SLOW BUT SURE.

THE DEATH RATE GRADUALLY INCREASING AT JACKSONVILLE.

FIFTEEN DEATHS AND ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-ONE NEW CASES.

Two Cases at Decatur Cause Uneasiness at Memphis—The Situation at Hendersonville Greatly Exaggerated—A Train Load of Refugees Arrive at Louisville, and Cause No Anxiety—News From Elsewhere.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 22.—The official bulletin for the twenty-four hours ending at 6 p. m. Thursday, reports 131 new cases of yellow fever and fifteen deaths. The death rate is creeping up slowly, but oh, so surely, and the few white people, comparatively speaking, live and move in the shadow of death.

One of the saddest deaths to record is that of M. R. Bowden, up to a week ago city editor of the Times Union. His death is a surprise and a shock to the community. Mr. Bowden was taken down with the fever last Saturday, but had passed the crisis on Sunday and was supposed to be rapidly improving, when the high temperature returned, the fever attacking his brain. The direct cause of his death was brain fever, although the prevailing epidemic was doubtless the original disorder leading up to that.

The Mobile contingent of nurses were certainly the oldest and—well, the homeliest of any that have yet arrived. Out of the thirteen, but three were able bodied and could attend to themselves, let alone nursing others. They will be "allowed" to go home via Camp Perry.

So far, eight nurses and two doctors have been sent away for drunkenness, disobedience to orders and neglect of patients. The board of health is very stringent regarding this matter now, and don't propose to endanger our people by allowing incompetent and neglectful nurses here.

LATER—Up to noon unofficial returns make twenty-nine new cases of yellow fever since the last report and five deaths. Such returns are obtained with great difficulty, and even official figures are uncertain, since many new cases despite the vigilance of authorities, nurses and physicians are successfully concealed from notice until they have existed for a day or two.

Uneasiness at Memphis. MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 22.—This city was for a time greatly agitated over the news received from J. D. Plunket, president of the Tennessee state board of health, that there are two new cases of yellow fever near Decatur, Ala. Mr. Sam. Armstrong, the superintendent of the Western Union, also telegraphed the same and said that the people were frightened almost to death and were leaving town as fast as possible.

The excitement has been quieted to some extent, though great uneasiness still prevails. Public confidence in the health certificates issued to passengers on trains by health officers at interior points has been utterly destroyed by the publication here of proof that the inspection is a farce, that certificates have been openly sold to whoever would buy by the health officers at Huntsville, Ala., and Jackson, Tenn., the price ranging from fifty cents to $1 each. It is charged that the Huntsville official leaves a pile of certificates duly signed and sealed at a drug store in the town from which anybody can be supplied for cash.

By this order two men, supposed to be from Decatur, entered Memphis Thursday. The health officers have been hunting for them, but at last accounts had not found them. All trains and steamboats are stopped ten miles from this city. This injuriously affects the trade of Memphis, but it is the only alternative to a shotgun quarantine. One case of yellow fever here would cost millions of dollars in trade and values.

Dr. Wirt Thompson, secretary of the Mississippi state board of health at Jackson, Miss., has telegraphed to Dr. G. B. Thornton, president of the Memphis board, that there are three cases at that place.

Montgomery, Ala., has quarantined against both Jackson and Decatur. Columbus, Miss., Sheffield, Tuscombia, Athens and Limestone county also have quarantined against Decatur. Vicksburg has also quarantined against Jackson, and La Grange against the world.

Memphis will rigidly enforce her orders against Jacksonville in the case of these towns also.

The Situation at Hendersonville.

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C., Sept. 22.—So many startling and exaggerated reports have been telegraphed over the country about the yellow fever refugees at this place and Asheville that a World correspondent came to Hendersonville to investigate the matter. The residents of these two mountain towns are exceedingly angry. They are both summer resorts, and Asheville also entertains many winter visitors. Both places are in the heart of the mountains, 2,300 feet above the level of the sea. These towns claim that their business has been greatly injured, and travel turned from them by sensational reports.

The facts in the case are that on September 13 a refugee train containing 267 persons arrived in Hendersonville from Jacksonville, and only fifteen being negroes. It was met by a committee and twenty-five carriages, and in forty-five minutes every refugee was quartered in the best hotels and boarding houses in the town. There were five cases of fever on the train and five more developed that day, and these are the only cases that have developed, even among the refugees. There have been two deaths, six discharged from the hospital and two are progressing favorably. There is not a tent in the town.

There were no paupers among the refugees and the town is put to no expense. Eighty-five per cent. are well off and these pay for those who cannot pay their own way. They have refused money tendered by this town. It has been reported that on account of the panic Hendersonville is depopulated. As a matter of fact no resident has left town and only a few summer visitors. The health of the place is excellent and there is no possibility of the fever spreading. A case of heart disease in Asheville has been worked into a case of yellow fever, but there is none there and never has been, and in that city, which is in the shadow of Mount Mitchell, it is of course impossible for yellow fever to exist.

Nashville Refuses Refugees. NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 22.—The night train on the Decatur road had between three and four hundred people on board from Decatur, twelve of them bound for Nashville. They were passed by the state quarantine officials, but the state officials would not allow them to stop in Nashville, and they went on, about fifty going to St. Louis and the rest to Louisville. The refugees say the excitement in Decatur is indescribable.

Excitement at Natchez. NACHEZ, Miss., Sept. 22.—The city is in a fever reports from Jackson, and the shotgun quarantine will be established at once. A large excursion party from Natchez, which visited Jackson, are shut out from their homes, all trains on the Natchez, Jackson & Columbus railroad beyond Hamilton having been stopped. A special train was sent out at 11 o'clock at night to bring in the Natchez people from Cooper's Wells, Harrington and other points along the road who have not been to Jackson. By the shotgun quarantine in 1878 yellow fever was kept out of Natchez, and it is believed it can be done again.

At Jackson, Mississippi. JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 22.—Two cases of genuine yellow fever developed here Thursday afternoon and the banks were kept busy long after business hours paying out money to people anxious to get out of town.

Refugees Reach Louisville. LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 22.—The refugee train from Decatur, Ala., which was due here at 2:30 o'clock a. m., was delayed two hours, and arrived at 5 o'clock. There is no anxiety felt in this city.

LYNCHING PROBABLE.

Rock Springs, Wyoming, Again Witnesses a Bloody Spree.

CHEYENNE, W. T., Sept. 22.—Two men on route to Washington Territory overland stopped at Rock Spring, Sweetwater county, Thursday noon to purchase supplies. They became intoxicated and engaged in a saloon brawl with coal miners. One of the strangers drew a six-shooter and emptied it into the crowd. Dick Davis was instantly killed, and Phil Shaffer and Dan Harrison wounded. All are miners.

After the shooting the strangers jumped into their wagon and drove rapidly out of town. Two officers, who followed on foot, were fired upon by the emigrants. In exchange of shots one stranger was wounded and both horses killed. The men were arrested. The miners tried to take the prisoners from the officers when en route to jail. There is every probability that the men will be lynched.

Judge Terry and Sarah Althea Indicted. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22.—The United States grand jury reported several indictments against ex-Judge David Terry and his wife, Sarah Althea Terry. The indictments are based upon the recent outbreak in the United States circuit court room, during the reading of the decision in the Sharon case by Justice Field, of the United States supreme court, and for which Judge Terry and wife were committed to jail for contempt, and are now serving their sentence. They are charged in the indictments with threatening and assaulting a United States marshal and several deputies. Judge Terry, who drew a knife at the time of the disturbance is also charged with making an assault with a deadly weapon.

Has Another Great Scheme.

BISMARCK, Dak., Sept. 22.—The Marquis De Moras, at one time the cattle prince of Dakota, is contemplating an extensive plan of railroad building in China, and his friends here who were with him in his Madona enterprises are watching developments with keen interest. Over twenty citizens of this vicinity are thinking seriously of going to China and joining the marquis, in the hope that, supported by his friendship and his millions, they will have an opportunity to accumulate fortunes. His friends believe that he has great executive ability, and that he will make a success as a railroad manipulator.

Expensive Sport.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Within $600 of $18,000 is a big sum for any man to pay for one week's alleged fun, but that is just the amount it cost Alonzo V. Hyde, a Mormon from Salt Lake City. He had been on a protracted spree, and when arrested by the police in Harlem Thursday morning, he was firing handfuls of dimes and nickels in among some street gamins. He was searched at the station house and $600 found upon him. His wife, who is stopping at Smith & McNeill's hotel, says he had $18,000 in his possession when they arrived here last week.

Louisville "Satellites of Mercury."

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 22.—The grand spectacular pageant, "The Satellites of Mercury," took place Thursday evening. The streets were literally thronged with people, and the display was remarkably fine. The procession which was a gorgeous affair, consisted of twenty floats. The Satellites of Mercury ball followed the pageant. The Galt house was thrown open and fully two thousand people accepted the invitations sent them. The crowd was one of the most brilliant gatherings ever got together socially in this city.

An Unknown Man Fatally Assaulted.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 22.—Late Thursday night a well dressed stranger was assaulted on one of the principal business streets by two colored men, who struck him two blows with a piece of iron, and knocked him senseless. He will die. There was nothing on him by which he could be identified. He had an excursion ticket for Linton, Ind., and a slip of paper with the name of William M. McGill, of New York, written on it.

Killed at a Pole Raising.

NEWCASTLE, Ind., Sept. 22.—A distressing accident occurred in this city about 7 o'clock Wednesday evening, which resulted in the death of Eddie Armstrong, the twelve-year-old son of James Armstrong. A crowd of boys were attempting to raise a Cleveland and Thurman pole on Byer street, and when partly raised the pole fell, striking young Armstrong and killing him almost instantly.

ABRUPTLY ABANDONED.

THE NEGOTIATIONS BETWEEN CANADA AND NEWFOUNDLAND.

She Declines to Become a Part of the Dominion and Shoulder Her Share of the Enormous Debt of Canada—Sir John Macdonald Greatly Disappointed.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 22.—The first official information the Dominion government received that the delegates who were to arrive this week from Newfoundland, to confer with Macdonald's cabinet in regard to that colony entering the Dominion, had indefinitely postponed their visit, reached here Thursday. Every arrangement had been made by the Dominion government to meet the Newfoundlanders to go fully into the subject of federation which, according to the latest advices, is not considered advisable at the present time.

The question of negotiating terms on which Newfoundland might be admitted into the Canadian confederacy was raised about six months ago, by a dispatch from the governor general of the Dominion to the governor of Newfoundland, inviting the Newfoundland government to send a deputation to Ottawa, with power to negotiate. The proposition was accepted, and the conference arranged for this week. The unceremonious manner in which negotiations have been terminated is a subject of much surprise.

The reason assigned by the government organ here for the postponement of the conference was the present strained relations between Canada and the United States.

It is believed in official circles that this is not the chief reason for the opposition to the consideration of the scheme, which from the beginning strongly manifested itself, and has now reached such proportions as to cause the government to hesitate before taking any steps. The whole mercantile community is united against it, also the whole Roman Catholic portion of the population, numbering 80,000 out of the 300,000. With very few exceptions the Catholic clergy is either opposed or remain neutral.

The feeling in the colony against entering the Dominion, with its enormous taxation and National debt of $284,000,000, is so strong that the provincial government had to abandon all hope of carrying the scheme through. Macdonald is greatly disappointed, as he had built his hopes on drawing Newfoundland into the Dominion. He believes after matters are settled between the Dominion and the United States that Newfoundlanders will want to join the union.

AN ABANDONED VESSEL.

After Drifting for a Year It is Found and Towed to Port.

BANGOR, Me., Sept. 22.—There arrived at Bucksport the other day a vessel which had a queer experience in the past twelve months. This is the three-masted schooner Carrie A. Bucknam, of Bucksport. About a year ago she sailed from a southern port with a cargo of hard pine lumber, bound for a port north of Hatteras. Off the Florida coast she was disabled in a heavy gale, and was abandoned in a water-logged condition, the captain and crew thinking that she would soon go to pieces, as heavy seas were breaking over her. But she was a strong built down-easter, and instead of breaking up, she held together, and went drifting around the ocean, a constant menace to shipping to and from southern ports and the West Indies. Being lumber laden, she could not sink, and for months she was the terror of shipping in southern waters, and the bother of the hydrographic office people, whose business it is to keep track of such obstructions, and indicate on their monthly charts the latest position of the wreck with direction to drift, etc.

Finally a tramp steamer ran across the Bucknam and towed her into a gulf port, where she was sold for salvage. Capt. Mark Gray, of Bucksport, bought her, made new masts, sails and rigging, shipped them south, refitted the vessel and brought her home. In all her drifting around, she does not seem to have strained any, and to-day, with her new rig, she is as good as before the gale that knocked her down.

A Galveston Firm Gets It.

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 22.—The bids for the construction of the government jetty under the new government appropriation of $500,000 were opened yesterday by Maj. Ernst, engineer in charge of the government work on the Texas coast. The bid of A. M. Shannon & Company, of Galveston, the former contractors, was the lowest, being $402,475. The other bidders were Neurkett & Stribling, of Palestine, $463,530; the Louisiana Jetty and Lighter company, of New Orleans, $448,600, and S. W. Swift, of Austin, $414,750. Ricker & Lee, of Galveston, would have had the lowest bid in had it not been for a clerical error, which ran their bid up to $807,084. Maj. Ernst will recommend the awarding of the contract to Shannon & Company.

Blaine's Program.

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 22.—Mr. Blaine is here with his family. He is seldom seen on the streets and spends much of his time in preparing material for future speeches. He starts to New York next Wednesday or Thursday to deliver an address in that city on September 29. On Monday, October 1, he leaves for the west, proceeding direct to Michigan. He is to speak in that state and Indiana, and will not return home until November. Gen. A. E. King, of Maryland, is to be one of the speakers with him in several cities.

Lost in Playing Policy.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—James E. Bedell, who swindled clients of the law firm of Shipman, Barlow, Larocque & Choate out of nearly $300,000, was remanded for examination in the Tombs this afternoon. Philip Goss and Joseph Emerson, the proprietors of the policy shop at 180 Broadway, where Bedell says he lost $120,000, and who were arrested last night, were also arraigned this morning and remanded in the custody of the police.

WILLIAM WARREN,

A Veteran Actor, Dies in Boston at the Age of Seventy-Six.

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—William Warren, the actor, died at 5 o'clock a. m. He was born November 17, 1812, in Philadelphia. His father, who bore the same name, was a celebrated actor and manager who came to this country in 1790. William Warren, the younger, made his debut in 1833 in the Arch Street theater, Philadelphia, as "Young Norval," in "Douglas," the occasion being a benefit for the elder Warren's family, he, through business reverses having died penniless.

He traveled until October, 1850, when he came to Boston on an engagement with the Howard Athenaeum, where he played with great success until February, 1857, when he joined the Boston Museum company, with which he remained until 1864, when the Warren-Orton combination was organized. In the season of 1865-66 he returned to the Boston museum, and from then until the season of 1882-83, when he retired from the stage, he was an extremely popular member of the stock company.

RIVAL RAILROADS.

Their Employees Have a Bloody Fight About the Right of Way.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 22.—For several days there has been trouble brewing at Aspen between the Midland and Denver & Rio Grande roads about the right of way out of camp and into the Utah line. Thursday the quarrel caused the shedding of blood and further trouble is expected. The Rio Grande train was drawn out of the street in accordance with the orders of the city council, but it was replaced later.

In the afternoon the Midland, being ready to complete its track, sent a force of men to clear the way. The men boarded the Rio Grande cars obstructing the track, and commenced to unload them, preparatory to getting them out of the way. Mr. Waters, of the Rio Grande, soon appeared with his men and ordered them to beat off the Midland forces. A conflict immediately ensued, in which shovels and picks were freely used, and several men were badly hurt. President Scott, of the Midland, was himself struck in the breast and knocked down and badly injured.

The city marshal and a number of deputies then interfered, and with great difficulty stopped the fight and placed the Midland men under arrest. The Midland applied for an injunction against the Rio Grande and one was issued, but the latter road refused to recognize it. The sheriff and posse then took possession of the ground and are holding both tracks and the train of cars against both parties. The men who were arrested Wednesday for holding the ground with Winchester's had their fines paid this morning by Mr. Waters, of Richmond. Feeling is running very high between the two companies.

A Murder Mystery Cleared.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22.—The mystery surrounding the killing of Augustus V. Braconier, a well known young St. Louisian, who has run through with a fortune, was cleared away this morning. Braconier was found on the street with his skull fractured yesterday, taken to the city hospital and died. S. F. Ballou, a prominent citizen, reported to the police that he had seen a man thrown out of Patrick Montague's saloon, near where Braconier was found, and saw the proprietor strike the man, but thought it a drunken brawl at the time. This morning the police have arrested Patrick Montague, Edward Montague his brother, Charles E. Powell, a lawyer, and Dr. Pocock, who were in the saloon at the time. Owing to Braconier's high connections and unfortunate life, the case is exciting much interest.

Murder or Suicide.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Sept. 22.—Conrad Storz, a prominent Democrat and business man of this city, was found dead in his room at a hotel in Scottsburg, Wednesday morning. His throat was cut from ear to ear. He was about with several friends, but left them at about 11 o'clock and retired. The room was found to be smeared with blood. Storz's pockets were turned inside out, his money was gone and his hat was found in the street about a block away. He was partially undressed and was lying across the bed, with a basin half filled blood under his throat. The case is a strange one and it cannot be decided whether he was murdered or committed suicide. It is alleged that he was financially involved.

Chicago Hoodlums Stone a Train.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—As the Chicago bound Alton express train was passing Thirty-fourth street at 7 o'clock in the evening, a number of unknown hoodlums threw a number of lumps of coal through the car windows. The splintered glass flew in all directions, and Mrs. James Grange was so badly cut in the face that she may lose her eyesight. A number of other passengers were also slightly cut. A hunt was made for the guilty parties, but without success.

Reilly are in Washington, furthering the passage of the bill to classify clerks in first class postoffices throughout the country. The postmaster general is said to be in favor of the bill.

Missed the Intended Mark.

MUNCIE, Ind., Sept. 22.—Near Yorktown, a village six miles west of this city, Jackson Hunter shot and fatally wounded young John Blevins while trying to eject him and his father from a piece of property. On Blevins' refusal to vacate the property Hunter fired at him with a rifle, which he carried. The ball missed its intended mark and hit young Blevins in the abdomen. He will die. Hunter was arrested.

Mrs. Stowe Improving.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 22.—Mrs. Stowe had a long walk, and is apparently gaining strength.
