

citizens do not in any way molest or interfere with the Indians on the extension of the reservation as indicated, and that any attempt to interfere with the Indians or their rights in any way on the addition shall be sufficient reason for withdrawing the privilege to graze thereon.

He very urgently recommends that stock cattle only, other than those owned by Indians, shall be allowed to come on and into that portion of the addition lying south of the Little Colorado river during the time named, from December 1 to May 1, of the following year; also that no outside stock other than that owned by the Indians, shall be allowed upon the portion of the reservation indicated between these dates—May 1 and December 1 of the same year; and further, that no sheep other than those owned by the Indians be allowed thereon; also that this privilege be allowed to stock cattle which naturally drift upon said portion of the extension and not to cattle to be driven thereon; that the north line of the privilege granted shall be the center of the Little Colorado river, and that stockmen or their cattle shall not go north thereof.

He is of the opinion that when the final decision in this matter is reached it would be right to lay such decision before the Board of Supervisors of Coconino county, Flagstaff, Arizona; also to acquaint you with the result; likewise to furnish you with a list of the stockmen whose cattle are to graze on the extension, in case the privilege recommended is granted.

In connection with this subject the office has to state that the statements and recommendations contained in the report of Frank Mead, above referred to, have been considered very carefully. His recommendations are approved. You will so advise the proper officials of Coconino county, Arizona. You will also obtain from them a list of the names of stockmen who are to make use of the grazing privileges indicated. When you shall have obtained such list you will furnish this office a copy of the same for use and information. You will also see that no other white men graze stock cattle upon that portion of the addition south of the Little Colorado river other than those included in the list furnished you by the proper officials of said county. They should be permitted to graze, as indicated, their cattle from December 1 to May 1. After that time you will see that their cattle are removed beyond the limits of said addition to the Navajo reservation. During the time that stockmen have the privilege of grazing upon the lands in question, you will look after the interests of the Indians and see that they are not interfered with. The Indians should be encouraged in the business of stock growing, and in the pursuit of agriculture and gardening where practicable on said addition. Every effort should be made to promote their general welfare and interests.

You will advise the proper county officials of the action taken by this office upon the matter under consideration, and also the stockmen interested in the subject. From time to time the office would be pleased to have reports from you as to the success of the method recommended by Supervisor Mead in the matter of joint grazing privileges on lands south of said river.

Very respectfully,
A. C. TANNER,
Acting Commissioner.

WORLD'S FAIR NOTES.

Chiefs Joseph and Geronimo, two of the most famous Indian chiefs alive, will make their home on the Indian reservation at the World's Fair during the seven months of the exposition.

Four miles of Standard gauge railroad tracks have been laid in the Palace of Transportation at the World's Fair. Even this does not exhaust the floor space of the spacious structure.

The largest pipe organ ever built has been shipped from Los Angeles to St. Louis. It will be placed in the Festival Hall at the World's Fair. The organ has 145 stops, and some of the larger pipes are five feet in diameter.

The Palace of Agriculture at the World's Fair is the largest building ever built to contain a single department. It is 1680 by 546 feet, and covers 23 acres. The building is finished, and the installation of exhibits is in progress.

Connecticut's building at the Fair is finished and the furnishings are being installed. The building is a replica of the Sigourney mansion at Hartford, and much of the woodwork in the original structure has been placed in the reproduction.

Workmen are installing the wonderful floral clock at the World's Fair. The steel framework, which was made in Milwaukee, Wis., is being placed. The flowers that will conceal the mechanism are in pots in the greenhouses, and will be installed about April 15. The dial of the clock is 112 feet across.

The sculpture adorning the World's Fair grounds at St. Louis, embracing creations by the world's greatest sculptors, has cost more than half a million dollars. Sculpture was never used so freely in adorning an exposition grounds, and critics say that the offerings never possessed so great artistic merit.

The exhibit of the Philippine Islands at the World's Fair will cost more than a million dollars. Over 1,000 native Filipinos will comprise a part of the exhibit, and forty acres of ground are required for the native buildings and villages. An accurate reproduction of a section of the wall around ancient Manila is one of the architectural features.

The World's Fair special stamps will be sent from Washington to the first-class postoffices of the country on April 21, but are not to be placed on sale, however, until April 30, the day of the opening of the exposition at St. Louis. The one-cent stamp bears the likeness of Robert R. Livingston, the two-cent stamp bears the likeness of Thomas Jefferson, the three-cent stamp will bear the portrait of James Monroe, and the five-cent stamp will be adorned with the face of William McKinley. Upon the ten-cent stamp there will be a map of the United States, showing the territory included in the Louisiana purchase.

"We have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in our family for years," says Mrs. J. B. Cooke, of Netherlands, Texas. "We have given it to all of our children. We have used other remedies for the same purpose, but never found anything to equal Chamberlain's. If you will use it as directed it will always cure you." For sale by all druggists.
