Work of Demolishing Ice in the Potomac About Finished.

CLEAR FROM DIXIE TO OLD FORT

Bill to Establish a Union Street Railway Depot Urged Upon the Senate—Amendment Proposed to Law Governing Fire Escapes—Favorable Executive Action Recommended Upon Four Measures.

Harbor Master Sutton, with his fleet of ice smelters, has been yanking a river front war upon the gorges along the Potomac, from Dixie's Landing down to Fort Washington, and by 6 o'clock this evening the river will be practically clear of obstructions. The steamers Macalester, Arrowsmith, Wakefield, and Harry Randall slipped their moorings yesterday, and with freshly-oiled machinery and clean decks started upon a resumption of their commercial relations with the outside world.

The government tug Triton went out today to Indian Head, and the local tug W. H. Mohler, gave several small oyster boats safe conduct to the "markets of the world." The tug T. W. Pride, with a large tow, got fast in the ice at Long Bridge, but was cut loose and went hence rejoicing.

The ice smelters have worked admirably. They have gone over the ground, so to speak, with resolute force, and the concealed fluid has disappeared before their advance. They were at work yesterday clearing the ice from the Virginia flats and at the draw of the Long Bridge.

There is good heavy ice between River View and Indian Head, but wherever the cutters have operated there is a clear field to navigation.

Legislation on the matter of construction of a hospital for contagious diseases has fallen into a groove between the two houses of Congress, which, in the opinion of accurate, will prevent the acquisition of such an institution at any point within the District. The bill provides that a hospital for such a purpose shall be located within 300 feet of any building.

NO ELIGIBLE SITE TO BE FOUND. There is not an eligible site to be obtained that will come within such restrictions, as to accommodate the institution ground to the amount of 16,000 acres will have to be acquired.

The limitation does not affect the small-pox hospital in the southeast, but if the measure is enacted in its present shape it will prevent the construction of the other one by the relation the law is in its way modified.

It is to this measure that Commissioner Powell alluded in his report to the board of health for his opinion. The Times the other day that in his opinion, the prospect was that Washington would have a hospital for the treatment of minor contagious diseases, a first-class city in the first-class city in the country would tolerate.

The Commissioners regard the bill now pending in the Senate as of great importance at this juncture, and have addressed a communication to Senator Harris requesting its speedy enactment, to save its defeat by the expiration of the session.

RAILWAYS THAT CENTER THERE.

There are several railways that already pass the point, and at least two newly chartered that will eventually have a line constructed over the same ground. Those now interested are the Metropolitan, the Eckington and Soldiers' Home, and the Annapolis, and now that the first bill is preparing to charge its motive power to underground conduit, it is important that if the station is to be provided for it be done at once.

The bill passed the House promptly and went into the hands of the Senate Committee on the 14th instant.

Assessors' Table has returned to the Commissioners the inquiry of Tyler and Rutherford as to the law relating to the publication of a business statement of insurance companies doing business in the District, with the statement that in his judgment the courts should decide the points raised.

The same question arose in 1892, at which time the attorney construed the act. It is now proposed that the first bill be amended to mean that newspaper publication was required, but that duplicate statements need not be filed with the Commissioners. The question whether, if that interpretation be accepted, the Commissioners have more than supervisory powers in the matter of enforcement, Mr. Tolson suggests, should be settled by the courts or the legal advisers.

Messrs. Tyler and Rutherford have been informed that the attorney holds the law to be voidable through defects. HUNDREDS OF FOREIGN COMPANIES. There are hundreds of foreign corporations, he adds, that do business in Washington from which no licenses are required under the present law, and that have no privileges to forfeit.

An amendment has been prepared by Assistant Building Inspector Vermillion and by the Commissioners submitted to Congress, by which the fire escape regulations are made operative in the District. The present law authorizes the Commissioners to enforce the provisions, making it proper for them in case of failure to comply with their orders, to have the escapes placed upon buildings, and assess the expense against the property, but no fund is provided for the execution of the work.

Again, the regulations provide for the exemption of buildings that are less than fifty feet in height. A structure may cover a square not be built to a height of forty-nine feet and six inches above the pavement, and yet not be required to provide means of safe exit to its occupants.

TO REMEDY DEFECTS. It is to cover these and other defects in the law that the amendment is proposed. The Commissioners have recommended favorable Executive action upon measures recently enacted, as follows: Mr. No. 8638, to amend an act for incorporation of the Maryland and Washington Railway Company; bill No. 8437, relative to the Rock Creek Railway Company; bill No. 444, making the surveyor of the District a salaried officer; bill No. 4479, to amend the charter of the Brightwood Railway Company.

Building permits issued yesterday: Mrs. J. C. Hill, two stores, Nos. 923 and 925 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, $40,000; Daniel Egan, dwelling, No. 938 Fourth street northeast, $2,000; S. P. Newton, dwelling, Anacostia, $500; For improvements: Addition and repairs to dwelling No. 415 R street northwest.

ONCE HE WAS A GALLANT SOLDIER.

Mr. Joseph A. Shoemaker, now employed in the war and navy division of the Pension Office, and who resides at No. 308 K street northeast, is a Grand Army veteran, having served gallantly in Company K, Twenty-third Ohio Infantry (ex-President Hayes' regiment). Mr. Shoemaker, formerly a public, that he was a sufferer for years from pyrosis, chronic constipation, and Mr. Shoemaker's general derangement of the stomach and liver, unable to obtain any relief. He was cured by Dr. Walker.

It is a growing multitude that now sounds the praises of Dr. Walker, who seems to have electrified the whole community by his astonishing cures of all diseases of the brain and nervous system, diseases of the skin and blood, catarrh, asthma, consumption, influenza, rheumatism, dyspepsia, neuralgia, hemorrhoids, diseases of women, sexual weakness, and all affections of the lungs, throat, heart, liver, stomach, kidneys, bladder, bowels, and other organs.

Your correspondent, suffering from loss of strength and vitality as a result of excesses of past indiscretions will find that they can be speedily restored to strength and vigorous manhood under Dr. Walker's treatment.

Dr. Walker may be consulted free of charge, personally or by letter. His well-known office, 1411 Pennsylvania avenue, adjoining Willard's Hotel, is open daily for consultation and treatment. Office hours, 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.; Wednesday and Saturday-evenings, 7 to 9 o'clocks, 10 to 12.

IT TOOK FOURTEEN ROUNDS.

Jim McDougall Got the Best of Jack Williams in the Go.

Over a hundred sporting men journeyed out to Stuever's old road house, on the Bladensburg pike, which is now kept by Tom Hollnuth, last night, to "take in" a twelve-round go between two local scrappers for a small purse and prominence of the prize receipts. Jack Williams and James D. McDougall, who were both engaged at Stuever's Nursery, were the principals. The former, who tipped the beam at 140, had the better of McDougall by nearly fifteen pounds.

An impromptu crowd of spectators, Louis Decker and Eddie Yehill, at catch weights, resulted in a draw. They fought three three-minute rounds.

It was nearly midnight when the star attraction of the night was ushered on. J. R. Purcell, a local bantam-weight, and George Stevens, jr., as second and butte-holder, were the principals. William Long and charge of McDougall, J. P. Murphy, a well-known sportsman and a clever boxer, acted a referee. The match was held by Frank Johnson.

After a few instructions from the referee time was called, and the men came promptly to the ring. Williams was a little too heavy in which to start, but after the first few rounds, he started in to rush matters. McDougall in the wind several times, forcing him to the ropes. The latter rallied, however, and got in on Williams' ribs three times in quick succession. Honors even.

The moment time was called, Williams rushed clear across to McDougall's corner and landed a good one on the neck. Mac retaliated, and forcing Williams all over the ring, landed again an accurate on the neck, drawing first blood just as the gong was sounded.

For the next six rounds it was anybody's fight, but toward the close of the eleventh McDougall rashed matters and had his opponent all but out.

Ninth round was very slow; both men sparing for wind and not fighting hard. In the tenth Williams' left eye was closed by a good right hand swing, but both men were so groggy that they staggered all over the ring.

A good rally on both sides and some fast in-fighting made the eleventh round more interesting.

At the close of the twelfth round it was a very even thing that Murphy could not give a decision and ordered two more rounds.

The thirteenth opened up very warmly, but Mac forced things towards the close, driving Williams to the ropes, could have put him out if he had been scientific enough to deliver the knockout blow.

Williams came up for his wind-up so groggy that he could hardly stand, both eyes were nearly closed and he hit out so feebly that his blows had no effect on McDougall, who knocked him all over the ring and had him covered with blood.

Murphy awarded the fight to McDougall.

A NAGSTIA NEWS. Julius Tolson, son of Postmaster Tolson, is very ill at his home on Lincoln avenue, and was not expected to live through the night. The funeral of Alice Lykes, the infant daughter of Thomas Lykes, took place yesterday at 1 o'clock.

SLATTERY WILL NOT LEAVE

Intends to Remain in Savannah Until He Needs No Protection. He and His Wife Lectured to Big Crowds—Police Escort Them to and From the Hall.

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 28.—This has been another day and night of intense excitement in Savannah. Feeling seems to run high, though there has been no hostilities of any kind to-day. This afternoon Mrs. Slattery lectured to 600 women in Odd Fellows' Hall. She and her husband were escorted to the hall by officers.

To-night Odd Fellows' Hall was crowded to its limit and many were turned away. Fully 1,000 men were in the hall. It is understood that a large portion were armed. On all sides men were heard saying that they were ready for a mob. Outside the hall the entire police force, with the exception of a few men scattered through the audience, were distributed so as to command the entire vicinity of the hall.

Inside the hall there was an ovation of enthusiasm. Slattery received a salute and throughout his lecture he was applauded and cheered when he declared that the riot Tuesday night had shown the necessity of Protestant organization. The wild cheering lasted several minutes and was vigorously returned when he said: "Get the A. P. A. or the Junior Order of United American Mechanics here and you will have no more such demonstrations against speech. We must meet the Ancient Order of Hibernians with the American Protective Association and show them that it is not necessary to get their permission to have a lecture in Savannah." Slattery then declared that he was not here in the interest of the A. P. A., but that
