

School Notes

The course of study at Emerson school has been arranged for students who wish to take classical, scientific, commercial or industrial arts work. Sixteen units will be required for graduation, as soon as a full four years course is established, a unit consisting of a subject pursued for a full year, five days a week, with periods of not less than 40 minutes in length. Bookkeeping, typewriting, manual training, domestic art and science classes require double periods, as there is no work of preparation outside of school. Glee club or orchestra taken through four years gives one credit. Music taken under an accredited teacher outside of school will be given credit. Pupils will not be allowed to take more than four units of work a year, except by permission of the principal and faculty. No elective study will be taught unless five or more pupils demand it. Military training and physical education for girls are required. For military training the state law specifies one-half credit for year, but the total credit is not to exceed two units. Pupils will not be allowed to change from one course to another without the consent of the principal.

The student body assembly, held at Emerson school on Friday morning, was addressed by Superintendent Thomas, who emphasized the attempt which will be made by the faculty and students to eliminate tardiness. A strong effort will be made to have self discipline. A change has been made in the periods of recitation, the time for class working being cut down to 45 minutes. The plan will call for more home study.

The Emerson football team is being brought into shape for the game with Winslow here in Flagstaff tomorrow. Coach H. W. Denman doing all in his power to produce a winning combination. Several of last year's players have not returned to school, and a number of those trying out for this year's team are now players.

Although the team has not been chosen, it is probable that Leslie McClure will play full back, as he is showing up fairly well in this position. Melvin McCormick is one of the most experienced linemen, and will probably play tackle. Ed Black is coming up in good style, and his position will probably be right end, while Fred Montoya may be stationed at the left end. Clifton Williams, a recent arrival at Emerson, may be played as a quarterback. In all of his playing so far he has shown good headwork. Fred Nackard is tackling hard, and will very likely make a back field position. Victor McClure's weight will be a great advantage to him as tackle. Joe McClure, another big husky who is doing good work, will be played in the back field or in the line. Clyde Tissaw is showing up the best of all the inexperienced players. He tackles hard, and in another year will be a fine player. Cecil Curry may take a guard position. Earle Thomas may be used in the back field. Among the other students who are turning out are Victor Bartlett, George Marine, Merwin Schwarz and Paul La Rue.

Miss Myrtle Webber will give sewing lessons to some of the students at Brannen school on Mondays and Wednesdays.

Nature study is being stressed this fall in the advanced first grade.

Games on the Brannen playground are being supervised by teachers during recess periods, one of the beneficial results of this plan being that students from Spanish speaking homes use English to a greater extent when teachers are with them on the grounds.

W. H. Day, older boys' secretary for the Y. M. C. A., Arizona, New Mexico and western Texas, spoke to the high school student body on Wednesday afternoon, on "The Triune of Success."

Miss Doris Badley is having the children in her classes make health posters for the state fair. Although the work is just started, the children are already making good progress. Miss Badley comes from the Chicago Art Institute and has been specializing in portraiture.

The Emerson high school football team will meet the aggregation from Winslow, at the Normal field, at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. This is the first game of the season for both teams, and a hard fight is expected.

It is the plan of City Superintendent John Q. Thomas to have speakers of note address the Emerson student body, at different times during the year.

The girls' physical education classes under the supervision of Miss Olive McNeerney are making good progress in learning athletic games and in mastering corrective gymnastics. Six girls from St. Anthony's school are taking work under Miss McNeerney with the Emerson girls.

DR. J. S. PLASKETT NOTED ASTRONOMER, WAS GUEST HERE

Dr. J. S. Plaskett, director of the Dominion Astrophysical observatory, at Victoria, B. C., and Mrs. Plaskett, who were visiting friends at Lowell Observatory and Dr. and Mrs. M. G. Fronske, left Flagstaff for their home Friday morning.

It was Dr. Plaskett who recently made a discovery of infinite importance to astronomers. With the aid of a 72-inch reflector telescope he found twin suns, many times bigger than our sun—removed 52 quadrillions of miles from the earth. Scientists herald the discovery as the outstanding astronomical achievement of recent times. Some of the facts that make the lay mind fairly gasp are—that the light coming from these twin suns, traveling at the rate of 186,000 miles a second, started from them 5,000 years before there was any credible human history on the earth, and is reaching here only today.

is the best stepping-stone to a position in which the salary is really worth while. A stenographer learns more about the business than any other employe and if she has a thorough knowledge of bookkeeping, spelling, penmanship, business English, letter writing, etc., she is in line for promotion as soon as an opportunity occurs. The next class in shorthand for beginning will be organized at the Lamson Business College, 28 W. Washington street, Phoenix, Arizona, Monday, October 2nd. This is the second class to be organized since the opening of the fall term. Try to be there.—Advertisement.

BOTH PARTIES START POLITICAL BALL ROLLING

Monday and Tuesday were legal political days in Phoenix. Both parties were required by law under our election laws which cover about every act of a politician, including just when and where to dump his cigar ashes.

The newly elected state central committees met according to Hoyle at the state house at 12 o'clock noon on Monday. The republicans adjourned their meeting to the Adams hotel, while the democrats started to mix and only adjourned to eat.

Republican Results
The result of the republican session at the Adams in the afternoon was the unanimous selection of Judge P. D. Overfield for permanent chairman; Roy N. Davidson permanent secretary, and Dr. J. Dennett, Jr., permanent treasurer.

Mrs. Kenneth Littlejohn of Tucson was unanimously elected vice-chairman representing the seven southern counties and Miss Hannah Eggleston of Phoenix, vice-chairman of the northern counties of the state.

Members of the state executive committee were appointed by the different delegations on roll call. The two allotted to Coconino county were Dr. M. G. Fronske and F. S. Breen.

Having completed the election of officers and other details harmoniously except for a short gray streak caused by some question among the Maricopa county delegates, who asked for a recess to caucus, the committee adjourned to meet Tuesday noon at the capitol as a party council, which included in its membership all county chairmen, state and legislative nominees.

James P. Boyle, whose name had been written in on the ticket as the nominee for the U. S. senate, advised his friends that he had been out of the state and while appreciating the honor, was unable, owing to the pressure of personal affairs, to accept. He made an enthusiastic appeal for his party and suggested the name of Colonel James H. McClintock, whose name had also been written in, though in less number. The party council accepted the resignation and unanimously nominated Col. McClintock for the honor.

This completed the republican state ticket, with the possible exception of Chas. W. Fairfield, who was not a candidate, but whose name had been written in by many friends. While it was understood that Mr. Fairfield would not be a candidate, he was absent in California so no formal action could be taken at that time.

Enthusiastic addresses were made by Gov. Campbell, Colonel McClintock, candidate for the U. S. senate; Mrs. Guild, candidate for congress, and other candidates on the ticket. A strong platform was adopted at the session Tuesday afternoon when the party council convened at 4 o'clock.

Democrats Elected Officers
Not until 9:30 p. m. Monday were the democrats able to elect their state committee officers. They are: Vernon L. Vaughn of Phoenix, chairman; Louis B. Whitney, of Phoenix, secretary. For Coconino county P. J. Moran and T. E. Pulliam were named as members of the state executive committee.

The platforms of the different parties were not filed until Wednesday evening.

Miss Helen Dillman arrived from San Diego last Friday night after an absence of three years. Her many friends were glad to see her again.

Harvesting has started in general and everybody is busy putting up hay and getting ready for spud digging.

POPULAR PUGILIST PLEDGED

Billy Alger, well-known throughout the southwest for his work with the maulers in the squared circle, last week got a marriage license here from County Clerk Tom L. Rees. Billy's home name is John W. Alger, and his father was formerly sheriff of Graham county. The bride is Miss Leona M. Ayersman of Tempe, and the wedding was at Seligman, where Billy is driving a truck.

COCONINO AND YAVAPAI COUNTIES JOIN HANDS IN FIGHT FOR OAK CREEK ROAD; SURVEY ASSURED

der the direction of President T. A. Riordan, of the Flagstaff Chamber of Commerce, with the aid of the hustling county engineer, Frank Goodman. There were between 60 and 70 present. M. I. Powers was the adept toastmaster.

With Lynn B. McMullen on a chair, leading the gang sang America.

Mr. Powers felicitated the two counties on at last getting acquainted, mingling across the line and henceforth knowing each other personally and not merely by reputation.

County Engineer Goodman sketched the work already done for the road to connect the two counties—the initiative work by the Clarkdale chapter of the American Association of Engineers, endorsed by the Yavapai County Chamber of Commerce, the Camp Verde Commercial club, Flagstaff Rotary club and other civic organizations, and, finally, the promise made at Phoenix last Friday by Governor Campbell that he and State Engineer Maddock will favor the project.

Former Governor Hunt, again candidate, promises his support.

Major W. W. Midgely, chairman of the Yavapai supervisors, mixed eloquence, humor, railery and encouragement in equal parts and poured out an address that was lively and to the point. Yavapai county has woken up, he said, and now is showing California's spirit in boosting Yavapai and Coconino counties have more to boast of than California.

Midgely believes if we had a pipeline to put our atmosphere in Phoenix it would be worth millions to us.

We have got to wake up if we are to capitalize our wonderful natural advantages. We have got to make this one of the playgrounds of the world, with golf links, swimming places, good hotels, dancing pavilions, the many other things tourists demand in addition to scenery and climate.

Midgely said after Oak Creek is opened to the world it will become so popular and famous that land in Sedona will sell by the front foot.

He advised that we turn our back on Maricopa county and develop what we have and leave Maricopa and Phoenix behind. "If I lived in hell and had a job in Phoenix, I'd go home," he said.

Domine W. E. Woodruff, the Clemenceau honey man, laid the two sections at either end of the Oak Creek road are not competitive, but if they are connected each will supply needs of the other, each help support the other, each greatly benefit and enrich the other. "Once you open up that road, every benighted son of a gun who sweats in the heat of the Verde Valley will be up here every Saturday night to see you." He said opening the road and thus improving marketing conditions would bring in a lot of new and better agriculturists.

H. DeWitt Smith, superintendent of the United Verde Mining company, of Jerome, said this county could take a lesson from Yavapai, where with an investment by the county of $2,500 for road purposes they got more than $245,000 of government money for road building. He said the $6,000 spent on the Oak Creek road survey this winter, and the $25,000 bond money we voted for that road three years ago and which still is lying to our credit in the bank here, if proper effort is put forth, and we stand together and fight in every possible way for federal government aid, will ultimately bring us $250,000 for that road, perhaps $400,000.

Forest Supervisor Ed Miller of Flagstaff explained the manner in which the receipts of the department from the various forests are apportioned to road and other funds. He said the Oak Creek highway is probably the most important in the entire state and that it should be built largely with forest funds.

F. K. Aushault, chief engineer of the United Verde Mining company, and chairman of the Clarkdale chapter American Engineers association, stressed the importance of Flagstaff standing positively, steadily and clamorously for the government's aid. These two counties get about half of the annual forest road fund. If we use our influence we can get more and the road can be finished in 18 months.

Fred Garing, chairman of the board of supervisors, assured the bunch that he and Supervisor Campbell, both of whom live in this end of the county and constitute a majority of the board, are heart and soul for the Oak Creek road and will see that the board does all it can for the road.

Bob Taylor, John McWilliams and John Loy, candidates for election this fall to the board of supervisors, each in turn stood up and went on record as favoring the building of the Oak Creek road. Mr. Loy, who lives on the other north and south road, frankly said he'd do all he could to put the Oak Creek road through.

Joe McCarthy, Yavapai county highway engineer, live wire and go-getter of Uncle Sam's money, told how he and Captain Wright, then Coconino county engineer, and the engineer of Gila county, all got together and pooled their efforts for government aid on the Flagstaff-to-Globe road, via Oak Creek. They got the government men's endorsement of their plans and then Governor Campbell and State Engineer Maddock secured the diversion of Coconino county's share from the Oak Creek road to the highway east of Flagstaff.

Harry Heap, of Prescott, president of the Yavapai county Chamber of Commerce, said Prescott is not content with what they have in Yavapai, but want the added attractions of Coconino county to pull people away from the southern to the northern part of the state.

Mr. Powers announced the appointment of the following propaganda and publicity committee to keep after the government aid on the new road:

Yavapai county—H. DeWitt Smith, Joe McCarthy, Harry Heap, F. K. Aushault, Major Midgely, W. E. Woodruff, Bob Wingfield, J. M. Foster. Coconino county—David Babbitt, T. A. Riordan, J. C. Dolan, M. I. Powers, F. S. Breen, Fred Garing and Frank Goodman of Flagstaff; Lew Thomas of Oak Creek, Ben Sweetwood and Mr. Wilder of Williams, Harry Gray of Bellemont.

Yavapai county visitors besides those mentioned above were: J. E. Wagner, garage man of Jerome; Walter Miller, Jerome merchant; Charles Hughes of the Jerome Transfer Co., T. B. Jones, transfer man of Clarkdale, Dick Foudy, Clarkdale merchant; Charles D. Willard, Verde Valley land owner; Alonzo Mason, Harry Garrison, Cottonwood service man; Ersel Garrison, Cottonwood garage man; J. G. Fishburn, manager Jerome telephone office; Clyde Jones, head of the Verde Valley Commercial club; Lewis Douglas, of the United Verde; Ed Rucker, Jerome city clerk; Chris Totten, general contractor of Prescott; W. W. Rhoades, Jerome; Charlie Stemmer, real estate, Cottonwood; Martin Sherrill, Verde Valley stage line manager; Bob Wingfield, Camp Verde merchant; Homer Cummings, Camp Verde; Ed Thurston, the Camp Verde cattle king; "Box" Carr, editor Yavapai Magazine.

Local men on tap besides those already named: T. A. Riordan, Frank Harrison, Fred Browning, Howard L. Hunt, J. C. Brown, Ed Miller, Tom Rees, Henry Albers, W. H. Switzer, Charlie Isham, L. B. McMullen, P. J.

NORMAL SCHOOL NOTES

The fall session of the Normal school will begin on Monday, October 2. Quite a number of new teachers have been added to the faculty. Students will register on Monday, and regular class work will begin on Tuesday.

The following is the list of new instructors:

Prof. T. H. Schutte will be the new director of the training school. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago, and has been the principal of a number of high schools, and was professor of education and the director of the training school of the State Teachers' college, Kirksville, Mo., and of the training school at Teachers' college at Moorhead, Minn.

Mathematics in the junior high school will be handled by Robert R. Powers, who comes from Eddyville, Ia. Miss Cecilia Lawler, who has been connected with Fitzsimmons hospital reconstruction work at Denver, will have charge of the fifth grade in the training school.

Miss Helen Lamb, who will supervise fourth grade teaching, comes from Greeley, Colorado.

Miss Augusta Pragst, from Cheney, Washington, will take charge of second grade work.

Vernon Lantis, the new instructor of biology, comes from Camden, Ohio. Lewis Rockow, of New Orleans, La., will teach history and economics.

Miss Ida Davis, of Greeley, Colo., will take charge of physical education for girls.

Music will be taught by Miss Mildred Whetzel of Las Vegas, N. M. She will take the position formerly held by Miss Margaret Walsh, who has accepted an excellent position at Escondido, Calif. Dr. McMullen and the faculty are sorry to lose Miss Walsh, but also feel fortunate in securing the services of Miss Whetzel.

Miss Emily Ethell, a graduate of the Los Angeles Library school, will be in charge of the growing Normal library.

Miss Harriet Hurd of Riverside, Calif., will be in charge of language instruction.

Students who wish to take work in the training school are expected to report promptly at 10 o'clock Monday morning. They will be dismissed at 12 o'clock for the rest of the day.

The first football game will be played on October 14, here in Flagstaff, against the team from Holbrook high school.

So many rooms have already been taken in Flagstaff that the dormitories at N. A. N. S. will undoubtedly be crowded.

The Normal had a growth of practically 40 per cent last year over the year before. Summer school had a growth of almost 59 per cent over the attendance of last year.

The building and grounds force at school has been busy for the last five weeks, shing things up after the summer session. The floors of the rooms in Campbell Hall have been painted, and other improvements Morton hall have been varnished, and all of the furniture in the different halls. Cork carpet is being put in the halls and corridors of the main class-room building. The former play room of the training school has been made into a fine domestic art room.

Carpenters are busy putting a new roof on the practice cottage, which is being used as a residence for the president.

Bill Hollar recently had the roads dragged, and the fence is practically completed around the front of the grounds.

The new switch, connecting with the railroad, is nearly completed. The switch will be used for hauling in fuel, and its cost has almost been saved in the last two years in the burning of slabs.

Dr. L. B. McMullen has just received the first installment of new record cards he designed for use in the Normal. Many mistakes that are always occurring in records will be eliminated by Dr. McMullen's new idea.

Dr. Schutte, director of the training school, and family, are living at 102 Milton road.

The scrumptious dinner was cooked and served by Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Rush.
