CROP OF BOER RUMORS
One Report Says the Irishmen Have Fallen into the Hands of the Transvaal Afrikaners.

BELLER'S ARMY IS PUSHING AHEAD

Conflicting Statements are to the Effect that He Has Returned to His Headquarters.

London, June 12.—The war office has received the following dispatch from General Beller, the British Army's representative in South Africa:

"June 11.—Our troops are marching south from the Orange River, in pursuit of the Transvaal Afrikaners. I have returned to my headquarters."

This statement is confirmed by Mr. John Bull, the English government's special representative in South Africa.

The Galloper and dispositions of the Transvaal Afrikaners are being closely watched by the British military authorities.

DEMOCRATIC BIG FOUR

To the National Convention at Kansas City Absent Members.

COLUMBUS, O., June 12.—The pro-Democratic convention that met here and adjourned on Saturday, was unable to elect a chairman because of the absence of General Sherman, who was expected to return from Europe in time to preside over the convention. The list of absent members was also taken up by the national committee.

A GILDED BIRTHDAY

Attempts to Take the City.

Indianapolis, June 12.—A Republican march and attempted assault upon the large number of police at the home of the Republican leader, Judge Gilford, were repulsed by the police. Judge Gilford was not at his home, and the attempt to enter it was made by a crowd of unemployed men.

COLUMBUS, O., June 12.—Thirty-two of the delegates to the Democratic national convention arrived here today by special train from Chicago, but the leaders of the convention have not yet been heard from.

Will the Men Homestead Without Her?

St. Louis, June 12.—The experiment of Col. Eliza G. Gage and other women of the city to homestead without men, in order to test the efficiency of the female as a homesteader, is now in progress. The experiment was proposed by Col. Gage, who is a member of the Woman's Equal Rights Society.

The experiment consists of sending out three women to the frontier, where they will be placed in charge of farms, and will be required to produce a certain amount of produce in a certain time, in order to test the efficiency of the female as a homesteader. The experiment will be watched closely, and the results will be published.

The experiment is expected to last about a year, and the women will be provided with all the necessaries of life.

The experiment is expected to be of great importance in the cause of woman's rights, and will be watched with interest by all who are interested in the cause.
