

GRADUALLY CHANGING.

THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT LETTING UP ON COERCION.

Lord Salisbury's Scheme to Draw Attention from the Irish Question—A Desperate Attempt at Suicide Frustrated. The French Ministry—Foreign News.

London, Nov. 5.—To those who are politically wise it is evident that Lord Salisbury is gradually effecting a change that is calculated to draw in a great measure attention off from the intense interest that clusters about home affairs, especially the Irish question. The solution of Erin's weighty problem has indeed become a nightmare to the perplexed and weary ministry, and they are unfeignedly glad to have Mr. Arthur Balfour's shoulders, narrow as they are, to lay the burden upon.

If they could only see it safely disposed of in this manner, and never fear its return to haunt them, and set all their plans at naught, they would be delighted, but unfortunately for them, the Irish secretary with however high a hand he is undertaking the execution of the coercion law in Ireland, yet he is still accountable to the government for his acts, and the ministry cannot, despite their ardent desire, escape the responsibility the passage of the laws which they framed and advocated imposes upon them. The new move which is contemplated by the premier, and which is really partly under way, is a change in the foreign diplomatic corps which will act as an offset to home matters, and as it will be accomplished before parliament meets, it will necessarily be considered among the first business after the reopening of commons.

This scheme is suggested by the appointment of Lord Lytton to the Paris embassy. Earl Lytton is an accomplished diplomatist of long experience, his first appointment being as attaché to the legation of which his uncle was the head, in Washington, in 1849, but he is a pronounced Rousophobist, and the wisdom of sending him among the friends of Russia may be questioned, unless it is for the purpose mentioned. Lord Salisbury may have in mind that oil saying that to create a division outside one's country will oft times stifle the discontent within the home borders.

Another indication of the premier's plan is the recalling from St. Petersburg of Sir Robert D. B. Morier, British ambassador to Russia. Sir Robert has been in the diplomatic service for over thirty years, and has served in many countries, but he will be best remembered by the mess he made of the Spanish commercial treaty in 1834. After a three years' residence at Madrid for the express purpose of completing this treaty, it was due to his hastiness and temper that the negotiations fell through. Who will be sent to succeed him at St. Petersburg cannot now be said, but many changes of this kind may be looked for before parliament reopens.

The French Chambers.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—There are likely to be several lively and exciting debates in the chambers of deputies, tending to culminate, perhaps, in scenes of a still more marked and sensational character. A ministerial crisis will undoubtedly be precipitated by the proposal of a vote of confidence by the ministry in connection with the Wilson investigation. President Grevy, Wilson's father-in-law, shows no inclination or disposition to resign, and the public clamor, which was at first directed against him by factious opponents, has greatly subsided. It is believed that the investigating commission will protect Wilson, but Gen. Boulanger's adherents and admirers will endeavor to keep up as much public excitement as possible, with the aim of accomplishing the overthrow of the ministry.

It cannot be denied that the events growing out of the war office scandals, in which Boulanger appears as the central figure, have brought about the gravest political situation of affairs known in Paris since the coup d'etat of Louis Napoleon. Floquet is reported to have exclaimed that the ministry could be upset in forty-eight hours. There is no telling what way the serious political congestion now existing will culminate, and there are some who predict revolution and disaster. If President Grevy remains firm, and his position is sustained by the army, the solution of the difficulty will be a peaceful one; but there is much dissatisfaction with his administration as chief of the nation, solely attributable to the tranquil and comparatively inactive condition of things in the great capital.

This is not the normal or characteristic social or political life of Paris, and the dullness is attributed to President Grevy's well known dislike of the ostentation and frivolities of what has for generations been known as gay Paris. It is to such ideas as these that the popular expressions in favor of a change of government may be in many instances traced. While admitting all the virtues and eminent qualities which President Grevy possesses, the people are convinced that he lacks the essential qualities for the chief of the French government and rather than this many would prefer the monarchy or the restoration of the empire.

Desperate Suicide Frustrated.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—An unknown man jumped yesterday from the top of the Arc de Triomphe, which is almost two hundred feet in height. Before taking the leap he swallowed a strong dose of poison. The determined efforts of this would-be suicide to put an end to his life were, however, doomed to disappointment. Half way down a friendly projecting hook caught his trousers and arrested his fall. He hung there suspended in mid-air by his slender garments for a full hour before it was possible to rescue him from his somewhat awkward position. On being taken to the hospital it was found that he had sustained no injury from his fall, and the strong antidotes applied speedily counteracted the effects of the poison he had swallowed. He absolutely refuses to disclose his name.

Cabinet Meeting.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—At the meeting of the cabinet yesterday Mr. Balfour, the Irish secretary, explained to his fellow members of the government the workings of the crimes act. Lord Ashbourne, lord chancellor of Ireland, presented the legal aspects of various cases, which have been disposed of under the same act.

Forbidden to Visit O'Brien.

DUBLIN, Nov. 5.—Fathers O'Reilly and Murray, who are Nationalists, have been forbidden to visit Mr. O'Brien in Fallowfield jail, although Dr. McElroy and Father Murray, who are anti-Nationalists, are both admitted.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Topics of the Times Given in a terse and spicy manner.

Ayres has a gas well, and it is a roarer. The Indianapolis Daily Democrat has ceased publication.

State convention of Y. M. C. A. is in session at Crawfordsville, Ind.

Trenton, Ark., lost all save one of its stores by fire Tuesday night.

The Emperor William rose from his sick bed for a short time yesterday.

Destructive wood and prairie fires are raging around Montpelier, Ind.

William Caldwell, Evansville, Ind., grocer, has assigned for $75,000.

The president and his hired men are working like beavers on their annual essays.

White Caps unmercifully whipped Mrs. John Amy, of Harrison county, Indiana.

The tug Dryberry is thought to have gone down in the recent storm on the Lake of the Woods.

Canada is stirred up over a rumored telegraph deal which will change affairs greatly.

Virulent hog cholera is coloring all the prospects for winter hams around Wellsville, O.

Dan Cunningham, a notorious outlaw, was arrested Wednesday morning at Racine, Ohio.

Indianapolis has some sweet little boys. They broke into a freight car and stole 130 pounds of candy.

The goose of Tom Egan, Indianapolis tailor, if not the one of the golden egg. He has assigned for $10,000.

For the next summer W. K. Vanderbilt has rented castle Ludenhoff, which belonged to the late king of Bavaria.

John C. Eno, late in the banking business in New York city, has purchased a $10,000 residence at Lake Beaufort, Canada.

Rawson, O., has a bad habit of burning up every month. Yesterday it confiscated for the third time in twelve weeks. Loss $20,000.

People complain that a certain railroad advertises itself as the "Natural Gas Route," and starts out with kerosene lamps in its depots.

Clara Louise Ende, aged sixteen, went to Bristol, Conn., for employment, but was drugged and outraged, and has since become a raving maniac.

Lorenzo Dimick, general agent of the Thames & Mersey Marine Insurance company, Buffalo, is charged by the company with having defrauded it of $110,000.

"Dink" Bu-kaw, the Alabama desperado, has notified several Chambers county men that he intends to burn their houses and kill them. A reward of $400 is offered for him.

A freight engine on the Fort Wayne road struck a street car at Federal street crossing, Pittsburg, last evening, and two passengers jumping from the car were crushed to death.

Barbara Jones, of Lardinburg, Ky., tried to acclimatize Jordan Hawkins to the blue grass atmosphere by putting some more lead into him. A few bullets, more or less, don't hurt a cornercracker.

Dr. Allen, of the state board of health, advises the public schools to desist from the "cramping" system. He has been examining the Ohio school children and finds defective eyesight alarmingly on the increase.

Indiana supreme court has decided that a person who is attending school in any other county except his place of residence, is not entitled to vote there. This shuts out the students' vote, which has so long been a bone of contention.

The National Dairy association has elected the following officers: President, Jonathan Bigelow, of Massachusetts; first vice president, F. C. Potter, of Minnesota; secretary, R. M. Littler, of Iowa. Each state will elect its own vice president hereafter.

National Fishery association will hold a meeting in New York city November 18, to adopt such measures as shall be deemed expedient for proper representation of the fishery interest of the United States to all matters pertaining to National or state legislation.

E. N. Morrison, of Owensboro, Ky., sat emphatically down upon his daughter Annie's affections for James Spirrier, and got her a new beau. But when the new beau assisted Annie to slope with James he felt that there has been some mistake in the arrangements.

A special train of passenger and flat cars, bearing John Robinson's circus and menagerie, met with an accident in the St. Louis yards yesterday by which one man was killed and two others seriously injured. Several wild animals were released but were finally recaptured.

Sunday night a party of moonshiners went to the house of William A. Morgan, in Haralson county, Georgia, who was suspected of having given information on which the McAlpin distillery was found, and beat him to death, in the presence of his wife, with heavy sticks, and knocked her on the head with one of the clubs. The brutes left her insensible, thinking they had closed her mouth forever, but she recovered.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Indications—Fair weather, cooler, light to fresh winds, generally from north to west.

BIG FURNITURE FIRE.

Several People Injured by the Falling Walls of the Destroyed Buildings.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 5.—Weakley & Warren's furniture building on College street, was discovered to be on fire early this morning. The flames spread rapidly and communicated with the adjoining buildings until the entire block from Bank Alley south to the Western Union building was in one immense sheet of flames. The fire was confined within this space by desperate work of the fire department. The walls of a building adjoining Bank Alley fell during the progress of the fire, and a number of people were injured, some probably fatally. A fifteen-year-old son of J. B. Moore, skull crushed, will die; William Stewart, sign painter, left leg badly fractured; Bradford Nichol, injured on arm; a number of firemen and other people were also more or less injured. It is believed that others are in the debris, which is now being removed by workmen.

The following are the losses: Weakley & Warren, on stock, $50,000; building owned by Judge Lea and the Fire estate, loss $25,000; Atwell & Sneed, furniture, loss $17,000; Webb, S. evenson & Co., hardware, loss $75,000; building owned by E. W. Cole, $24,000. Building occupied by Atwell & Sneed, owned by B. F. Wilson, $15,000. Over one hundred telephone wires besides nearly all telegraph wires were destroyed.
