THE HARRISONS.

Elegant Reception in Their Honor At Indianapolis.

LAST APPEARANCE IN PUBLIC BEFORE LEAVING FOR WASHINGTON.

The Beautiful and Spacious Corridors of the New Dennison Hotel Crowded With the Beauty and Grace of Indiana's Capital City—Reception to Private Secretary E. W. Halford.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 22.—Gen. and Mrs. Harrison made their last appearance in public Wednesday night.

It was at the "assembly," one of those delightful affairs of which Mrs. Harrison for many years has been a patron. The parlors and broad corridors of the New Dennison were thronged with the beauty and grace of Indiana's capital city, while the air was fragrant with the perfume of innumerable plants and choice flowers.

The assembly gives a reception once a month, this one being a special effort in honor of the president-elect and Mrs. Harrison. It was almost 9:30 when Mrs. Harrison entered the reception rooms to be greeted by a bevy of charming femininity. Gen. Harrison was fully an hour later. He looked at the dancers, moved from one little group to another, taking much pleasure out of this his last meeting with so many of his young friends. Mrs. Harrison was attired in white silk with crepe and golden passementerie trimmings. She wore diamond ornaments and carried a bouquet of white tulips and ruscus flowers.

Contrary to expectations, Mr. and Mrs. McKee were not present. Gen. and Mrs. Harrison remained until after 11 o'clock, when they quietly retired from the ballroom.

The handsome residence of William S. Cooper was thrown open Wednesday night for a reception in honor of E. W. Halford, private secretary to Harrison, which was attended by a large circle of invited guests. The affair was exceedingly well appointed in every respect.

Harrison Will Lead the Dance.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—According to the published program of the Washington inaugural centennial ball in this city in April, President Harrison will lead the dance, with Mrs. Morton; Mr. Morton will dance with Mrs. Harrison; Governor Hill with Mrs. R. B. Hayes, and Mayor Hugh J. Grant with Mrs. Cleveland. There will be thirty-two couples in the dance.

LADY STUDENTS SHOCKED.

The Principal of a New Jersey College Speaks too Plainly.

BORDENTOWN, N. J., Feb. 22.—Nearly all of the young ladies attending the Bordentown female college have left that institution on account of what they consider was objectionable and indelicate language used by the Rev. W. C. Bowen, the principal of the college. The trouble commenced on Monday last when twelve members of the senior class were in their recitation room, with Professor Bowen, studying "English literature."

One of the pupils asked the professor whether the morals of the sixteenth century were worse than those of to-day. In answering this question the girls saw Professor Bowen give a number of facts relative to the immorality of the times which the question did not call for, and which it was improper for him to speak of in their presence. He cautioned them against dancing in full dress with men, and against accepting drinks or bouquets from them. In detailing the vices of the large cities the professor made use of language so broad that many of the pupils left the room.

The members of the senior class then held a meeting and decided to leave for their homes, first having signed a statement of their grievances in which they declared that they deemed it a lasting disgrace to stay longer under the roof of an "immoral professing Christian minister." The entire senior class with eight other pupils and two of the female teachers have left for their homes.

Professor Bowen says in giving the young ladies the information he did so with the very best of intentions, and merely acquainted them with facts which he thought they should know. While he regretted that his action had resulted so disastrously, yet he was firmly convinced that he had not violated the laws of decency in speaking as plainly as he had.

JAMES C. FLOOD,

The California Millionaire, Dies in Heidelberg, Germany.

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—James C. Flood, of California, died at Heidelberg Thursday morning. Mr. Flood had been ailing for some time. He was one of the "big four" of "Bonanza" fame. The first member of the noted quartet to be called was W. S. O'Brien, who died ten years ago. John W. Mackay and James G. Fair remain.

Flood was born in the city of New York about 1826. He received a plain, common school education.

How his time was occupied between school days and his majority is not known, though it is understood that he passed some years in William Webb's great ship yards, where he acquired a considerable knowledge of the carpenter's trade. When he was about twenty-three years of age, in 1849 with W. S. O'Brien, whose family was intimate with the Floods, he sailed the long journey around the horn. With $3,000 he returned to New York, but resided in that city only a year. Back again at the Pacific coast, like all adventurers of that period, Mr. Flood had troublesome times, disappointments and failures, and plenty of hard work.

JAMES C. FLOOD.

FLOOD'S SAN FRANCISCO HOME.

In 1854 he began to emerge from obscurity as the leading member of the firm of Flood & O'Brien. The partners made money keeping a liquor saloon in San Francisco, which became a kind of exchange, much to the profit of its proprietors. In 1862 these men made their first investment in the Comstock lode, Nevada. John W. Mackay joined his fortune with theirs the first year, and in 1869 James C. Fair became the fourth partner in the mining property owned by the firm. Whoever suffered by the collapse of the Comstock "boom" ten or eleven years ago, Flood and his associates came out ahead.

It was Mr. Flood who projected the Nevada bank. He had for associates James B. Fair and John W. Mackay. After finishing the immense row of buildings called the Nevada Block, in San Francisco, and just before starting the Nevada bank, Flood made that heavy call on the California bank which led to its suspension and incidentally to the death of William C. Ralston, the popular Californian, whose fall and subsequent suicide was greatly deplored by the public.

In personal appearance Mr. Flood recalled his Irish origin. His figure was imposing, and his features gave him an aspect of power. His house in San Francisco is a costly structure, of plain architecture. The handsomest country house on the Pacific coast is that built and occupied by him in San Mateo, in the Santa Clara valley.

Flood was never a well man after the disastrous wheat deal that so nearly wrecked the Nevada bank a year or two ago, and from which he suffered a loss of $6,000,000.

THE SHANNON-GEOGHAN FIGHT.

The Latter Scientifically Laid Out in Seven Rounds in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—The fight between Shannon and Geoghan, middleweights, at the Golden Gate club Wednesday night, ended in the seventh round with a clean knockout for Shannon.

Club members had backed Geoghan heavily, and in the second round they set up a yell, when it looked as though Shannon was whipped. He rallied, however, and in the fifth and sixth rounds slugged Geoghan terribly, closing one eye and badly using up the other. In the seventh he hit Geoghan square between the eyes, and the latter went down like a log.

Both men showed science and pluck. There was great disorder in the last round and it looked as though there was an attempt to interrupt the fight.

BATTLE IN HAYTI.

The Latest News By Steamship From Port de Paix.

GENERAL HIPPOLYTE SAID TO HAVE BEEN KILLED.

The Southern Army Completely Routed and About Three Hundred Killed By General Legitime's Forces—Minister Preston Discovers a Shrewd Scheme of Hippolyte's.

BOSTON, Feb. 22.—The latest news from Hayti is furnished by the second officer of the steamship Delta at this port from Port de Paix. The officer states that there is no communication between the coastwise towns, but information was received February 12 from a native mail carrier who had just arrived from St. Marc of a serious conflict between the northern and southern armies, that occurred three days before, one mile below St. Marc, in which the army under Hippolyte had been completely routed and about three hundred killed.

The mail carriers said that the northerners had first blockaded the port of St. Marc, after which Legitime's army moved toward the interior and on the second day's march encountered a detachment of Hippolyte's army with the above result. The success of the Legitime soldiers was due to the superiority of their arms.

The second officer also states that a rumor had gained considerable currency at Port de Paix that Hippolyte had been killed by a northern soldier, who, it was claimed, was paid $2,000 for the work.

Spurious Money For Hayti.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Poor Legitime's troubles with rebellious Hayti apparently are without an end. Wednesday, Minister Preston's detectives said they had unearthed a new scheme whereby Gen. Hippolyte intends to make President Legitime's treasury pay the salaries of both the loyal and insurgent troops.

Several weeks ago the Haytian consulate received a letter from a well known bank note company, declining to make a certain batch of Haytian stock and paper currency. Minister Preston thought it rather queer that the company should decline to do work he had never asked them to do, and detectives were sent to investigate. The detectives say they have discovered a scheme with millions in it—for Hippolyte.

Two agents of Hippolyte in New York, they say, ordered nearly $4,000,000 in bank notes of various denominations, to be an exact copy of Haytian bank notes, asserting that the money was to be made genuine as soon as it reached Hayti. According to Minister Preston, two large bundles of crisp bills are now on their way to Gen. Hippolyte.

They were shipped on the steamer George W. Clyde, which sailed last Saturday. The minister described the boxes of greenbacks as being marked "lithographs." An examination of the Clyde's manifest developed the fact that two boxes of lithographs were among the articles the Clyde took to Cape Haytian. There was also $45,000 in Mexican silver dollars.

The New York firm charged with manufacturing money will not talk about it. A representative of the Cincinnati Bank note company said that they had been approached by certain persons on the question of making money for Hayti several weeks ago, but, owing to the undefined state of the Haytian treasury, north or south, the company declined to make the bank notes.

It is suspected that the balance of the $4,000,000 in paper money is on the Conserva and Carondelet.
