Washington Club's Poor Prospect of Getting Out of Last Place.

POINTERS ON THE HANDICAP

me Diversity of Opinion Among Horsemer Regarding the Probable Winner of the Brooklyn Handicap-Indications That the Senators Will Be in Last Place.

Now that the Washington ball club has landed at the bottom of the list so early in the season, the baseball writers who, only a few weeks ago, bespoke a successful season for Schmelz's firemen are now taking the opposite course, and poking fun instead of praise. There is no reason for such a sudden hange of heart, as the team lost three games last week to New York which were well played on both sides, and should not have brought discredit upon the Senators. When a club composed, like New York, of star players can only defeat an aggregation of minor leaguers by the scores of 6 to 2; 5 to 4, and 5 to 2, there should be no kick coming. The trouble is not that Washington's professional club has failed to put up a fair quality of ball, but that the other league clubs are of a higher class, and as such it is not to be ex-pected that the Senators should beat them out in a season's campaign.

But a week or two ago the umpires were robbers, and all sorts of excuses were given for the numerous defeats of the home team, but since last place was reached the direful fact is apparent that the club is not in it with the others. This is very poor consolation to the patrons of the game in this city, but it is felt to be the truth. When the score and felt to be the truth. When the score and more of old and young players were gathered here in March many hoped that some sort of a team could be gotten out of the multiplicity of talent, but results show such hopes to have failed of realization. Gus Schmeiz has been worried considerably by the poor success of the team, and it is a wonder he still has courage to hope for a change for the better.

The principle of selling off desirable players and forming a team of men of mediogre players.

and forming a team of men of mediocre playing ability is the one which seems to have inspired the owners of the Washington club, and on them will fall whatever responsibility there is attached to a losing club. Every visiting magnate is aware of this city's ad-vantages as a ball town, where, despite re-peated tail-enders, the support has been most faithful. It is sad that this patriotism cannot meet with better returns,

For a number of years Baltimore has been struggling along with a weak club and the public support was on a par with the strength of the team. But now that the Orioles are strong and able to win from any club the town is baseball crazy and crowds attend the games.

strong and able to win from any clubthe town is baseball crazy and crowds attend the games. New York by putting out money for available talent has resulted in the interest being at fever heat among the Gothamites, and the same may be said of every town where the ciub people have made efforts to get together a winning team. It would be the same in this city if the owners would care to spend a dollar to make another. The present is sized up pretty near right in an article recently published in the Baltimore Sun, as follows.

"Mr. Gus Schmelz didn't know what today league baseball was when he secured his present Washington ciub and landed it upon the sea of giorious uncertainty. He got hold of the idea yesterday long before the 17 to 6 secre was finished. Mr. Schmelz had seen the league clubs when they went South for practice in the early Spring, so he picked out a team of minor league men and landed them in Washington, in hopes that they would do as well as he had seen minor league clubs do against the leaguers in the frosty March. But the poor man didn't know, you know. For the last three weeks proofs of the fallacy of his theory have been thrust upon him, and yesterday the Baltimore club, otherwise known as Hanlon's Whirlwinds, gave him an argument as convincing as any he will have presented to him this season."

The Senators are scheduled to play to-day, Tuesday and Wednesday in Brooklyn, and they are quite likely to get a game from the Brideoms, who are not yet in the best of form. On Thursday and Saturday they will play in Baltimore, and on next Friday will entertain the Orioles at the local ball park. The club lost six straight last week, and it is sincerely hoped this record will not be repeated,

A New York paper has succeeded in obtaining the opinions of a number of horsemen and bookmakers as to their favorite for the Brooklyn handicap, which will be run to-morrow at the opening of the race meeting at Gravesend. Clifford, the choice in the winter books, is picked by nearly all the westerners, while many of the eastern turfmen pin their hones to Sir Waller. Sport has some flends. while many of the eastern turrimen pin their hopes to Sir Walter. Sport has some friends, while the followers of J. J. McCafferty and Fred Foster believe Dr. Rice, with Taral in the saddle, will capture the money. Byron McClelland's Henry of Navarre is the three-year-old who is considered by his shrewd owner to have more than a fighting chance, and McClelland stands to win some $50,000 in bets on his horse. and Metherse, bets on his horse.

At least 40,000 people are expected to witess the race, and many a visitor will go broke on backing his choice. Every starter will have more or less backing, and the layers of odds will have a great chance to round their books.

It has been rumored the management of the Washington club had made an offer for Fuller and Stafford of New York, but the rumor is discounted by the recent announce-ment of the mouthpiece of the owner that the team would not be strenthened or any money Defeated Their Old Rivals.

There was a jolly crowd of baseball players at Highlands yesterday. The M. T. O'Brien club defeated the R. A. Driscoll nine by a score of 27 to 13. The contest was the outcome of a game played last year, when the vanquished of yesterday were the victors, and quite naturally the O Briens were in high glee last evening over their success. O Brien and De Mountraville were in the points for the O Briens, and Driscoll and Wade did similar work for the Driscolls, Among the many features of the game was the heavy stick work of Houck, Liston, and O Neill, of the O Briens. After the game the defeated team admitted its total inability to cope with its strong rival. All through the contest the best of spirits were visible, and in all probability a return game will be played next Sunday. score of 27 to 13. The contest was the out-

More Bookmakers Wanted. CINCINNATTI, Ohio, May 13.—Secretary Hopper, of the Latonia club, says: "From present indications bookmakers will be searce n the West this season, as only about ten have been counted so far. This number has been sufficient down the line, but when such meetings at Latonia and Washington Park commence a much larger number will be required to do the business. It is reported that the play from Memphis up has been better than in former wear.

The American Was Second. Parts, May 13.—The international bicycle race at the Buffalo Veledrome to-day was won by a Frenchman. Martin, an American, despite the fact that during the race two ac-cidents happened to the tires of his machine, came in second. Ashinger was last.

Major Powell to Undergo an Operation. Major John W. Powell, chief of the govern ment bureau of ethnology and the retiring ment bureau of ethnology and the retiring director of the United States geological survey, left last night for Baltimore to undergo an operation at the hospital of the Johns Hopkins University. He will submit to treatment for several of his old army wounds, from which he has been a sufferer for several years. His left arm is amputated above the elbow, and it is probable that reamputation will be required.
