A MURDERER'S DEFENSE:

"Casey Got Off all Right and I Guess I Will, Too."

The Deliberate Murder of a Landlord By a Tenant Whom He Threatened to Eject--A Scramble For Judges and Juries.

New York, June 24.—Peter McCormack, an old and highly respected resident of Hunter's Point, owned a number of houses there, and one of them, a saloon in Ferry street, was occupied by Patrick Kernan. Kernan failed to pay last month's rent, and McCormack had notified him that he must vacate the premises. Just before 12 o'clock Sunday Kernan called upon McCormack at his residence. He was told that the gentleman was in the basement. An Italian, who resides in Mr. McCormack's house, was setting in the hallway talking to McCormack when Kernan came in the front door. When McCormack saw him he said: "Hello, Kernan; won't you come into the dining-room?"

"Yes," he answered, "I'll go with you anywhere." Kernan walked to the dining room, followed by McCormack, and a moment afterward the Italian heard Kernan say: "What are you going to do with me?" And McCormack replied: "I'm going to put you out of that place, Kernan."

In an instant the response followed: "Then you or I have got to die." A report succeeded and McCormack came running into the hallway, threw up his arms and said: "Oh! Ralph, I'm shot." He fell and never spoke again. Kernan dashed out of the room and escaped into the street. The Italian ran after him, when Kernan pointed the revolver at him and said, "I'll give it to you, too, if you follow me."

The man was sober and seemed to know perfectly well what he was doing. The report of the pistol shot and the cries of the daughter of Mr. McCormack attracted the attention of John A. Vorhees, a gentleman who lives opposite. He ran out of his house and gave chase to the murderer. Kernan pointed his pistol at his pursuer but he kept on after him until they reached a more thickly settled neighborhood and raising a hue and cry Kernan way finally overhauled and locked up. He seemed unconcerned. He arrived in this country from Ireland about a year ago.

When it was found that Mr. McCormack was dead, a servant girl ran to St. Mary's Catholic Church where Mrs. McCormack and her little eight year old boy were receiving communion. She informed Father Maguire and he told Mrs. McCormack to return home as soon as possible. The poor lady walked out, followed by the servant. When she reached the sidewalk the servant informed her of the shooting and the woman fell unconscious to the ground. Kind hands placed her in a coach and she was driven to her home to find her husband lying dead, the blood still oozing from the wound caused by the bullet. The walls of the wife will never be forgotten by the men present, as in her frantic efforts she tried to stop the flow of blood and screamed: "Speak to me, Peter, speak to me once more," and fell insensible. The coroner summoned a jury of the leading citizens and after viewing the remains adjourned the inquest until Friday.

When the news of the shooting got abroad at Hunter's Point the wildest excitement prevailed and ominous threats were heard. The officers of the jail became alarmed at the crowds around the building, and the Sheriff arrived about 4 o'clock, accompanied by several deputies. Sheriff Warnock said to a reporter: "There is a good deal of excitement, but there will be no attack on the jail."

McCormack was one of the oldest, wealthiest and most respected citizens of Hunter's Point. He had been employed as an inspector for twenty years. He accumulated a fortune and owned a large property in Hunter's Point. Kernan to-day declined to say why he committed the crime. "I'll not speak," he said, "until I see my counsel. Casey got off all right, and I guess I will too."

The case referred to is the following, taken from Sunday morning's New York Sun: The trial of Patrick Casey for the murder of Sergeant Cumiskey was continued yesterday in Long Island City. Mrs. Casey, the prisoner's wife, testified that she had thought for a number of years that her husband was insane. Dr. J. H. Den on of Hempstead, testified, after having the hypothetical question read to him by the District Attorney, that in his opinion when Casey fired the shot he was sane. At ten minutes past 3 o'clock the jury retired to deliberate on the verdict.

After being out three hours it returned. Casey looked nervous. He held his youngest daughter in his lap, and gazed intently on the twelve men. County Clerk Sutphin put the usual questions to the jury, and the foreman replied that they had agreed upon a verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree. Casey kissed his child, then his mother and wife. Justice Bartlett sentenced him to Sing Sing for life.

ONLY A POOR MAN.

But He Hath Power to Stop a Whole Cityful. New York, June 24.—Two weeks ago boss plumber John Tournay discharged journeyman plumber John Leddy for quitting work an hour too early. Twenty-two other journeymen in the shop deeming Leddy's discharge unjust, struck. Tournay belongs to the Masters Plumbers' Association. This morning forty-eight shops owned by members of the Masters Plumbers' Association locked out their journeymen and refuse to re-employ them unless Tournay's men return to work. Tournay will not re-employ Leddy. The Masters Plumbers refuse to employ any members of the Journeymen's Union until the lockout ends. Leddy refuses to work for anyone but Tournay.

STARTED FOR THE CEMETERY.

Sad Drowning of a Young Lady at Gretna, Louisiana.

New Orleans, June 24.—Yesterday morning a sad accident occurred in the rear of the town Gretna, opposite this city, which plunged the community in grief. One of the effects of the crevasse in the Mississippi River, at Davis' plantation, was to force through an immense volume of back water, which filled up the swamps in the rear of Gretna and Algiers. About 10 o'clock yesterday morning two young ladies, Catharine Barret, aged nineteen, and Agnes Kerner, sixteen years old, got into a perogoe and paddled out to the overflow, intending to visit the cemetery and put flowers on the grave of a relative. At a point where the water is seven feet deep the perogoe rolled over and Miss Barrett sunk immediately and was drowned. Miss Kerner clung to the dug-out and was rescued. Hundreds of men, it being Sunday, were quick to volunteer and the body was soon recovered and removed to the house of her parents.

CRIME OF A FIEND.

Abducting a Bride for the Purpose of Outrage.

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., June 24.—Wm. Jones and bride, who were married at Galatin yesterday, were waiting at the depot last night for an accommodation train to Rocky Hill, when they were approached by "Please" Everhart, a well known character. Everhart produced a bogus telegram, calling for Jones' arrest, and told the latter to jump on the train just moving out and escape. Jones did so, but missed his hold, fell and was badly injured. Everhart then hurried the lady off upon a pretext of showing her to a hotel, but instead of taking her to the hotel he took her to Reservoir Hill, an unfrequented part of the city, and made improper advances, which she resisted. Everhart then assaulted the lady, choking and badly bruising her. Her screams scared Everhart, who fled as neighbors came to the rescue. The whole town is scouring the country for Everhart, who will be summarily treated if caught.

COMMUNITY TERRORIZED.

An Assassin Who Proposes to Kill All Who Oppose Him.

GALVESTON, June 24.—At Big Swamps the assassination of Hynson is being reviewed, and fears are expressed that there will be a tragic sequel. Three citizens of that place, J. M. Walker, G. W. Wailthal and E. J. Trade, have been receiving anonymous letters from the man who shot Hynson, stating that he would make away with them at the earliest convenience. It seems that the man is preparing to murder these men because they denounced the assassination of Hynson in an indignation meeting held here after Hynson was killed. People here are thoroughly aroused, and should either of these men be murdered there will be a hot time. The people are actually afraid to go out at night. There are very few people on the streets after dark, and shotguns and six shooters are in demand.

Against Cleveland.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—There is a report among Democratic Congressmen and others here that Mr. John Kelly and Taumany Hall have called a meeting of prominent Democrats in New York this week for the purpose of consultation regarding the Presidential nomination. The movement is supposed to be intended as the inauguration of an opposition to Governor Cleveland's nomination, and is alleged to be incited by a desire to justify a rebellion against the unit rule in the New York delegation, in case a majority of the delegates should be found in favor of Mr. Cleveland. It is not known who are invited, but as Messrs. Morrison, Carlisle, Bayard and Dorsheimer are said to be among the number, the conclusion is reached that the conference is to be mainly made up of Free Trade Democrats.

Died Entirely Too Easy.

MOUNTAINBURG, Ark., June 24.—Sheriff C. P. Chandler, of Linn County, Kansas, with two deputies, have been tracking Lewis Wampler, who murdered the Anderson family of six persons, near Pleasanton, Kansas, three weeks ago. Yesterday the party came upon Wampler in the mountains near this place. He fired two shots at the Sheriff and then fled. His pursuers gained upon him and when within forty yards, Wampler placed a pistol to his own head and fired. The body was brought here and sent to Pleasanton.

A Reciprocity Treaty.

OTTAWA, June 24.—It is reported that the Government has arranged a reciprocity treaty with the United States shortly to be made public. The new treaty will follow the lines of the former reciprocity treaty, admitting natural products and some articles in the earlier stages of manufacture. The defeat of the Morrison Tariff Bill in the United States House of Representatives is said to be largely due to the renewal of negotiations.

Traveling for His Health.

BELLAIRE, O., June 24.—Patrick Joyce, of this city, was arrested at Queenstown, England, Saturday, with a curiously constructed brass tube. He left here only sixteen days ago, with his wife and child, ostensibly for his health, on money raised by Irish laborers. He worked in the mill. He has been in country two years.

Gas Well Exciting Steubenville.

STREUBENVILLE, O., June 24.—At 4 o'clock this morning a big flow of gas was struck at Jefferson Iron Works well. It is claimed that the flow is greater than from the big wells at Wellsburg. The roar of escaping gas can be heard a quarter of a mile. Steubenville is excited as it will be an inducement to manufacturing enterprises to locate here.

Ohio Democrats.

COLUMBUS, O., June 24.—The Democratic State Convention will convene in Columbus' Opera House Wednesday. Very few delegates have arrived. John R. McLean, of the Enquirer, came up to-night and, it is said, proposes to wind up by making himself delegate-at-large to Chicago.

CRIMES IN WALL STREET.

And the Greatest of Them is the Hypocrisy of Men.

Severe Strictures on the Conduct of Commodore Garrison and Parson White in Their Dealings With Their Fellow Men.

New York, June 24.—The Sun to-day says: If something more was wanted finally to disgust everybody with Wall street and frighten him away from it, this something was admirably done last week. The failure of men reputed to be arch millionaires is in itself a strong disturbing element. But when the very possibility of their failure is indignantly denied by the failing men themselves within a few hours of their making an assignment, the business community is placed in the position of a paymaster's heavily laden chest carried into the camp of cowboys and road agents. The commotion produced by the circumstances of Commodore Garrison's failure was of the most alarming character. When confidence in public statements of facts is gone, the whole business edifice of a community falls to pieces. When it becomes evident that no plain, truthful statement of facts from any millionaire, bank president, or railroad president can be obtained, every man of sound mind looks up in his safe the ready cash he has got, and sends to Jersey every business except that of which he has absolute control himself. It is the fault of lying millionaires, lying bank presidents, and lying railroad magnates that the denials are now accepted as confirmation. The monetary flurry created in the stock market on Saturday morning, has, it seems, also postponed the collapse of two or three important Wall street firms. But the last hour of business fairly suggests the probability of our hearing of this to-day or to-morrow.

It is to be feared that Deacon White & Co. have played their little game once too often. Saturday's sudden collapse of prices, after the sudden boom engineered in Lackawanna and Missouri Pacific, seems to indicate it quite clearly. Deacon White is altogether too inexperienced in this game. He forces it too brutally. It should be played in a gentler way, as Jay Gould plays it. Gould would never have allowed Missouri Pacific to jump up as it did on Saturday, if the Deacon had not forced his hand by the Lackawanna deal. As an irreverent bear remarked: "The Deacon has altogether too much of the parson's cheek about him. He talks big and had now because he knows that he cannot be talked back at. With the aid of D. H. Morgan and one or two squeezers of that stamp, he bought up nearly all the floating Lackawanna stock and has taken it with him to the pulpit. But let him finish his benevolent sermon and come down. We shall then give him a piece of our theology."

In the last so-called "calico" squeeze Mr. White put the same stock to $139 a share in a few hours. It has tumbled since to $92. On Saturday he bolstered it up to $105 again, but before another fortnight is over he will probably have to sell his holding at $75. It seems positively absurd to try to put up the price of any stock forcibly in the present general condition of affairs. But to push up coal stocks with the constantly growing depression of the anthracite coal trade, seems to be something more than an absurdity. The atmosphere of the rivers grow more and more black with the smoke of bituminous coal, and some ferrys in the Delaware River itself seem to have given up the use of anthracite fuel, because its price is kept at such extortionate figures. The same thing is going on throughout the West, which has plenty of soft coal of its own, and reduces its demand for hard Pennsylvania fuel every month. Apart from that, a company like Reading can never get out of its difficulties unless it mines and sells all it can, without any regard to restrictions imposed upon it by rival concerns. Mr. W. H. Vanderbilt is supposed to be deeply interested in the Reading property and will probably be the first to throw the combination cap over the wind-mills. He hates to lose money more than he hates to be beaten on the road, and he must have lost a good deal of it lately, both by the fall in price of his investment securities and by the stock operations of the junior members of his family. It is rumored in Wall street that he paid a big Wall street bill before sailing for Europe and had to pay a bigger one still upon his return.

Wall Street Shakey.

New York, June 24.—Money, 4 per cent. Exchange dull. Governments dull. Currency, sixes, 123 bid; fours, coupon, 124 bid; fours-and-a-half, do., 119 1/2 bid. The stock market opened irregular. The bear immediately began raiding the list and circulated unfavorable reports of the financial standing of prominent individuals. Under heavy selling prices declined steadily, and at noon the decline ranged from 1 to 3/4. There was a slight recovery and the market closed irregular.

Ratifiers Arrested.

SALT LAKE, Utah, June 24.—The other day, some time after the news of the nomination of Blaine was received, the few Liberals in Mt. Pleasant, Utah, held a ratification meeting without the advice or consent of the presiding Bishop. Immediately after they were arrested and fined in the Police Court for disturbing the peace. Order now reigns in Mt. Pleasant, as in most Utah towns.

Gas Monopoly Project.

PITTSBURGH, June 24.—Arrangements seem to be progressing favorably for the consolidation of the Penn Fuel Company and the Fuel Gas Company. The principal reasons pointing to such a consolidation is the announcement that the Fuel Gas Company intends building ten mammoth tanks in this city, each to hold 1,000,000 feet of gas, from which the city can be supplied with low pressure gas in the same manner as the ordinary gas is now distributed. This will obviate the dangers of high pressure gas carried direct from the wells to consumers, as at present. The proposed tanks will cost $100,000 each. The consolidation would make natural gas a monopoly.

The Propaganda's Property.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The State Department denies the report that the American Minister at Rome has been instructed to act in concert with the Ministers of England, Austria, and Spain to obtain from Signor Mancini, the Italian Minister of Foreign Affairs, a mitigation of the decision of the Court of Cassation in regard to the properties of the Propaganda. The Secretary of State said to-day that he has the subject under consideration to see if the United States has any right to act in the matter, but has as yet reached no conclusion.

FOREIGN.

CUBA'S FINANCIAL STRAIGHT.

MADRID, June 24.—In Congress Saturday, the West Indian members advocated the suppression of export and the reduction of import duties; a reduction of expenses from $34,000,000 to $24,000,000, and an early conclusion of the commercial treaty with America as the only means of extricating Cuba from the existing depression. The Government declared it was impossible for Spain to assume her yearly annual deficit and Cuba's debt; and also it was impossible to satisfy Cuban aspiration for a better commercial relations with America, which would damage the Peninsular trade with the colonies. The Government stated that a too rapid abolition of slavery had aggravated the Cuban depression. Cuban members are much discontented with the Government's reply.

ELECTRIC UNDERGROUND RAILWAY.

VIENNA, June 24.—The Council of State has unanimously decided to veto the proposition to establish the electric underground railway projected by Messrs. Siemens and Halske, of Berlin.

ALLEGED INFERNAL MACHINE.

CORK, June 24.—An alleged infernal machine was found Saturday in Patrick Joyce's trunk. It has been found to contain only common oil. Joyce was taken before a magistrate this morning, but upon the above information he was discharged. The detectives believe Joyce wanted to be arrested to gain notoriety, and had accordingly stowed a suspicious brass tube in his trunk and then had friends to advise the police to look out for the suspicious person on the steamer Illinois.

AMERICAN SECURITIES DROPPING.

LONDON, June 24.—American railway securities, with the exception of Canadian Pacific, opened weak. At 1:45 p. m. they showed a decline of 3/4 to 1 1/4, Central Pacific falling 3/4 as compared with Saturday evening's closing prices.

A BISHOP ELECTIONERING.

LONDON, June 24.—The Most Reverend Butler, Bishop of Limerick, yesterday addressed a deputation of Land Leaguers at Limerick. He approved on the convention to select candidates for Parliament and advocated the election only of Parnell adherents from Limerick. Mr. Syman will probably be nominated for member for the county, and Mr. Abraham, an ex-suspect, for the city.

CHOLERA IN FRANCE.

PARIS, June 24.—Twenty deaths from cholera at Toulon were reported yesterday. The city is in a panic. The Government has ordered the barracks evacuated. Sanitary precautions are organizing.

CRUEL MURDER.

Committed to Obtain Possession of a Woman.

ALLENDE, Mex., June 24.—Sunday morning Juan Flores, assisted by his sons, murdered a peon while he was asleep at a place about six miles from Allende. The murder was a brutal one. They struck his head with an ax until the brains protruded in several places, and the body was horribly bruised. They also mutilated the corpse. From appearances it is judged by resident physicians that the body was burned before life was extinct. The sons immediately left the country, but the old man staid near the place of murder watching the grave. While absorbed in his occupation he was surprised by some neighboring ranchers and bounded off in the bushes. He was pursued, captured, brought back and in his terror betrayed the burial place of his victim. He, his two sons and the dead man's wife were all arrested. The murder was committed to gain possession of the peon's wife, who is a very handsome woman of twenty. The prisoners have been incarcerated and it is supposed will be summarily shot.

GOT SATISFACTION.

Man Who Wanted to Fight Knocked Dead With One Blow.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., June 24.—Yesterday Jas. Wisley, with four companions, went from Gaiffney's Station to Deposit for a spree. Wisley is a young man, well known along the Erie Road as a switchman and a sport, being a heavy better, a good card player, and a fine pool player. He and his companions remained in Deposit all night, drinking and playing. Toward night they became drunk. About 11 o'clock Wisley was sitting in the bar room of the Oquaga House, when Allen McClure, forty years of age, entered and dared any man to fight him. Wisley remarked that he would like to try him. McClure made for Wisley when the latter struck him such a terrible blow that he fell dead. Wisley ran out and disappeared, but after midnight was captured near the depot. Sheriff Black took the prisoner in charge. Some say Wisley struck with a weapon, but he declares he used only his fist.
