WILL IT PIPE MILK TO THE CITY?

A Queer Rumor About the Standard Oil Company—The Story Detailed.

The Milk Producers' union, which was organized two years ago with 7,000 members for the purpose of killing off the milk exchange and controlling the retail price of milk in this city and Brooklyn, apparently collapsed after the expenditure of some money and a vast amount of talk. But the leaders in the movement never lost their faith in the scheme. They remained unreconciled to the existing situation which forced them to accept two cents a quart for milk which the dealers here sold at six and eight cents a quart, while the transportation charge did not exceed a cent a quart. After the collapse of the union, which was chiefly due to the inability to agree on any one thing and all to live up to it, the leaders in the movement formed a stock company, with a capital of $1,000,000.

It was at first proposed to require $100,000 of this to be paid up, but subsequently a start was made on a paid up capital of $5,000. With this "milk depot" was opened at 165 Eighth avenue, some wagons were bought and the actual work of supplying milk to the city consumers was begun. This was only a few months ago, but the experiment is said to be highly satisfactory to the farmers in the concern, which is styled the Union Milk company. They are now handling about 100 forty quart cans of milk a day and running ten wagons. Negotiations are in progress by which they hope to buy out a large dealer in Harlem and double the number of their delivery wagons.

This information was furnished by E. G. Sealey, of Roxbury, Conn., who was president of the Milk Producers' union while it lasted and is the director for Connecticut in the Union Milk company. Mr. Sealey also said that he had heard from one of the largest dealers in the city that the Standard Oil company was contemplating buying out some of the nearest milk dealers in the city and securing a monopoly of the business of delivering milk here. "I heard," said Mr. Sealey, "and I consider my informant entirely trustworthy, that the Standard company proposed to expend $2,000,000 in purchasing established delivery routes in this city and Brooklyn, such as those controlled by the Borden, T. W. Decker and Slawson Bros., which are valuable.

"Then they propose, when they have got control of the business, to district the city and deliver milk in a systematic and economical way. At present the business of delivering milk in this city and Brooklyn is the most wasteful and unsatisfactory way of doing a big business, amounting to $15,000 a year, to be found anywhere."

This city and Brooklyn consume daily more
