COMMONWEALTH VS. SWANGO.

Opinion of the Court of Appeals in This Case Taken Up From the Mason Circuit Court.

Following is the opinion of the Court of Appeals in the above case, taken up from this county:

Appellee, W. T. Swanger, was indicted by the grand jury of Mason County for perjury. A general demurrer was sustained to the indictment, and thereupon the Commonwealth's attorney moved the court to refer the charge to the grand jury then in session, but the court overruled the motion and directed that the defendant be discharged. We are asked upon this appeal to reverse the judgment of the lower court both on the demurrer and in its refusal to again refer the charge to the grand jury.

The indictment, which is the basis of this prosecution, falls to allege that the testimony given by the appellee was with felonious intent. It is well settled that the word "feloniously" is indispensable to the validity of every common law indictment for a felony, and for this reason, if for no other, the lower court did not err in sustaining the demurrer. This question was fully considered by this court in the case of Kaelin vs. Commonwealth, 84 Ky., 354, and in the opinion rendered in that case all of the authorities were cited.

The motion by the Commonwealth's attorney to submit the charge to another grand jury was predicated upon Sec. 170 of the Criminal Code, which reads as follows:

"If the demurrer be sustained on any other grounds than those mentioned in the four last sections the case may be submitted to another grand jury, and an order to that effect may be made by the court on the record, whereupon the defendant shall be held in custody or on bail in the manner and for the time provided in sections 159 and 160."

The provision of this section of the Code are not mandatory upon the court like sec. 159, which prescribes that, "If an indictment be set aside for any of the grounds set out in section 158 and sub-sections thereunder, the court shall make an order that the case be submitted to another grand jury," but appeals to his sound discretion.

The indictment charges in substance that the defendant was being tried before a Justice of the Peace, as an examining court, upon a charge for falling to support his family, and that in this proceeding he falsely testified that he and one Mary Jefferson never were in Mt. Sterling, that he was only in Mt. Sterling about eight years before. As the charge in the indictment was for failing to support his family in 1896 this testimony was not necessarily material in determining the guilt or innocence of the defendant of the offense which was being examined into, and we are not disposed to say that there was any abuse of discretion on the part of the trial judge in refusing to again submit the matter to another grand jury; but as defendant was not put in jeopardy on the charge contained in the indictment the refusal of the court to again submit the matter to another grand jury would not be a bar to an investigation by another grand jury if they should see fit to do so.

For reasons indicated the judgment is affirmed.

Robt. J. Breckinridge for appellant. Sallee & Sallee for appellee.

The Cincinnati Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Company, in its circular for the week, has the following:

"The tobacco market the past week was in point of offerings the smallest for a very long time. The attendance of buyers was good, and the bidding spirited and active. Most of the offerings sold at as good, if not better, prices than prevailed for the sorts the previous week."

"The common dark red grades of old leaf were the one exception. These sorts showed no improvement. Manufacturers do not seem to have a place for these types of leaf, or if they have, from appearances, it is a small one. The better grades of old are in much better demand and sold at quite satisfactory prices."

"The better sorts of new tobacco met in active, firm market, and may be quoted as appreciably higher. Clean, bright trashes and lugs continue firm. Prices for these sorts seem to be hardening; the speculative and speculative demand for them is alert, the bidding quick and active. The short mixed trashes and common short tips show no change, either in price or in demand. By comparison these types appear to be selling beyond their intrinsic worth."

The past week was a banner one for sales of dark tobacco by Louisville warehouses, the total sales being 2,669 hogheads of dark, against 598 of burley. The dark business is the largest probably ever done in one week on this market. Private sales were 1,315 hogheads. The market is stronger for both burley and dark.

The hard thing in advertising is to make an ad that is above the average. It doesn't have to be anything very astonishing to make itself prominent. If it sticks up only a little bit above the dead line of the ordinary, it will stick up far enough to be seen. There isn't much difference between an ad that reaches and an ad that does not. It's the last little bit of added excellence that counts.—Bates.

The Francis J. Torrence, a palatial three-deck side-wheel excursion steamer, built at Marietta for the Pittsburg trade, left the Muskingum river Saturday and started on her initial trip up the Ohio. She is designed exclusively for the excursion business and is the finest craft of the kind on the Upper Ohio. Her cost was $100,000.

"Don't get discouraged, my boy," said the publisher patronizingly, "There will always be a demand for good literature."

"I was afraid the demand for it was dying out," replied the high-browed youth.
