The Split Wafers.
A man who now stands high in the mercantile community related to me the following little incident of his early life:

At the age of 16 I entered the store of Silas Sturdevant as a clerk. One day, shortly after my installment into the office, I was employed in sealing and superscribing a lot of business circulars—several hundred of them. That was long before the day of gluten, and I used small red wafers for securing the miscives. While I was thus busy Mr. Sturdevant came into the counting room, and when I observed that he was watching me I worked the best I could, hoping to get a word of approbation. By and by he spoke to me:

"Young man, don't you think half a wafer would secure one of those circulars just as well as a whole one?"

I looked up, probably exhibiting as much disgust as surprise.

"If you split your wafers," he added, "you will accomplish all you desire, and at the same time make a saving of just one-half."

He turned away, and while I was thinking what a mean old wafer splitter he was, a lady entered who had been appointed one of a committee to obtain subscriptions toward building an orphan asylum. One public spirited man had given the land, and now they wished to raise $200,000, if possible, for the buildings and necessary endowments. Mr. Sturdevant said he had already been consulted on the subject.

"Yes," thought I, "and I guess that's all it will amount to!"

But he took the paper and wrote his name, and then he said:
"I will give $5,000."
I could hardly believe my ears.

At that moment the merchant arose to a stature of grandeur before me, and in my heart I blessed him; for even then I knew that the lesson of the split wafers, with its sequel, was to be the initial of my future success.—New York Ledger.

Disappointment For John W. Foster.
WASHINGTON, April 6.—The state department has received notice from the Turkish government that it finds it inconvenient to raise the grade of its mission in Washington to that of an embassy on account of the increased expense which would thereby be incurred. This decision of the Turkish government will prevent the president, under the existing law, from nominating ex-Secretary John W. Foster as ambassador to Constantinople, as it is understood was his desire.

Steamer Burned and Sunk.
NASHVILLE, April 6.—The steamer J. W. Hart was burned and sunk at Granville Landing, 200 miles above this city, yesterday. There were no fatalities. The steamer was run into by a floating log. The fire was caused by the upsetting of a stove in the pilot-house. Both boat and cargo are a total loss. The boat was owned by I. W. and T. N. Luggell of this city.

The Deadly Cigarette.
MARION, Ind., April 6.—Joseph McCarty of this city died yesterday of strangulation, attended by fearful convulsions. McCarty was only 21 years old. He was addicted to the excessive use of cigarettes, and this was supposed to have been the cause of his death. He came home apparently in his usual health and retired at about midnight. His family heard his calls for help and went to his room to find him in convulsions. He died five minutes later.

Drank Carbolic Acid.
SHELBYVILLE, Ind., April 6.—George T. Robertson, aged 65, grieving over his wife's fatal illness last evening at his home in Homer, swallowed a quantity of carbolic acid, dying in a few minutes. He left a note saying that he wanted to die before his wife did. He was a merchant and wealthy.

Drowning of Peter Arney.
VINCENNES, Ind., April 6.—Stephen Arney received a telegram from St. Charles, Mo., notifying him of the death of his son, Peter Arney, who was drowned in the Missouri river. Peter Arney left home about two years ago.

How a Great Charity Started.
Dr. Barnado, who is at the head of the association for rescuing the children of the criminal class in London, has told the story of the incident which first drew his attention to them.

In 1886 while studying medicine, he, with a friend, taught a night ragged school for men in an old stable. One bitter night when the school was over he found a boy lying asleep close to the embers of the fire. He woke him and told him he must go home.

"I have no home," was the reply.

"Nonsense! You must live somewhere."

"I don't live nowhere," the boy insisted.

The medical student found that the child for three years had been sleeping in the streets of London. The next night, with this lad for a guide, he found 11 boys asleep in Houndsditch on the roof of one building. The next night he found at Billingsgate over 70 little fellows stretched on a number of barrels, covered with tarpaulin.

The young man told these facts at a public meeting. The Earl of Shaftesbury, an eager philanthropist, went with him that night to Billingsgate and found the poor little gamins on the barrels. An old house was taken, cleaned and furnished with cheap, comfortable beds. Dr. Barnado took charge of it. The work has grown until his houses have received tens of thousands of friendless children until permanent homes have been found for them.

Turgeneff, when a boy, saw one day a woman, a serf on one of his mother's estates, brutally beaten. He never forgot the incident. The result, years afterward, was a volume of sketches of the lives of serfs. It fell into the hands of the czar, and it is said was the cause of the ukase which he issued soon afterward, enfranchising all the serfs of Russia.

It was not the homeless boy nor the serf with the blood flowing from her stripes that wrought these good works in the world. Homeless boys had slept in London streets and serfs had been beaten in Russia for centuries. The help lay in the pitying hearts of two young men.—Youth's Companion.

Coal Dust Ignition.

A proof of the remarkable ease with which dry coal dust may be brought to ignition, even by exposure to the sun's rays, and also an explanation of many a fire at similar surface buildings in collieries and elsewhere, in which timber, etc., covered with coal dust may be in intimate connection with heated metal plates, has been afforded in a German colliery. The surface works of the colliery are made chiefly of iron, the galvanized corrugated sheets which form the walls of the building being supported by strong iron girders. It became necessary to repair a pipe passing through one of the sheets forming a wall facing the south. A mechanic, on going to remove the layer of coal dust from a girder close to the sheet, burned his hand. The official inquiry showed that the layer of coal dust, which contained a large proportion of pulverized rock, had become ignited along the whole length of the metal wall. The heat of the sun had struck right through and the coal dust, as was proved by the layer of white ash on the top, had been burning for a considerable time.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Trees on Thoroughfares.

William A. Coffin, the landscape painter, in a lecture on art before a woman's society, made an earnest plea in the furtherance of art for the planting of more trees on our thoroughfares. These play a great part in breaking the lines of our monotonous or often incongruous architecture. He pointed out that Paris, with a climate as rigorous as ours, owes its beauty to a great extent to the enrichment that verdure lends it for six months of the year. He counted on the doctors bearing him out in this plea on account of the sanitary properties foliage possesses. He remarked that while we are waiting for a Baron Haussmann to rehabilitate our thoroughfares and make them yield artistic angles we can at least render the vista encompassed by the eye more agreeable by having it presented through horse chestnuts and maples.—New York Times.

Steuenville, O., April 6.—Mayor Riley, Republican, was elected by his second term here yesterday by barely 200 majority. The normal Republican majority is 900. The Republicans elected the balance of the ticket by good sized majorities. The Republicans elected all members of council, assessors and five out of six members of the schoolboard and the entire township ticket.

CUBAN RESOLUTION ADOPTED.

The President Advised to Protest Against General Rivera's Drumhead Trial.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The senate yesterday by unanimous vote adopted a resolution reciting the reports that General Ruiz Rivera, the Cuban commander, is about to be tried by drumhead courtmartial and shot, and expressing the judgment of the senate, that if these reports are true the president of the United States should protest to the Spanish government against such violation of the rules of civilized warfare. This resolution does not go to the house of representatives and becomes effective at once as a measure of advice to the president by its adoption.

Although opposition was withdrawn on the final vote there was spirited opposition in the early stages of the debate and a test vote on the comparative strength of the Cuban and anti-Cuban sentiment in the senate. The test occurred on a motion to refer the resolution to the committee on foreign relations. Mr. Hale of Maine who has been prominently identified with the opposition to Cuban resolutions made the resolution to refer and it was supported by Mr. Hoar of Massachusetts, another prominent figure in the opposition to Cuban resolutions. The debate was very spirited and at times quite personal. Mr. Allen of Nebraska and Mr. Gallinger of New Hampshire clashing with Mr. Hoar. The Hale motion to refer was defeated, 21 to 27, and the resolution adopted, 44 to 0. Mr. Hoar and Mr. Hale refrained from voting.

Another Cuban resolution comes up today, that of Mr. Morgan of Alabama, declaring that a state of war exists in Cuba, and recognizing both parties as belligerents.

After the disposal of the Cuban question the day was given to speeches, Mr. Elkins of West Virginia speaking for two hours on the development of the American merchant marine, and Mr. Lindsay of Kentucky advocating the passage of the bankruptcy bill, known as the Torrey bill, now before the senate.

Late in the day a joint resolution by Mr. Tate of Tennessee was agreed to, directing the surgeon general of the marine hospital service to aid the Mississippi flood sufferers by the distribution of tents, blankets, food and medicine under the epidemic fund of 1893, and to purchase further supplies under the present epidemic fund for similar distribution.

BOUND, GAGGED AND BEATEN.

A Brakeman Set Upon by Three Brutal Tramps.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., April 6.—J. H. Carpenter of Lafayette, a brakeman on the Wabash railroad, was set upon by three tramps between Peru and Logansport and badly beaten. The tramps were stealing a ride, and when Carpenter attempted to put them off, they knocked him insensible and gagged him and held him until near this city, when they left the train and took to the woods.

Carpenter managed to notify others of the train crew, and three officers were soon in pursuit. They sighted three tramps near the outskirts, and, after a hard chase, succeeded in arresting one man, who gave his name as James Monroe. He denies knowledge of the affair, but will be held for identification.

Showalter For Congress.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., April 6.—Contrary to expectations, the Republican congressional conference in this, the Twenty-fifth district, which was held here yesterday, was not long drawn out, but a decision was reached and a candidate named on the 13th ballot. The first ballot gave Showalter 15; Townsend, 15; Phillips, 13; Clark, 2; Robinson, 11, and Watson, 4. This return kept up until the 13th ballot resulted in the entire 60 votes being cast for Showalter of Butler.

None of the Bodies Recovered.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 6.—Four weeks have elapsed since the terrible wreck on the Evansville and Terre Haute railroad, at White river, in which five lives were lost, and not one of the bodies have been recovered.
