

NEW BANKING PLAN.

It is Explained by Secretary Carlisle and Comptroller Eckels. WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The principal interest at the Capitol yesterday centered in the room of the committee of ways and means, where Secretary Carlisle and Comptroller Eckels appeared by invitation before the house committee on banking and currency to explain and advocate the new banking plan prepared by those two officials and endorsed by the president's message. The room was crowded with members of the house, and intense interest was manifested.

Secretary Carlisle was examined and cross-examined by the members of the committee. He had the rough draft of a bill in his possession, but after his examination it was concluded to revise it before submitting it to the committee. Mr. Carlisle and Mr. Eckels differed somewhat as to the details of the proposed banking scheme, but agreed upon the principles of it. Mr. Carlisle will appear again on Wednesday. Mr. Hepburn, Horace White and other New York bankers will also be heard.

Failing in his purpose he piled the bed clothes on the floor, broke a kerosene lamp over them and set them on fire. New Pension Ruling

WASHINGTON, December 8.—The Pension Bureau will hereafter refuse pensions to widows whose income from other sources, added to the proceeds of reasonable efforts on their parts, affords them comfortable support. This policy is provided for in a ruling of Assistant Secretary Reynolds, based on the June 27, 1890, act. In his decision the Assistant Secretary says: "It was evidently the intention of Congress to supplement the widow's means of support from her own labor and all other sources by the pension, only when such means were insufficient for her comfortable support under ordinary circumstances, without intending to lay down an arbitrary and inflexible rule."

The "devil" on a Nevada daily wants to know why it is that a church has to have a spirestickin' away up in the clouds, while a beer saloon can do a bigger business in a back street or basement.

A very peculiar effect was produced by the following announcement, contained in the advertisement of a county fair: "Among other attractive features of this great fair there will be highly amusing donkey and pig races. Competition in these two contests open to citizens of county only!"

The breath of health from the sea—the bracing effects of a stay in the mountains—the toning up qualities of absolute rest—that rest which is so necessary to the weary wife, the overworked father—may be found in
