Bradley's Bad Figuring.

When a candidate starts out to enlighten the people of his State, he ought to know what he is talking about. The "brilliant" Billie O. Bradley, the Republican candidate for Governor, should be called down, and made to correct some glaring mistakes.

The Courier-Journal called Mr. Bradley's attention to this mistake, but that "brilliant" politician has failed to correct it. His statement on this point is about on a par with the one he made in a public speech at Newport, when he said the State did not own a mile of turnpike road.

But what must the honest, fair-minded members of the Republican party think of Bradley's making such glaring mistakes, and such false charges? Was it for this that he was so anxious to mount the stump? Was it to make such false assertions, and such inexcusable mistakes in his charges against the Democrats, that he was so anxious to begin a joint canvass?

Bradley has ruined his cause—if he ever had one—by his blundering and bad figuring. In his haste to place the Democrats before the people in a bad light, he has gotten himself into an exceedingly sad predicament.

HANNIBAL HAMLIN, of Maine, enjoys the distinction of being the only living man who has occupied the office of Vice President.

The Daily Republican's statement a few days ago, about the schools of Kentucky, is about on a par with that $800,000 mistake which the junior editor of that paper made not long since.

If the Daily Republican makes a few more mistakes in its frantic efforts to figure out something mean and discreditable against the Democracy of Kentucky, the people will get to believe what it says after while.

The junior editor of the Daily Republican and Colonel Bradley, the Republican nominee for Governor, should hire some one to give them a few lessons in arithmetic. They might save this trouble, however, by getting some school boy to do their figuring for them.

The Courier-Journal's Lexington correspondent should be a little more accurate. Winfield Buckler was not a candidate for Congress in this district, the Ninth, last year. He was in the asylum at Lexington at the time. Buckler lost his mind over the race for Superior Court Judge.

The public schools will soon close and we suggest to Colonel Bradley and the Daily Republican that they hire some of the boys to do their figuring for them. We'll venture that the school boys will make as few blunders and mistakes as either Colonel Bradley, or our able contemporary. Give the boys a chance.

EX-VICE PRESIDENT WHEELER, whose death was noticed yesterday, has cut but little figure in the history of this country since his term of office expired. In this respect, the same can be said of Hays. Poor Wheeler! Poor Hays!

Wheeler was accredited with being an "honest, sincere and fairly able man." "Circumstances, however, placed him in a very unfortunate situation," says the Cincinnati Enquirer, "and he has done the best that he could with it by keeping very quiet ever since. Perhaps it would not be advisable to call upon Mr. John Sherman to write his obituary with the same brush that he used in his Illinois speech. The discussion of frauds upon the ballot might be a trifle alimide in that respect."

TWELFTH CAMPAIGN DISTRICT.

An Old-Fashioned Barbecue and a Grand Democratic Rally Suggested.

The Democratic Central Committee has divided the State into fifteen campaign districts for the purpose of better organizing for the fight in August. The Republicans are dead bent on cutting down the Democratic majority in the State, and will consider it a victory should they succeed in doing so.

Hon. Emery Whitaker, Chairman of the County Executive Committee, has received a list of the campaign districts. The Twelfth, in which Mason is situated, is composed of the following counties: Mason, Nicholas, Fleming, Bath, Robertson, Lewis and Rowan. It is the desire of the Central Committee that one or two old-time barbecues and grand rallies be held at some point in this district, between now and the election.
