

THE BLUE RIBBON MEETING.

Some of the Great Trotters and Pacers That Have Arrived and Will Start This Week.

A week of royal sport. Everything is ready for the bell to ring for show horses and the word go for the trotters. Already the stalls for show horses are half filled, and more goods have gotten in for display in the floral hall than ever before. The ladies have contributed liberally to the floral hall, and from present prospects there will be the best display for years. Miss Clara Kerr, of Muir, Ky., was among the first contributors. The display of flowers and plants will repay you for the trip. Our merchants will double their usual display this year, Thompson & McAtee having already erected their tent, which is 40x25 feet.

The races will be sport fit for the "kings." Every stall will be filled, twenty cars having arrived and four more are expected from Fort Wayne to-day. The great Anglin stable from Terre Haute arrived Sunday morning. The champion Nellie A. seems in great form. She starts in the Futurity Wednesday.

Brignoli Wilkes, 2:15 1/2, winner of 2:23 trot at Versailles, where he made his record, winning the fastest race of the year in Kentucky, starts Thursday in the 2:19 class. Bill Lindsay is another started in the 2:19 class.

Macey Bros. are here with ten, with the favorite for the four-year-old stake, Tolu.

Ben Kinny, of Nancy Hanks fame, has been here several days with some first-class ones. It is rumored he has a wonder to uncover here. Which one is it?

T. E. Moore, with the great Dorfmark, is here.

Rody Patterson has four, and Doug Thomas will be here to-day with a stable of fifteen, headed J. H. L., a free-for-all pacer. He was second at Fort Wayne, in 2:08 1/2.

Strong Boy, the white ghost, will also come to-day. The other free-for-all pacers are already here—Rose Leyburn, Orphan Boy and St. Patrick. Can you pick the winner?

To-morrow's programme will be the 2:40 class with the following entries: Myra Simmons, Lady McGregor, Bradstreet, Clemmie G., Bonnie Blackhawk, Lucy Marshall, Brownsville, Governor Russell, Queen Mark, Henry B., Blue Dawn, Clover Leaf, Gold Brick, Scazza, Lemone and ten others. Also the three-year-old pacers, Annie Turner and Tom Shirley.

Remember the admission Tuesday and Wednesday is but 25 cents. Let everybody go to-morrow and give the fair a good start.

The negro who was drowned last Tuesday afternoon by jumping in the Ohio river three miles below Vanceburg, at Gilkin's Landing, has been identified. It was the general impression at first that he was a murderer fleeing from justice, but he was a toper fleeing from snakes. His name was Alfred Wamnock, but he was known about the town as "Vanceburg Bill."

A WELL-KNOWN Kentucky distiller was in Cincinnati Saturday calling on the trade. At one place he stated that he had just returned from New York, where he had gone to collect about $27,000. His firm held that much New York exchange and could not get its bank, in a small city, to handle it. The gentleman packed a sachel, went to the metropolis, and, accompanied by a prominent lawyer, visited the banks and secured the currency for his drafts.

W. R. GOFF, of Shelbyville, who fell and killed himself at his home last week, mention of whose death was made at the time, carried an insurance on his life of $175,000. Only two weeks before his death he applied to another company for $100,000, but because of his age the application was refused. Mr. Goff's many friends in this county, his old home, while regretting sincerely to hear of his death, will be glad to know that his family is left in good financial circumstances.

A SPECIAL from Frankfort says: A. J. Millard one of the most desperate characters in the penitentiary, was saved from death by suicide late Friday evening. Millard was discovered in his cell unconscious, with an artery in his left arm cut, and lying in a pool of blood. Medical aid was at once summoned and it is thought he will pull through. Millard is one of the Rockbridge gang, and was in the plot to break out about a week ago, and has kept constantly in his cell since. He is serving a sentence for bank sobbery.

It is a well-known fact that the National bank notes are the favorite form of currency in this country. The people prefer them to any other kind of money because of their convenience, their uniformity of value, and their certainty of redemption at par. They circulate freely in all localities, and are adapted to all business uses. The BULLETIN, however, is anxious for everybody to know that silver is still a very desirable commodity in this office, and subscriptions will be gladly received with this metal as pay.

Mrs. DUNBAR wife of David Dunbar, Esq., died at her home on Cabin Creek, Saturday evening, at 5 o'clock, in the eighty-first year of her age. Burial yesterday at Ebenezer, at 5 o'clock. Mrs. May Terhune, of Wellington, Robert Dunbar, of Champaign County, Ill., together with those of the children in this State were present. Her four sons acted as pall-bearers. She was a good christian woman and beloved by all who knew her, and the largest funeral that ever left Cabin Creek followed her to her last resting place.

THURSDAY night about 9 o'clock the roof of the brick warehouse belonging to the John Poindexter Distillery, now the property of Wigglesworth Bros., situated near Poindexter, on the K. C. Railroad, fell in, carrying with it several hundred barrels of whisky of this year's crop. The whisky was stored in what is known as patent ricks. Workmen immediately began clearing away the wreck. The probability is that not over fifteen barrels will be lost. The loss on the building will probably be $1,000, and it will be rebuilt at once.

NEAR Chatham, Bracken County, Friday, while Joseph Spath was painting a barn roof, he lost his balance and fell to the ground a distance of twenty-five feet, sustaining injuries which may result fatally. One rib was run clear through his lung.

The Future of Telephoning.

"I would not undertake to say that wires may not be dispensed with in telephoning," said Prof. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone. "I have myself established communication between ships at sea two miles apart without connecting wires. We are on the threshold of our knowledge of electricity, and all that we have learned only reveals that a force of practically unlimited possibilities of adaptation to the wants of humanity lies just beyond.

"What immediate improvements in the telephone are likely to be made?" he was asked.

"I think," said he, "the next improvements will be in the system rather than in the instrument. The operating machinery is too complicated and it will have to be simplified so as to dispense with the numerous instruments now in use. The telephone itself is practically the same now as it was when it first made part of commercial life. There was more complaint then of inability to understand anything over the wire, than there is now. This indicates that the people have become educated to its use. The ear has to be trained. Extraneous noises, such as the rumble of the cars, are a great interference. The service in Paris, where the wires run through the sewers, is one of the finest in the world."

AMONG those who have felt the financial depression by a reduction in salary is Chairman Henry Clay Frick, of the Carnegie Steel Company. As President of all the Carnegie associations he draws a salary of $50,000 per annum. A general reduction has been made in the salaries of all employees except those working under wage scales. The officers receiving over $500 per month are cut 30 per cent. As Mr. Frick is one of this class, he had $15,000 chipped from his wages.

OSCAR, the bright little son of Mr. Leo Acker, of Market street, died at the home of his grandmother in Cincinnati, yesterday afternoon, of blood poisoning. The little fellow cut one of his feet a few weeks ago and nothing seriously was thought of it. The sore healed and everything was apparently all right. He has been visiting his relatives in Cincinnati and injured the foot again, after which blood poison set in, from the effects of which he died. Arrangements for the funeral had not made this morning.

THE A. G. Field Columbian Minstrels will appear at the opera house Tuesday, August 29th. The company includes a large number of the bright particular stars of the burnt cork profession and is particular strong in every department. The comedy element includes besides "the only A. G. Field," Frank Cushman, Tommy Donnelly, Fred Russell and Dick Clark. The vocal corps is said to be exceptionally strong. Likewise the Olio, which is made up of some of the most sensational acts ever witnessed on a minstrel stage. Prominent among which are the Alveraz Family, known Europe over as the Musical Barbers of Seville; the Brothers Mohring, high class acrobats; Cradoc, the Roman axe man; an old time negro song and dance sketch; "The Barbers Pic-nic," introducing twenty of America's foremost Terpsichorean artists; and the beautiful and bewildering march of the "Continental." Several new features are introduced in the first part, making on a whole, it is claimed, one of the strongest minstrel programmes ever presented.

CONCERNING the sad drowning of the two little Stander boys, while bathing in a creek near Bunea Vista, a special says: "The little fellows were the sons of Mr. Joseph Stander, a shoemaker of Bunea Vista. In the forenoon the little boys were out in front of the yard, playing. There were quite an amount of loose stones lying about. With the stones they constructed a rude imitation of a coffin, and laid themselves down in it, side by side. With gleeful voices they called their mother to come and see how well the coffin fitted. After dinner they started out to look for the cows that had strayed off. They were gone much longer than usual, and the parents got uneasy about them. Accordingly they started out to search for them. When they got a short distance from the house they met a neighbor, who broke the heart-rendering story that their pretty boys were dead. They were not able to swim, and were drowned in water only six feet deep. The mother is a very delicate woman, and is so prostrated over the terrible occurrence that the doctors do not expect her to live."
