

GENERAL SCOTT BROWN was nominated for Representative Saturday by the Democrats at Frankfort.

THE G. A. R. boys are making systematic preparations for a raid on that surplus in the U. S. Treasury.

THE New York World says Murat Halstead now has "an outrage and a bloody shirt of his own, and can give the South a rest." He can, but will he? We fear he is not built that way.

REFERRING to Colonel Bradley's denunciation of the Corean Mission, the Lexington Transcript says lightning "rarely hits twice on the same stump." Now, if the Colonel should be tendered another and better position it would demonstrate that he's a pretty tall sapling, according to the Transcript's argument.

MR. HUGH F. SHANNON sbies his castor into the ring to-day and informs the people that he has entered the contest for Jailer. His announcement appears elsewhere. He is serving his second term as a member of the City Council of Maysville, and has proved one of the most faithful and efficient members of that body. He is thoroughly qualified for the position of Jailer, and has a host of warm friends who will go their full length for him in the contest now on.

THE contest for the county offices promises to be warm all around. Mr. George W. Blatterman announces in this issue that he is a candidate for County Superintendent of Public Schools. This is the second announcement for that office. Mr. Blatterman is one of Maysville's most esteemed citizens, having been engaged in business here most of his life. It is the first time he has asked his party for any office. He and his many warm friends will see that his claims are duly presented.

EVERY day furnishes fresh illustrations of the downward tendency of wages in the over-protected industries. The puddlers in the Lebanon (Pa.) Nut and Bolt Works have struck against a reduction in wages of 25 cents a ton. And on Wednesday notices were posted in the Clark Thread Works at Newark of a reduction in wages amounting to about 15 per cent. The anti-election promises of the Protectionists are turning to Dead-Sea ashes on the lips of the workmen.—New York World.

AND the campaign of education progresses. The bitterest lessons the workmen will learn on this subject will prove those taught by experience.

THE twenty-fifth volume of the Kentucky Reports of the Decisions of the Court of Appeals is now ready, and for sale by the State Librarian, instead of the Secretary of State as was the case in the past.—BULLETIN.

Being "somewhat of a law'or himself" it is surprising that Brother Marsh should have come within sixty years of the truth. It's the eighty-fifth volume that's now on the market.—Maysville Republican.

BROTHER MARSH came as near to the truth as the Courier-Journal and the Courier-Journal came as near to the truth as it's Frankfort correspondent. That's where our information was obtained. But what are you blowing about, Brother Davis? Honestly now, we believe you would have missed the truth just about as far as we did, if you hadn't been posted. We happen to know who gave you the pointer.

BROTHER DAVIS, of the Maysville Republican, thinks we are on "the eve of a conniption fit" because "the Republicans propose to revise the tariff, wipe out a part of the internal 'war' taxes altogether and stop the accumulations in the big vaults at Washington." Our esteemed contemporary is mistaken. We never have "fits," especially of the "conniption" variety. But it's almost enough to throw a fellow into a "fit" of some sort to hear his talk about the Republicans revising the tariff and stopping the accumulations of the surplus in the big vaults at Washington. The accumulations may not be stopped, but we haven't the least doubt that the big vaults at Washington will soon be emptied. The Republicans are good at that business, and their pension schemes, Blair Educational bill, &c., &c., will soon do the work.

MUNICIPAL elections were held in a number of states Monday, and the results have been very gratifying to the Republicans. At all events, the BULLETIN has not thought it worth while to indulge in a rooster parade.—Maysville Republican.

OUR neighbor is welcome to all the comfort he can get out of the returns from the recent municipal elections. The results may "have been very gratifying to the Republicans," but it doesn't look much that way, when the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette has column after column trying to explain that it wasn't Harrison's fault that the Democrats were victorious in so many places last week. Brother Davis, it's a long ways off, but the BULLETIN will indulge in that "rooster parade" in 1892.

HAVE you heard the news from "Little Rhody?" Democratic plurality about 5,000.

KENTUCKY'S TOBACCO CROP.

Nearly Two and a Half Times Larger Last Year Than in 1887.

Kentucky is noted far and near for her "fine whisky, fast horses and pretty women." At same time prominence as a tobacco-producing State must not be lost sight of.

The statistics reported to the State Auditor of Public Accounts of the crops grown last year furnish some interesting information for the farmers.

There are 119 counties in the State and the figures reported to the Auditor make the remarkable showing of a total of 282,331,421 pounds for the crop of tobacco of 1888, as compared with 117,282,876 pounds for 1887, or an increase for 1888 over 1887 of 165,048,545 pounds. In other words, the crop of 1888 is nearly two and one-half times larger than that of 1887, and the increase alone is greater by almost one-half more than the entire crop of 1887.

The twelve largest producing counties take rank in the crop raised, as shown by the returns for 1888, in the following order: Christian, Graves, Henderson, Daviess, Webster, Logan, Mason, Todd, Trigg, Boone, Owen and Pendleton.

These counties all raised over 6,000,000 each and show an aggregate crop for 1888 in themselves of 114,104,535 pounds, or an increase of 55,929,352 pounds over that of 1887. Christian not only shows the largest crop in her 17,211,150 pounds, but also in 10,308,150 pound, the greatest increase. From the third in rank in the crop of 1887, she leads Graves, which was then first and Henderson second.

Another feature forcibly emphasized by the reports, is the statement that the bluegrass or hemp growing counties are becoming large tobacco growing counties. Taking the counties of Bourbon, Clark, Fayette, Franklin, Harrison, Jessamine, Madison, Montgomery, Scott, Shelby and Woodford, and it is found that they aggregated 9,246,050 pounds for the crop of 1887 and 28,486,385 pounds for the crop of 1888, or an increase in 1888 of 19,240,335 pounds.

Following is the number of pounds grown by the twelve largest producing counties:

Table with 2 columns: County Name and Pounds. Includes Christian (17,211,150), Graves (15,338,000), Henderson (13,341,655), Daviess (10,697,430), Webster (8,878,469), Logan (8,592,870), Mason (7,446,500), Todd (7,227,500), Trigg (6,885,500), Boone (6,637,500), Owen (6,175,500), Pendleton (6,170,180).

Total.....114,104,535 Mason County raised only 3,562,600 pounds in 1887, about half as much as last year's crop. Lewis County raised about 500,000 pounds in 1887 and 1,422,500 pounds in 1888; Fleming, 988,647 in 1887 and 3,438,281 pounds in 1888; Robertson, 617,100 pounds in 1887 and 1,884,700 pounds in 1888; Bracken, 2,001,300 pounds in 1887 and 5,207,300 in 1888; Nicholas, 941,500 pounds in 1887 and 3,360,800 pounds in 1888.

The Louisville Times, commenting on the above, says: "The crop is very inferior in quality, and it is doubtful if, in gross, as much money will be realized by its sale as the crop of 1887, when less than half as many pounds were produced."

Farmers should contemplate these figures and then reduce the acreage this year. Grow less and make it as fine as possible.
