any, although small, is considered superior in point of durability and excellence in all essentials that make good soldiers, and nowhere can be found such perfection in military movements as have rendered our crack men colorful champions famous throughout the country.

The District Guard is a fair specimen of American citizen soldiery. It comes from every degree and condition of social life, and its membership comprises the most commendable element of our country's young patriots.

While we love peace and rejoice in being a commercial people we are also patriotic enough to indulge in exultation on our reputation as soldiers.

MR. OLNEY'S BEGINNING. The new broom sweeps exceedingly clean, and Mr. Olney signifies his assumption of the State Department portfolio by reciting from Mr. Cleveland's proclamation against Cuban filibusters.

Cuba has a population which pay taxes, that is, other than the semi-barbarous blacks in the interior, of not more than 1,200,000. Yet Spain exhausts them with taxes aggregating $25,000,000 a year.

Twelve millions of dollars annually are exacted to pay Spain for the expense of putting down the last rebellion. Six millions more are demanded each year to support the 20,000 soldiers which Spain maintains at the military posts of the island to keep the inhabitants from again breaking loose in rebellion.

Our own country is told each fall from every stump that it is over-taxed. And yet with 70,000,000 of people our whole yearly expense is a trifle over $70,000,000, or in the neighborhood of $7.50 per capita.

The $7.50 which the American pays yearly to maintain his government makes sharp contrast with the $20 exacted from the impoverished Cuban by Spain.

To add to the question of taxes it should be remembered that the first provision of Spanish law in Cuba is that no native Cuban shall hold office, no matter how high or inferior the office may be.

The attitude of Spain in Cuba is the attitude of the vampire, the leech, the bloodsucker. It maintains itself by the strong hand, and its methods are those of cruelty and oppression.

Under such circumstances, when the country is full of Cuban sympathizers, Mr. Olney will find it impossible to entirely prevent filibusters from giving aid to the Cuban insurgents.

On Tuesday afternoon the Marine Band scored a success at the exercises held on the porch of the famous Mercurius Club. Here the great crowd that thronged the streets for squares around pressed in to applaud until Prof. Fanciulli repeatedly bowed his thanks.

The "Night in Bohemia," to the mysterious which the evening journals were introduced at the Pen and Pencil Club, was rendered more enjoyable by the crack organization from the capital city, and the brilliant and humorous rendering brought to the famous conductor and his men.

After the band had played three numbers, Louis N. Gannett, president of the Pen and Pencil Club, introduced Governor Hastings, who, in a neat little speech paid a glowing tribute to the Marine Band.

A relation had for the governor and his staff, and the chief executive of the State opened his arms to Prof. Fanciulli and led him to the banquet hall.

This is the first instance in which the Marine Band has been allowed to take part in any function not associated with national affairs.

Knights of Pythias Want a Hall. At the annual meeting of the Knights of Pythias Hall Association, held at Mercurius Hall, A. J. Gannett, John Humphrey, J. C. York, W. T. Gallinger, J. T. Clark, A. F. McFarland, G. W. Hensley, J. W. Hardell, and H. J. Gannon were elected as directors.

A majority of the stockholders were represented and were very complimentary over the project, and adopted a resolution authorizing the new board of directors to take into consideration the feasibility of building a hall.

Irving Pleasure Club's Excursion. Despite the disagreeable weather of yesterday the Irving Pleasure Club and their many friends spent a most enjoyable day at River View. The gold medal for the best funny dancing was awarded to Master John Downing, who performed many different steps. The judges were Mr. King, of Grosvenor, Messrs. Fergusson of Alexandria, and Mr. Ferguson, of this city.

The new Attorney General should brush away the two years of office dust that cumber the anti-trust law and test its cumber the anti-trust law and test its validity.

As was expected, Congressman Bryan has once again offered up his life in a political speech. After his experience in the last Congress, it is about the only thing he can do.

The fact that a man with suicidal intent jumped off the Brooklyn Bridge and then repented and came safely out of the ordeal should be encouraging to those who have made the flip on the silver question.

Senator Turpie had his mind on Indiana politics when he made that Memphis address.

The expressions of approval from teachers in the public schools about The Times' forthcoming souvenir edition, are very gratifying, and demonstrate the interest that the development of our school system here is another sample.

"Dear Sir—I most heartily favor the 'teachers' edition.' It will not only be a valuable souvenir to the friend, teacher and pupil, but undoubtedly will awaken many latent minds to a knowledge of the principles and methods used in our schools, and the great strides they have taken in the past decade. Thus it will arouse an interest in the system, and the pressing needs which the increasing population of our city demands; also in the teachers, who labor zealously that the country may realize the benefit of our public schools in the future citizen and statesman. Yours, sincerely, 'LYDIA DALTON.'"

The world should certainly be secret of Cuban prophecies. The intemperate claim they want to help from outside sources and yet the Spanish cable has killed them by the thousands. It would be interesting to know how they are reinforced.

Our cartoon to-day is a pictorial prophecy of the end of the Alexander Island outlaw track. Until a few months ago that resort coined money by fleecing foolish frequenters. Its races were "fixed" to rob bettors and the track was truly a goose that abounded in golden eggs. But success in that sort of money making emboldened the outlaw gang, and its open-handed methods finally convinced the racing public that it was folly to bet against a sure thing. As a result patronage at the outlaw track has seriously

THE MAMMOTH SOUVENIR SCHOOL EDITION OF THE WASHINGTON TIMES.

By request of the public school authority, the special souvenir edition of The Times will be issued on Wednesday, the 19th inst. instead of Sunday next, as at first announced.

This postponement of three days is made necessary because many of the most interesting features of the edition are being prepared by the heads of the great departments of the schools under the direction of Superintendent Powell and Cook, and the activity now prevailing incident to the closing of the school year makes the task a somewhat exacting one.

Every possible aid is being rendered by the officials and teachers generally, so that this souvenir edition may be the most complete, accurate and authoritative, as well as absorbing, exposition of school work ever given to the public.

It will tell the public what has been done in the ordinary branches of education, and will dwell at length on the great usefulness and progress of the departments of SEWING, COOKING, DRAWING, MUSIC, MANUAL TRAINING, PHYSICAL CULTURE, ETC.

Every member of the next Congress will see it, so that that body may be fully informed of the work, needs and possibilities of our schools, to the end that more just and intelligent treatment may be accorded them.

Every leading educator in this country and in Europe will read of the importance of Washington as an educational center. Through it every parent and guardian of a public school pupil will acquire additional knowledge of the great system that is doing so much for the youth of the District.

The result is that the work it will lead the general public to take a greater interest in our municipal affairs, more particularly in that portion of them that have to do with public instruction. The result is that the work it will lead the general public to take a greater interest in our municipal affairs, more particularly in that portion of them that have to do with public instruction.

The Times believes that in the publication of this edition it will do a great public service. That those immediately interested in the welfare of the public schools also look at it in this light will be readily seen by the following excerpts from letters already published in these columns:

Commissioner John W. Ross, ex-president of the board of School Trustees: "The Times deems this important subject worthy of such an edition. Among the results of its publication will be no one which is of more far-reaching importance than that which relates to the public schools. It will give to the public a knowledge of the work that is being done in our schools, and which, I believe, is tending to induce many desirable citizens to make Washington their place of residence."

Mr. J. W. Whelpley, president of the Board of School Trustees: "You can do no better service to Washington than to give the public a knowledge of the work that is being done in our schools, and which, I believe, is tending to induce many desirable citizens to make Washington their place of residence."

Mr. J. J. Dillingham, School Trustee: "The more generally and more thoroughly the schools are understood, the more they will be appreciated, with a corresponding increase in their usefulness, and the more easily whatever defects may be pointed out and remedied. Every facility, I am sure, will be accorded you for obtaining the fullest and most accurate information concerning the schools in all their features, and for making the proposed edition of your paper devoted to that subject authentic and complete. A copy of Mrs. Burnett's 'Golden Days,' sixth, a copy of Mrs. Burnett's 'Little Red Fairy-story,' seventh, a copy of Mrs. Burnett's 'Golden Days,' eighth, 'Uncle Sam's Mail Game,' ninth, a yachting game, tenth, eleventh and twelfth, respectively, any book in the Times Library, thirteenth, a box of paints, fourteenth, a historical game, fifteenth, the game of authors, sixteenth, a little girl's sewing box, seventeenth, a box of colored pencils. These premiums are only for public school pupils, and the name of the school attended should be handed in with each order. Their main object is to stimulate the interest of the children in the school edition. Names of winners will be published one week after date of issue of the school edition."

Dr. D. H. Hazen, School Trustee: "The subject is certainly an interesting one, and appeals to all alike who are interested in the schools of the District. I heartily approve of the project, and will cheerfully give the limited assistance in my power."

Major George B. Barnes, School Trustee: "I am very pleased to know that The Times contemplates issuing a special edition for the public school system of the city. That the system is imperfect must be admitted, but it is much more nearly the right thing than are the majority of human inventions. It is necessary that every thinking citizen be fully informed on this most important subject, and for only by co-operation and harmonious insistence can we hope to achieve success before Congress. If I have any information as to school matters, you are welcome to use it as you see fit."

Dr. J. F. Shadd, School Trustee: "The idea of having a special souvenir edition of The Washington Times devoted exclusively to the public schools of the District of Columbia, has my hearty support."

COMING TO THE THEATERS. "Married in Haste" was a most wise selection for the third week of the comedy season at the New National Theater. It is a radical change from the programme of the two previous weeks, and that it meets with thorough approval is attested by the large concourse of people that is nightly at attendance. The serious characters are well portrayed, while the comedy element is in capable hands.

"Our Regiment," the bill selected for the fourth week of the comedy season is a farcical comedy in three acts, by Henry Hamilton. The play is an adaptation from the German of Von Mowse; it has a well told plot and contains Mr. Hamilton's humor that will surely delight the patrons of that organization. The requirements of the cast will embrace the full strength of the stock company.

The sale of seats for the fourth week of the comedy season will open at the box office this morning.

For the eighth and last week of comedy at the Grand Opera House previous to Frederick Bond's departure, the management sent a new three-act comedy entitled "American Assurance." Seats for the last week and next night will be placed on sale this morning. During the present week this excellent ensemble of artists are presenting a bill which is attracting large audiences at every performance. "My Awful Dad," and the one-act fantasy, "Romero's First Love" combine to make up a novel and enjoyable entertainment.

One Appropriate Place. "Miss Clara, will you accompany me to the play?" "I have nothing to wear." "All! Then we will take a box at the opera."

A Hidden Mystery. "Willie, how dare you press leaves in that new Bible." "I ain't ma, I'm hiding sister's new bonnet."

Sounds of Modern Industry. The clinking of the trolley car. The clatter of the street car. The rattle of the soda fountain. The mangle's constant rattle. The working of the slot-machine. As cents and nickles fall. These sounds of modern industry, I love, I love them all.

The clinking of the type-machine. The grumpishness of the small-squaw. The ticking of the stock ticker. The struts grow strong or weak. The meter's merry clattering. Through winter, spring, and fall—These sounds of honest industry, I love, I love them all.
