

BEAUTIFUL JAVA.

Its Scenery Said to be an Example of Tropical Perfection. The scenery of Java is, I think, tropical perfection. No sameness in the landscape wearies the eye. All is valley and mountain, cultivated with beautiful crops—irrigated ricefields, emerald-green stretches of tall, waving maize, small thickets of bamboos gracefully bending to the breeze—

The last part of the journey was through tall jungle, and as the sun had set some two hours before our arrival at our destination it was no easy matter for the drivers to keep the road in the inky darkness. Finally, a long, steep hill took us down from the comparative coolness of a high altitude into the fetid swamps where lies the town of Bandjar. At first sight you would think these swamps inhabited, in such myriads do the fireflies flit to and fro, or hang motionless, lamplike, in the misty air, giving one the idea of the lights of some distant village.

NEW YORK'S WHITE HOUSE.

Intended as the Home of the United States President. The city of New York once had a "white house" of its own. That was when President Washington was the bright particular star of the fashionable and exclusive set of Cherry Hill. At that time it was supposed, in New York at least, that the capitol of the nation would always be there.

The mansion was finished in 1790, but never occupied by Washington, the seat of government being moved at that time to this city. Then the executive mansion in Bowling Green became the governor's house, and in it George Clinton and John Jay lived during their terms of office. It was a pleasant and stately place of residence, with the park of Bowling Green and the rapidly extending thoroughfare of Broadway before it and the aristocratic mansions of the Battery back of it.

GREETING TO M'KINLEY.

Returning Delegations Call on the Republican Nominee at His Home—Congratulations. CANTON, O., June 30.—Gov. McKinley made two more addresses at his Canton home last night. During the day the news spread rapidly that the New York McKinley league would stop at Canton on its way home from St. Louis, and that the special convention party from Canton would come here in the evening. It was shortly after six o'clock, just before the governor's dinner hour, when shrieking whistles of locomotives heralded the approach of the New Yorkers and returning Cantonians, as well as a special train load of 500 people from the Mahoning valley, where Gov. McKinley spent his boyhood days.

An escort committee, with bands and drum corps, including 50 horsemen, met the delegations at the station. The streets were densely crowded for blocks in every direction leading to the governor's home. The crowds rushed through the fences and crowded into the doorway of the house in their excitement. It was necessary for the governor to go to the side door to meet his returning fellow-citizens, as it was impossible for him to reach the front, where he had been speaking. Congressman R. W. Taylor, of the Eighteenth, the old McKinley district, mounted a box when Gov. McKinley appeared, and made a congratulatory speech on his nomination for the presidency.

HARRITY'S VIEWS.

The Democratic Chairman Thinks the Democrats Will Not Decline for Free Coinage—He Favors Sound Money. PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 30.—Chairman W. F. Harrity, of the democratic national committee, passed through here yesterday en route to Philadelphia from St. Louis. He has been the guest of ex-Gov. David R. Francis, of Missouri. While in St. Louis, Mr. Harrity declined to be interviewed on the subject of politics for the reason that his visit there was of a purely personal and social character, and that it seemed indelicate for him to discuss politics from a democratic standpoint while the republican party was the guest of St. Louis. When asked about the platform adopted Thursday Mr. Harrity said:

In my opinion the action of the republican national convention makes it even more important that the Chicago national convention shall declare for sound money than if an equivalent financial plank had been placed in the St. Louis platform. I am on record as predicting that the republican national convention will not declare for the free coinage of silver, and I am still quite hopeful that the sound money element of the democratic party will prevail in the convention.

He was asked what effect the withdrawal of Senator Teller and his free silver associates from the republican convention would have upon the Chicago convention and Mr. Harrity said: It ought to give no encouragement to our party to adopt a free silver policy. It will be found that the gentlemen who bolted the St. Louis convention will not take any step to help the democratic party. They would doubtless cooperate with the democrats, providing the democrats would follow where they lead. The suggestion that Senator Teller may be nominated by the Chicago convention is not worthy of a moment's serious consideration. I believe that the democracy can enter the campaign with much more of hope and confidence if they will unequivocally declare for the existing gold standard. If they will do so, and nominate candidates in harmony with such a declaration, the currency issue will be practically eliminated from the canvass and in so far as it might remain, it would be to the advantage of the democrats in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut because of Mr. McKinley's equivocal record and attitude. The tariff would be made the main issue, and I believe this would be to the prejudice of the republican candidates, who stand for an extreme high protective tariff. The business interests of the country, except those having a direct concern in higher duties upon imports, want a rest from further tariff agitation. As soon as this country gives satisfactory assurances of the soundness and stability of its monetary policy, as would be the case if both the great parties declared for the existing gold standard, general confidence would be restored. It will then be found that the present tariff will produce ample revenue for all of the expenses and needs of the government. With restored confidence and ample revenues we will at once enter upon an era of business revival and general prosperity.

HANNA WILL CONTROL.

The Ohio Manager Elected Chairman of the National Committee. ST. LOUIS, June 30.—The republican national committee met this morning and was called to order by Joseph H. Manley, of Maine. Powell Clayton, of Arkansas, was made temporary chairman. On motion of C. H. Payne, of Wisconsin, Marcus Aurelius Hanna, of Ohio, Presidential Candidate McKinley's manager, was unanimously elected permanent chairman of the committee and Joseph H. Manley, of Maine, temporary secretary, and James Francis Burke, of Pittsburgh, temporary assistant secretary.

FIGHTING FOR BUSINESS.

Chicago Ticket Brokers Will Test the Recent Action of Railroad Companies. CHICAGO, June 30.—Chicago ticket brokers have begun a fight in the courts to protect what they conceive to be their rights. An agent of the Western Passenger association bought a mileage book from a Kansas City broker. It was presented to the Chicago Great Western for redemption. When the broker who sold it heard of it he garnished the Chicago Great Western to recover the book and began injunction proceedings against the road to prevent it redeeming it.

APPEAL FOR SILVER.

Twenty-Six Delegates to the Republican Convention Issue an Appeal to the Country. ST. LOUIS, June 30.—The silver men had a conference yesterday and issued the subjoined address which was signed by 26 delegates to the national republican convention: To the People of the United States: Obedience to the call of duty and justice by the common consent of the people is the only basis of a permanent government. It is the duty of every citizen to support the government of his country, and to do so in the manner which he believes to be the best for the country. In doing so we claim no authority or right other than that which belongs to every man to express personal convictions; but we respectfully hold that the cooperation of all who believe that the time has come for a return to the simpler and more direct methods of naming men for national service than has obtained in recent years.

Recognizing the value and the splendid achievements of political parties in this country, as elsewhere, we are yet constrained to believe that for more than 30 years no one of them has been entirely sufficient for the needs of the people. The great trend to better things resulting from the heart and the purpose of all men, has been stayed during the latter part of this generation by the failure of parties to express in their achievements the highest hope and aspiration of the mass of the people who constitute the parties. And there has been growing in this country a great and growing sense of the national election—a great mass of independent thinkers and voters, which, failing in itself to control, has gravitated between the two parties.

When we see the cause of this mighty oscillation of a mass which this year has probably obtained controlling proportions? Every man can answer to himself. If he has been an observer, if he has had interests that were affected if he has felt a hope to see his country prosper, he has seen that the general dissatisfaction has arisen from the fact that the party promises made were broken to the people by party performance, he has seen that the party promises made were broken to the people by party performance, he has seen that the party promises made were broken to the people by party performance.

The only remedy is to stop falling prices, the deadliest curse of national life. Prices will never cease falling under the present standard. The restoration of bimetalism by this country will double the basis of our money system. In time it will double the stock of primary money of the world—will stop falling prices and steadily elevate them until they will reach their normal level. Bimetalism will help to bring about the great hope of every social reformer, every believer in the advancement of the race who realizes that the money of the world has been the deadly foe of our toilers and the servant of the foreign interest gatherer. Bimetalism will hold to bring the time when a certain expenditure of human toil will procure a certain financial result.

With this in view, we offer to the forthcoming convention and to the people the name of Hanna for the presidency of the United States, whose life in public and in private represents those distinguished virtues which adorned the days and the deeds of the earlier time of this republic, a return to which virtues is requisite for the prosperity and contentment of the people and the perpetuity and commanding example of free institutions. That name is Henry M. Teller, a man of the people and for the people. He is of no section. His experience and service, his devotion to the common cause of his country, his fellow citizens has been as wide as the country. We believe that the people of the United States have him in their hearts as he has had their interests in his purpose through all the work of an exalted life. It is not merely as the excellent monetary reformer that we present this man to the people. It is true that he has waged a mighty war for the restoration of the money of the constitution, and his name has been identified as that of no other living man with the great cause of silver.

Ex-Consul Walker Arrives in Kansas City. KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 30.—Ex-United States Consul to Madagascar John L. Walker arrived in this city last night over the Missouri Pacific road from St. Louis. He was accompanied by his family. Mr. Walker is looking well and apparently enjoying good health. While evidence of his recent punishment is very distinguishable he is yet in good physical condition. In an interview he said Cleveland and his cabinet were responsible for his long confinement in prison, and gave the press of the country the credit for his liberty.

A POSTMASTER'S WIFE.

A Leeds Woman Who Astonishes Her Friends and Neighbors. Near to Death But Restored So Completely That She Has Been Accepted by a Life Insurance Company as a Good Risk. From the Journal, Leebton, Me. A bright little woman, rosy and fresh from her household duties, dropped into a chair before the writer and talked with enthusiasm shining in her snapping, black eyes.

The people in the pretty village of Leeds Center, Me., have watched with some interest the restoration to complete health of Mrs. W. L. Francis, wife of the postmaster. So general were the comments on this interesting case that the writer who visited Mrs. Francis and learned from her that the statements regarding her troubles and her subsequent extrication therefrom are entirely true. All of her neighbors know what has been the agency that has performed this cure, but in all other ways she is as bright and as energetic as ever. Mrs. Francis has consented to allow her story to appear in print.

"If there is anything on earth I dread more than another," she said, "it is to see my name in the papers. But in this case I have no qualms. My recovery is so unusual and unreservedly; have sought out sufferers and recommended the remedy to so many friends and acquaintances that already my neighbors curiously can't think of this thing that I consider wonderful. I know that there are so many testimonials of medicine in the papers nowadays that people do not pay as much heed as formerly; but I do wish folks who are suffering would remember that what I say comes right from the heart of a woman who feels that she had a new lease of happy life given her."

Eleven years ago I was afflicted with nervous prostration. My existence until two years ago was one of dragging misery. Anyone in the village will tell you of my condition. My blood seemed exhausted from my wretched and aching months of great grief. I was able to undertake only the lightest household work, and even then I could perform it only by slow and careful movements. During all these sorry months I was daily stating my case to a doctor, and that, but their medicines helped me only spasmodically, and then I fell into lapses more prostrating than ever.

"In the night I used to be awakened by my wretched pain in my heart and side, and was obliged to use bottles of powder medicine that the doctor gave me for relief in such attacks. At last my condition became so grave that I went out only in the night to my room, and in descending the stairs I frequently was obliged to sort of fall and slide over the steps in order to descend, such was the strain on my system. Occasional relief from this slight exertion. Occasionally I visited the neighbors, but I was obliged to sit and rest to recover breath while ascending any elevation. In short, it did not seem that I could live, such was my complete physical prostration."

"One day I saw an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and although my faith in remedies was weak by that time, I sent for a box and tried them. I was two years ago. Now I call myself a well woman. I feel wonderful. I haven't had one of those excruciating pains in the heart for a year and a half. Why, even the first box of pills helped me. Can you miles now; can do my work as usual; I feel in weight considerably, and you would scarcely believe it, but a little while ago I was examined for endowment life insurance and was accepted unconditionally after a careful examination by the physician."

"Do you wonder that I'm shouting 'Pink Pills' all through our village? I haven't taken any of the remedy for some months (or it is really months) but I know that the first sign of trouble I know to what refuge to flee."

Last year my aunt, Mrs. M. A. Blossom, of Dixfield, N. O., was here visiting me. She was suffering from a severe attack of heart trouble, but she was skeptical about my remedy that I was so enthusiastically advocating. At last, however, she tried it and carried some home with her when she came. A little while ago I received a letter from her and in it said: 'I'm cured, thanks to God and Pink Pills.' She also wrote that her husband had been prostrated but had been restored by the remedy."

If Remote from Medical Help, Doubly essential is it that you should be provided with some reliable family medicine. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the best of its class, remedying thoroughly as it does such common ailments as indigestion, constipation and biliousness, and affording safe and speedy help in malarial cases, rheumatism and inactivity of the kidneys.

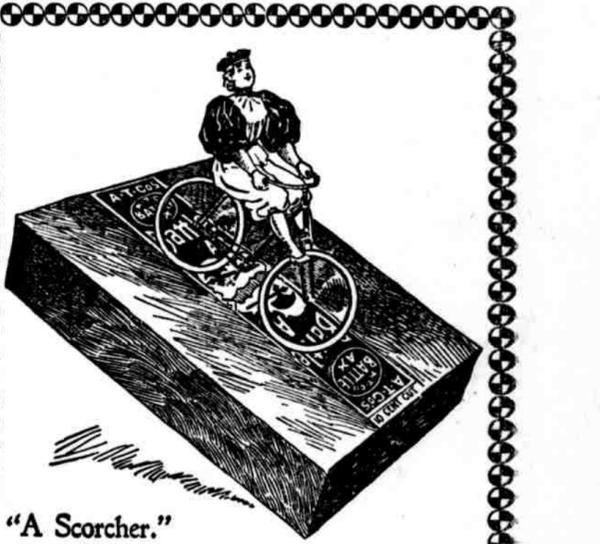

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper effort—the gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

Mistress and Maid

both have their part in the great savings that come from Pearline. Suppose you're the mistress. There's the economy of it—the saving of time, etc., and the actual money that's saved by doing away with that steady wear and tear on everything washed. Suppose you're the maid. There's the saving of labor; the absence of rubbing; the hardest part of the household work made easier and pleasanter. But suppose you are mistress and maid, both in one, doing your own work. Then there is certainly twice as much reason why you should do every bit of your washing and cleaning with Pearline.

Battle-Ax PLUG

Tobacco Dealers say, that "BATTLE AX" is a "scorcher" because it sells so fast. Tobacco Chewers say, it is a "scorcher" because 5 cents' worth goes so far. It's as good as made regardless of cost. The 5 cent piece is almost as large as the other fellows' 10 cent piece.
