

A GRAND SUCCESS.

Entertainment Given By The Symphony Orchestra And Dramatic Circle.

Tuesday evening the Flagstaff Symphony orchestra made their initial appearance at the opera house and was greeted by a large and appreciative audience. The music was not only grand, but a surprise to everyone. The overtures and selections were well chosen. The violin duet by Messrs. Edwards and Hunewell charmed the audience, and had it not been that the program announced "no encores," would have had to repeat their toil of pleasure over and over again.

Miss Foreman, young as she is, shows careful study by the rendition of her cornet solo. Mr. Hunewell also shows that attentiveness has made him a master of the violin. His solo "Flower Song," was the neatest piece of work we have ever witnessed in this city. The balance of the orchestra, which consisted of Mrs. Fulton, Miss Ward, Messrs. Moyer and Milligan, deserve great credit for the manner in which they rendered their respective parts. In the midst of the musical entertainment a one act sketch was given by the Dramatic circle, in which the Misses Gertrude Tolfree and Alethia Coffin, Messrs. T. A. Fynn and Palmer impressed upon the audience that we not only had one of the cleverest musical organizations in our little city, but that we also had talent that would do credit to a city of ten times our size. Mr. Fynn deserves a great deal of credit for his careful training and untiring patience in selecting and rehearsing the sketch given that evening. The affair was, upon a whole, one of the neatest conducted in our catalogue of memory, and it is truly hoped that they have received enough encouragement to give us a few more just such evenings of grand pleasure.
