.

SILKWORM EGGS AND HATCHING SAME.—Keep the silkworm eggs (send for them) in a cool, dry cellar until the leaves of the bearing mulberry trees (white or black)—or that boon to the South, the osage orange or mock orange—have started to leaf out; then bring the eggs into a warm room (kitchen for beginners), with a temperature between 70 and 75 Fahrenheit, and then be sure to increase the temperature one degree every other day for four days, and your hatching will be accomplished very easily. A steady heat is required only during hatching.

SEPARATING EACH DAY'S HATCHING.—When the silk worms first appear they are small and dark, and you should place over them small twigs of any kind of bearing mulberry or osage orange with a few young leaves on them. The silk worms will very soon climb upon them and begin to eat. When the twigs are well covered with them, remove to a newspaper or any clean sheet of paper, which for convenience can be pinned in a shallow made of pasteboard or wood. Repeat this operation every day for four days, keeping each day's hatching in themselves. Place more twigs or leaves on the eggs, and remove as heretofore (taking them out of warm room or kitchen to a shelf or table, or feeding rack) until all the silk eggs are hatched.

KEEP A STEADY HEAT IN THE ROOM OR KITCHEN during hatching only, removing each day's hatching at the close of the day to a cooler room where a temperature between sixty-five and seventy-five degrees Fahrenheit should be maintained during their education (or raising), which will only require about thirty days if they are properly fed and attended to.

FEEDING. The young silk-worms will eat almost continually, and should be fed only small quantities of fresh leaves five or six times during a day of twenty-four hours, for the first week, commencing to feed early in the morning and last meal given just before going to bed. During the second and third weeks, three times a day is enough to feed them. During the fourth week is the time to feed them bountifully if you desire a fine harvest of silk cocoons.

SILK COCOON SPINNING BY THE SILK-WORMS.—At the end of the fourth week, if you have been diligent in feeding and attending to your silk-worms, they will cease eating and look for a place to "spin-up" their silk cocoons. Provide yourself with sheaves of straw of any kind; wild mustard, cut before the seed is ripe; boughs of willow; twigs of white oak, with the leaves on them, and dried in the shade, or bunches of wheat or rye straw. Place either of these in the shape of an arch or pyramid, and they will soon climb up and spin the silk cocoons.

Persons desiring to obtain the eggs and make the experiment should communicate with Col. C. E. Bowman, Commissioner of Agriculture, Frankfort, Ky. One of the most important castings of this century occurred recently at the Thiebaud Bronze Works in Paris when over 22,000 pounds of liquid bronze were poured into the mold for the statue of the French Republic, to be placed in the Chateau d'Eau square.
