

A $3.50 Sale.

For a few days $3.50 will purchase a pair of either of the following priced shoes, viz: Men's $6.00 French Patent Calf Shoes. Men's $6.00 Cordovan Congress Shoes. Men's $5.00 Calf Shoes, several styles. Men's $5.00 Sample Shoes, numerous styles. Ladies' $5.00 Button and Lace Shoes. These goods are all hand-sewed and the finest qualities.

THE WARREN SHOE HOUSE, GEO. W. RICH, 919 F. St.

RED.

A Trial Order

From you is what we're striving to get. We know it'll be followed by others. Book of goods—lowest of prices. Emrich Beef Co., Main Market and Grocery, 1306-1312 32d Street.

Carpet Sale Continued.

No wonder we have been busy in Carpets and Rugs. Customers tell us we have handsome patterns and that our prices are considerably lower than at the other big stores. Here is the list again: 65c. Tap. Brussels, 48c. $1.15 Body Brussels, 85c. $1.25 Moquettes, 95c. $1.25 Stinson's Fine Velvet Carpets, 85c. yd. $1 Mot. Moquettes, 70c. yd. $1.25 Bigelow Mot'ld Axminsters, 90c. yd. $2 Bigelow's Finest Axminsters, $1.35 yd.

RUG SALE.

Handsome lot of Smyrna Rugs at about two-thirds regular prices.

These are noted for the beauty of their soft oriental designs and "cast-iron" durability. Large enough for large rooms.

Worth $10.00, For $9.75. Worth $15.00, For $13.25. Worth $20.00, For $19.75.

WASH B. WILLIAMS

Cor. 7th and D Sts. What do you Think of this?

We want to say to every reader of THE TIMES, who is contemplating the purchase of a carpet or rug—that if he or she will prepare a list of the things needed—write in an opposite column the lowest cash price for which they can be purchased—bringing the list to us, we will duplicate it—quality and price—

Credit!

Without the signing of a note—without paying a penny of interest—without ANY FEES—except a premium—to pay us a little money—weekly or monthly. Our prices are marked in plain figures—and they remain the same whether you pay cash—or prefer our "payment plan." We have double floor full of Furniture and Carpets for you to select from. Let us have your order at the earliest possible moment—for a large stock is coming—and we are getting better every day.

We make and lay all carpet free of cost. No charge for waste in matching figures. Finish or Haircloth Parlor Suits—$10.00—$12.50. Solid Oak Bed Room Suite, $12.50. Splendid Ingrain Carpet, 50c per yard. Beautiful Ingrain Carpet, 60c per yard. Solid Oak Extension Table, $13.00. 40-pound Hair Mattress, $1.25. Women Wire Springs, $1.25. Heating and Cooling Stoves—all sizes—reliable makes.

GROGAN'S MAMMOTH CREDIT HOUSE.

Now open for business. Quality, assortment, freshness, and style of packing are features with us. POPULAR PRICES.

1223 Penna. Ave. No Branch Store.

RED.

THE SHOPPER'S GUIDE

(Consult our Prices for full details.) Emrich Beef Co.—The Lowest Prices for the Best Goods.

Lensburgh & Bro.—White Nottingham Lace Curtains, $1.50.

Robinson, Chery & Co.—Perfectly fitting Mackintoshes for $3 to $5.

New York Clothing House—Closing Out Sale of Men's Clothing.

Parker, Bridger & Co.—Choice of a Large Stock of Suits and Overcoats at $8.75.

M. Dyrnsforth & Co.—Suits and Overcoats, $7.50 to $15.75.

Wash. B. Williams—Elegant Mousette Carpet, 95c yd.

Eisenman Bros.—Stylish Long Blue Overcoats, $10.

Daum's—All the latest Books at cut prices.

George Spransy—Only $15 for the latest cut Overcoat.

Chas. Schneider—4 cents a loaf for Quaker Bread.

W. B. Moses & Sons—Large stock of goods for Xmas.

Grogan—Push and haircloth parlor suite, $22.50, cash or credit.

Arthur D. Smith—The best Pea Coat $4.50 a ton.

John F. Ellis & Co.—Second-hand Organs and Melodeons, $10 to $35, payable $2 per month.

Warren Shoe House—Ladies' Button and Lace Shoes, $3.50.

Wilkins & Co.—Lowest prices for the best grades of Butterine.

House & Herrmann—Furniture, Carpets, Stoves, etc., sold for cash or credit at low prices.

TO-MORROW'S MENU

Breakfast: Grape fruit, Cream, Broiled ham, Shrimps, Eggs, Rolls, Coffee.

Lunch: Baked sweet potatoes, Ginger cake, Apple sauce, Tea, Biscuits, Pea soup, Roast pork, Apple sauce, Baked potatoes, Succotash, Tomato salad, Coconut pie, Fruit, Coffee.

Supper: Coconut pie, One grated coconut, one quart of milk, heated to boiling, and poured over the grated nut, two tablespoonsful of butter, four eggs, sugar to taste. This makes two pies.

RED. BAD OUTLOOK FOR MEN.

It is a mistake to suppose that the fashion of men's garments does not frequently alter. It is constantly changing its phases in the matter of details, sometimes trivial enough, but never without its effect upon the general appearance.

As a rule, men's garments are made of a material which is not subject to wear and tear. The most common material is wool, and the most common color is black. The most common style is the three-piece suit.

It is a mistake to suppose that the fashion of men's garments does not frequently alter. It is constantly changing its phases in the matter of details, sometimes trivial enough, but never without its effect upon the general appearance.

As a rule, men's garments are made of a material which is not subject to wear and tear. The most common material is wool, and the most common color is black. The most common style is the three-piece suit.

It is a mistake to suppose that the fashion of men's garments does not frequently alter. It is constantly changing its phases in the matter of details, sometimes trivial enough, but never without its effect upon the general appearance.

As a rule, men's garments are made of a material which is not subject to wear and tear. The most common material is wool, and the most common color is black. The most common style is the three-piece suit.

It is a mistake to suppose that the fashion of men's garments does not frequently alter. It is constantly changing its phases in the matter of details, sometimes trivial enough, but never without its effect upon the general appearance.

As a rule, men's garments are made of a material which is not subject to wear and tear. The most common material is wool, and the most common color is black. The most common style is the three-piece suit.

It is a mistake to suppose that the fashion of men's garments does not frequently alter. It is constantly changing its phases in the matter of details, sometimes trivial enough, but never without its effect upon the general appearance.

As a rule, men's garments are made of a material which is not subject to wear and tear. The most common material is wool, and the most common color is black. The most common style is the three-piece suit.

It is a mistake to suppose that the fashion of men's garments does not frequently alter. It is constantly changing its phases in the matter of details, sometimes trivial enough, but never without its effect upon the general appearance.

At the Cafe Mazarin.

Certainly nothing like the artist's dinner had ever taken place in the Mazarin before during the whole of its course. It was held on Thanksgiving evening, and Pierre, the least easily moved waiter of all the tribe of waiters, had not yet ceased to shrug his expressive shoulders and to cast up his expressive eyes at every mention of it.

"Zee American!" Pierre ejaculated at least once a day by way of comment on that strange banquet.

The night before Thanksgiving the long-limbed artist and madame, his wife, had signified their intention of giving a dinner party to the next evening. He thinks now that he had better be six guests, Pierre, the host had remarked.

"Oui, Monsieur," agreed Pierre, making a note in his pocket. "An you want ze little room, is it not?"

"Yes, Pierre," Madame had interrupted, "we want a most beautiful dinner."

"Oh, oui, Madame," answered Pierre, volubly, "Comme une Reine and—"

"Nothing of the sort," Monsieur interrupted, with characteristic impetuosity, "we want a turkey, Pierre, and a bouncing one, too."

"Pierre's face fell," "Oh, Monsieur," he said, dolefully, "ye want Monsieur, and squish. We want squish, don't ye, Heister? And baked sweet potatoes and corn succotash, by Jove, Pierre, we'll have succotash and turnips and cranberry sauce—galloons of it."

Pierre groaned aloud, but said nothing. He felt that it would be incongruous to suggest sweethenings and puddings to a man who was the fire of eating, as to order this typical American repast.

"And pumpkin pie—an inch thick," continued the artist, "and a quart of milk, heated to boiling, and poured over the grated nut, two tablespoonsful of butter, four eggs, sugar to taste. This makes two pies."

Next to him sat Clarisse, who came from the little hair shop at the corner one week to do Madame's hair. There was Hana, the head clerk in the Berlin-German-American grocery roundabout corner, who always sold Madame her tea and water. There was Micky, the general handy man, who was a bit of a misanthrope and elated for the occasion in a sweater, and there was the janitor's small, blue-eyed daughter, who subdued her natural inclination to sneeze by blowing her nose into a handkerchief.

Indeed, Pierre could have waltz upon such a painfully mixed assembly had not curiosity been stronger even than grief.

He watched the slight in an embarrassment at first. He noticed their first timorous jerky efforts at sociability and the gradual ease that overtook the gathering. Soon they were all laughing and talking as if at a dinner with the artist and his wife was an everyday affair. Micky and the janitor's daughter had promised to initiate each other in the mysteries of bridge the next day. Clarisse and Hana seemed acquainted from the beginning. The Dane and the Irish-woman threw in remarks about their native lands with cheerful freedom.

By and by the host arose. He had a glass of wine in hand. He proposed a toast. It was simply "vive," and they drank in silence and were silent a minute or two afterwards.

"Ah, it was the green madder of us we seen!" anon whin yo said. "Come, art, contented Mrs. McQuinn, and I wish it is, there's naught loike her, at all, at all."

"And I," said Mrs. Arlet, dreamily, "saw a big, white-pillared house, all with small, square windows, and the pillars and the breath of oleanders on the air."

The janitor, pressed for his mental vision, confessed to having seen a cliff in the rock where the foam dashed up, dazzling as sunbeams. And the artist, smiling at the sketch that Hana drew before him, said: "It's a stern, square house on a bleak strand that I see. The stars are before me, and the street is frozen and the sky is gray. But it's home."

"Hans," said Mrs. Arlet, smiling at her grocer's clerk, "what do you see when you think of home?"

"Clarisse and I are furnishing two rooms," he said, simply "we'll be married before Christmas."

And Clarisse with a blush beneath her elaborate coiffure admitted that Hans had spoken the truth and she had been drinking to two rooms on Sixth avenue when she drank to the toast.

When it was all over and the guests had gone the golden-haired lady remarked to her husband: "If we weren't going home next Thanksgiving we'd do this again, wouldn't we?"

"Yes," said he, "but we are."—New York World.

Portfolios. Portfolios suitable gifts for either sex. They may be simple or elaborate, and a clever woman may be able to fashion many of these. For the simpler ones the materials necessary are several sheets of blotting paper, tan color, pink and blue, gold thread, gold and silver cord and gilding, besides water color paints and watercolor material. A pretty idea is to have the owner's initials in silver on the outside, also to have the corners mounted in silver.

Visiting Cards. In visiting cards there is but little change, men still adhering to the small, oblong bit of pastebord, engraved in rather heavy script. It is no longer correct to have Mr. and Mrs. together upon a card, except for the first cards after a wedding; the wife and husband have their own separate. Ladies' cards come in square shapes and in three sizes; the largest is intended to contain the married lady's name and that of her debutante daughter. The next is simply inscribed Mrs.—. An English idea is to write Mrs. with the initials of the lady, and the name of the party being often misleading. After the first year in society the young lady's card, which is one size smaller than that of her mother, may be separately left. Infant's cards, sent upon the occasion of a christening or birthday, are very small and engraved with the baby's full name in running script.

Cabinets $2.50 per doz. Bishop's, 903 Pa. ave.

Mantles $2.00 per doz. Bishop's, 903 Pa. ave.

RED.

SOCIAL SAYINGS AND DOINGS.

Among the fashionable women in Washington is one who seems to live her life at concert pitch and enjoy to the utmost notch everything that comes in her way after the tenor of "The Dancing Queen," who declared that she desired to "live and live in every fibre of her being for every moment of the time." According to the gossip about concerning the very much alive dame, she was recently relating some decidedly racy experiences of hers on the other side of the ocean, some of the escapades were of such an especially spicy nature that one of those to whom she related the same remonstrated on the score of their being decidedly too far out of the conventional. "Oh," was the nonchalant reply that electrified her hearers, "I am a child of nature. When I am hungry I eat; when I am thirsty I drink."

Apropos of the art talk to be given shortly by Mr. Joseph Jefferson, although it is a fact very widely known that he is himself an artist of considerable merit, the manner in which he settled the matter in his own mind in the most satisfactory and conclusive manner is not generally known. The fact that his paintings were veritable works of art by no means served to convince the actor that wholesale painting had not a great deal to do with the matter. Therefore he set to work quietly upon a canvas, which, when finished, he sent anonymously to the salon in Paris, where it was not only accepted, but was hung in line and given favorable mention in the leading continental papers.

One of the recent fashionable weddings in Washington is the direct result of the casting of a horoscope by a Hindu fortune-teller who spent some time in this city somewhat less than a year ago. That, at least, is the firm belief of the bride, who is well known in the West End. According to her version of the case a number of her friends having made a visit to the Hindu and having seen some very delightful fortunes told them, finally induced her to join them in another visit to the man of the occult sciences and have her pathway in life laid out for her present knowledge and future benefit.

Accordingly when the party was made up the young woman, entering heart and soul into the affair, was accompanied by her mother, up by her set, went with them to the wonderful man of the East. Prominent among the things he portrayed for her was that which she has since made a reality. Her match and leave this city to make her home elsewhere with the man of her choice. (Try thinking that away.)

As she would, the young woman could not make any man her acquaintance. It is the description, rather vaguely outlined, it must be acknowledged, by the Hindu, and therefore, upon the whole, was somewhat skeptical as to the truth of the fortune.

A few weeks later the young woman received an invitation to join a house party in the country, and, as it was a very desirable one, she accepted it. The young man whom she has just married eight months after the Hindu had told her fortune. The groom is very wealthy, and he takes his bride to live in one of the largest cities of the Union.

RED.

Capt. George McC. Derby, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., has sent to the Editor of THE TIMES a number of fine family portraits of the Derby and Townsend families that will remain there until the captain is ordered to an Eastern post.

Miss Hobson, sister of Assistant Naval Constructor Hobson, has come to Washington to spend the winter with her brother. She will be the head clerk in the Berlin-German-American grocery roundabout corner, who always sold Madame her tea and water.

There was Micky, the general handy man, who was a bit of a misanthrope and elated for the occasion in a sweater, and there was the janitor's small, blue-eyed daughter, who subdued her natural inclination to sneeze by blowing her nose into a handkerchief.

Indeed, Pierre could have waltz upon such a painfully mixed assembly had not curiosity been stronger even than grief.

He watched the slight in an embarrassment at first. He noticed their first timorous jerky efforts at sociability and the gradual ease that overtook the gathering. Soon they were all laughing and talking as if at a dinner with the artist and his wife was an everyday affair.

Micky and the janitor's daughter had promised to initiate each other in the mysteries of bridge the next day. Clarisse and Hana seemed acquainted from the beginning. The Dane and the Irish-woman threw in remarks about their native lands with cheerful freedom.

By and by the host arose. He had a glass of wine in hand. He proposed a toast. It was simply "vive," and they drank in silence and were silent a minute or two afterwards.

"Ah, it was the green madder of us we seen!" anon whin yo said. "Come, art, contented Mrs. McQuinn, and I wish it is, there's naught loike her, at all, at all."

"And I," said Mrs. Arlet, dreamily, "saw a big, white-pillared house, all with small, square windows, and the pillars and the breath of oleanders on the air."

The janitor, pressed for his mental vision, confessed to having seen a cliff in the rock where the foam dashed up, dazzling as sunbeams. And the artist, smiling at the sketch that Hana drew before him, said: "It's a stern, square house on a bleak strand that I see. The stars are before me, and the street is frozen and the sky is gray. But it's home."

"Hans," said Mrs. Arlet, smiling at her grocer's clerk, "what do you see when you think of home?"

"Clarisse and I are furnishing two rooms," he said, simply "we'll be married before Christmas."

And Clarisse with a blush beneath her elaborate coiffure admitted that Hans had spoken the truth and she had been drinking to two rooms on Sixth avenue when she drank to the toast.

When it was all over and the guests had gone the golden-haired lady remarked to her husband: "If we weren't going home next Thanksgiving we'd do this again, wouldn't we?"

"Yes," said he, "but we are."—New York World.

Portfolios. Portfolios suitable gifts for either sex. They may be simple or elaborate, and a clever woman may be able to fashion many of these. For the simpler ones the materials necessary are several sheets of blotting paper, tan color, pink and blue, gold thread, gold and silver cord and gilding, besides water color paints and watercolor material.

A pretty idea is to have the owner's initials in silver on the outside, also to have the corners mounted in silver.

Visiting Cards. In visiting cards there is but little change, men still adhering to the small, oblong bit of pastebord, engraved in rather heavy script. It is no longer correct to have Mr. and Mrs. together upon a card, except for the first cards after a wedding; the wife and husband have their own separate. Ladies' cards come in square shapes and in three sizes; the largest is intended to contain the married lady's name and that of her debutante daughter.

The next is simply inscribed Mrs.—. An English idea is to write Mrs. with the initials of the lady, and the name of the party being often misleading. After the first year in society the young lady's card, which is one size smaller than that of her mother, may be separately left. Infant's cards, sent upon the occasion of a christening or birthday, are very small and engraved with the baby's full name in running script.

Cabinets $2.50 per doz. Bishop's, 903 Pa. ave.

Mantles $2.00 per doz. Bishop's, 903 Pa. ave.

RED.

THE JUDGE SWORE.

The Trials of the Bench Destroy His Nerves.

"For months past," said Judge James Henry Lane, of Arlington, Va., "I have been a great sufferer from aggravated constipation and partial paralysis of the bowels and nervous debility. My nervous system was in an entire wreck, as a result of past follies and excesses. I could not sleep, I had no appetite, my memory was failing, and life to me was an almost complete failure. So many doctors had treated me and had failed to help me that I had about lost all hope. As a last resort, and with hardly any faith, I tried Dr. Walker. He has cured me and I feel as well as I can never say enough in his praise. I have been a justifier of the peace for Alexandria county, Va., for the past three years, and reside in Arlington, Alexandria county, Va."

"J. H. Lane, J. P." Subscribed and sworn to before me this 20th day of November, 1894. M. A. BAILEY, Notary Public.

Dr. Walker's success has been, and continues to be, all the more astonishing because a vast number of the cases cured by him have been treated in vain by other doctors.

Miss Kittie L. Galvin, of Hyattsville, Md., when seen by the writer, at her home, October 3, said: "I was in miserable health for a long, long time. Nervousness and female troubles were killing me by inches, and the doctors here did me no good. I had terrible headaches and backaches, and nothing that I could do would stay on my stomach. I weighed only 97 pounds when I went to Dr. Walker six weeks ago. Now I weigh 106, and am gaining rapidly. My troubles are all gone. Dr. Walker has cured me, just as he said he would when he answered my first letter."

Dr. Walker may be consulted free of charge, personally or by letter. His well-known sanitarium, at 1411 Pennsylvania avenue, adjoining Willard's Hotel, is open daily for consultation and treatment. Office hours, 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.; Wednesday and Saturday evenings, 7 to 8; Sundays, 10 to 12. Charges for treatment very low.

Interviews and correspondence are cordially confidential. All letters promptly answered.

RED.

Monday, Dec. 3, 1894.

Our Big Xmas Stock Sale

—Begins this morning. The store, stock, salesmen, and delivery system are all ready for the biggest early holiday business of our career, and prices throughout all departments have been put down to where they ought to be, in touch with everybody's pocket-book.

W. B. Moses & Son

LARGEST EXCLUSIVELY RETAIL FURNITURE, CARPET, UPHOLSTERY, DRAPEY, AND WALL PAPER HOUSE IN AMERICA.

11th St. and F.

RED.

Good Table Board Only $20 Per Month.

"The Bedford" is not only admirably located—it's first-class in all it's appointments—comfortable, cozy, tastefully furnished.

Well cooked and well served meals, 7 o'clock to 11, 80c per month. Luncheon from 12 to 2:30, 25c.

Separate cafe for ladies.

THE BEDFORD, 13th St. Bet. F and G. John H. Stewart, Manager.

PABST BREWING CO'S Milwaukee Beer

IS THE BEST MADE. SPECIALLY BREWED FOR FAMILY USE WASHINGTON BRANCH, 703 705 North Capitol Street.

DIED.

JAMES—On Saturday, December 1, 1894, at 10 P. M. MARY L., only daughter of Mrs. R. L. Scott and the late James E. James.

Funeral service at 1233 Maryland avenue northwest, 7 o'clock p. m. Interment at Arlington, D. C. Friends invited.

ALFRED—On December 2, at 10 a. m. LILLIAN, infant daughter of M. Lee and Mary E. Allwine, aged six weeks.

Funeral will take place to-day (Monday), December 3, at 3 p. m. from her parents' residence, 1233 Florida avenue northeast.

OBERT—On December 2, 1894, after a long and lingering illness, HORACE REGINAL, beloved son of Anna A. and George M. Coburn, aged seven years and eight months.

Funeral will take place from his parents' residence, 1233 Florida avenue northeast, tomorrow (Tuesday), December 4, at 3 o'clock p. m. Services at the Gray Street Baptist Church, 703 North Capitol Street. Friends and relatives are invited to attend. (Rockville and Frederick papers please copy.)

Hope. "Well Jack," said his chum, after his chum had proposed to the most popular girl in the town, "is it all right?"

"Well," said Jack, ruefully, "I can hope—that's all."

"What did she say?" "Well, she said she'd like my proposal with all the others and consider it when she got down to it."—Harper's Bazar.

At Vassily. Visiting Professor—How interesting! Are they training for football here?

Miss Strongmound—Oh, no! We are intensely practical in this institution. That is the bargain-counter tackle they just tried.—Fuck.

RED.

HOW'S YOUR COAL BIN? Nearly empty? Riles can fill it cheaper than any one else in town. Such figures as these will give you an idea of how we sell fuel. 2,240 Lbs. Pea Coal...$4.25. Pine wood, $4.00 a cord, oak, $5.00. We handle only the best grades. Place your next order with us—money saved by so doing. THOMAS W. RILEY. FOOT ELEVENTH AND TWELFTH STREETS SOUTHWEST. TELEPHONE 1754.

SWEET. PURE. CLEAN. WILKINS & COMPANY'S FINE BUTTERINE. Square Marble and Glass Stands, Center Market.

Rare Prints, Antique Furniture. A. Heilmuller & Co., 1333 14th St. n.w. Mr. Heilmuller's collection of Rare Engravings of the most attractive character for framing, portfolios, or gifts is constantly refreshed by monthly importations, and will repay inspection. Artistic and Appropriate Framing a Specialty.

McCLURE'S Magazine for December 15 cts. Christmas Number Napoleon's First Battles

His Marriage, Love-Letters to Josephine, his extraordinary Campaigns in Italy and Egypt, with FOURTEEN PORTRAITS of Napoleon as he appeared at the time of The Battle of the Pyramids, The Crossing of the Alps, The Battle of Marengo, The Battle of Rivoli.

After Paintings mostly from Life by Gerard, Laurent, David, Daibe, Appiani, Chaignier, Gros, Delacroix, and other Famous Painters.

Recently published memoirs, documents, etc., for the first time render possible a true, complete life of Napoleon. Much is new, and the history is accurate, reads like a romance and is completed in eight months.

It is magnificently illustrated with the collection of the Hon. Gardner G. Hubbard, made during fourteen years—the cream of all collections in the world. Eighty portraits of Napoleon at different periods of his career, mainly painted from life, and 100 other portraits and pictures.

The Eight Napoleon Numbers (November, 1894) $1.00 CONAN DOYLE A thrilling historical story connected with Napoleon. FARRAR The Christ-Child in Art, with many pictures. HUMAN DOCUMENTS Various ages of Farrar, Moody, Siskie and Ben Harris. S. S. McCLURE, 30 Lafayette Place, New York City.

DR. ROSSIGNOL'S Positive Written LOST MANHOOD and all ailments of men. Guaranteed Cure for all ailments of men. Dr. Rossignol's Positive Written LOST MANHOOD and all ailments of men. Guaranteed Cure for all ailments of men.

FUNERAL EXPENSES REDUCED. S. H. HINES. Undertaker and Embalmer, Main Office, 224 E. Street Northwest. Branch Office, 920 Fourth and-a-half Street Northwest. Twenty years' experience in the business, and first-class work guaranteed. Arrangements can be made with you for funerals in any part of the United States.

FREE—something for nothing. The opportunity to buy all the FURNITURE—CARPETS—DRAPERIES—STOVES, etc., you want—on credit—through the Equitable Credit System.

without an extra penny's cost. Another thing—You can divide the bill up into as many payments as you please—make 'em weekly or monthly. This plan is designed to help you—and we want it to be of all the assistance possible.

We don't ask for any notes to be signed. A small payment at time of purchase, and your promise, secure all this accommodation.